

STAY 'DOWN SOUTH' ADVICE TO YOUTHS

Wall Street Banker Tells College Students No Section Will Offer Such Opportunities.

University, Va.—"You should not come to New York because there is no section of the country that will offer during the next 25 years such large opportunities as the south."

The advice to stay in the south was given by Charles Cason, vice-president of the Chemical National bank of New York, who spoke to the students of the University of Virginia at the convocation exercises which opened the 104th academic year.

"The New Philosophy of Big Business" was the subject of the address by Mr. Cason who was alumni secretary of Vanderbilt university before he went to New York to become one of the leading figures in Wall Street. He said that he could speak without prejudice because he had lived not only in Wall street but on Main street and 13 miles back on the crude country road.

"There is no place in the world where there is a higher code of honor and ethics than in Wall street," Mr. Cason continued. "Any man of any institution showing the slightest disposition not to play fair is not long allowed to play at all."

"A new type of business man has emerged very rapidly in recent years. This is the new business leader with a vision. He is educated either by his own efforts or through college. He is a daily student of social and economic conditions throughout the world."

"Today we know that real success in business cannot be attained at the expense of others. Business can succeed only in the long run by acquiring and holding the goodwill of the people. To do this it is necessary to render an honest, intelligent service at a fair price."

"I am not suggesting that you enter big business," said Mr. Cason in conclusion. "I am not suggesting that you come to Wall street. If you are seeking adventure, if you want the thrill of creating something you will find it here in the south."

"But no matter where you labor you will be partnership with Wall street, for this is an age of economic unity. In the south there has too long been a disposition to go against the current of American big business and to begrudge even a fair profit to good service."

BRUCE BARTON ON PREACHER'S SONS

One-Third Doomed To Obscurity And One-Third Rule The World.

"One-third of the sons of preachers are doomed to obscurity; one-third achieve mediocre success and the remaining one-third rule the world."

These are the statistics compiled by Bruce Barton for the American Magazine and included in an article which declares that the preacher's son has a distinct advantage over the average youth. He attributes their success to the favorite environment they have during their boyhood.

"The preacher's son has, first of all," says the writer, "what S. E. McClure once said he hoped to bequeath to his children—the advantages of poverty. Very early in life he makes the acquaintance of hard work. He must save money and he has very little of it to save. He knows he must hustle and loses no time in the delusion that somebody is going to 'make' him."

"Furthermore, he is brought up in an atmosphere of good books and fine conversation. He learns the use of words, the magic tools by which men's minds and actions are influenced. Lastly, he is surrounded by the expanding power of faith. In sermon and prayer daily he hears: 'If ye have faith and doubt not; if ye shall say to this mountain, Be thou removed and cast into the sea, it shall be done.' That is the faith that has built railroads and cities."

"The author cites as great examples of preachers' sons who have 'moved mountains': Grover Cleveland, Woodrow Wilson, James Buchanan, Chester A. Arthur, Charles Evans Hughes, Henry Clay and Jonathan P. Dolliver among politicians and states; the great railroad king, Harriman and Cecil Rhodes among financiers; Agassiz, Jenner, Linnæus and Morse among scientists; Parkman, Hallam, Hobbes, Froude and Sileas, historians; Sir Joshua Reynolds among artists; and Sir Christopher Wren among architects. Tennyson, Coleridge, Addison, Cowper, Goldsmith and Emerson are among the writers who were preachers' sons."

Mr. Barton adds to the group Berlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company as an example in the world's newest industry of the ability with which the prevailing one-third of preachers' sons are endowed.

Blanton Speaks At Zion On Rural Church

(Special to The Star.) Our Sunday school is doing good work with Mr. C. T. Cabanis as superintendent, we are striving to attain the standard.

State mission day was observed Sunday with a program led by Miss Madge Irvin, after which Professor Lawton Blanton of Lattimore made a splendid talk "The Importance of a Country Church." Glad to have Professor Blanton with us hope he will visit us again soon.

Among our visitors Sunday night in B. Y. P. U. were Mr. Lowery Aultell of Shelby and Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Kirkpatrick and little son Gene. Miss Emma Gold and Margaret Cabanis visited friends at Cooleme Sunday.

Miss Madge Mauney was at home for the week end from Limestone college.

Mrs. F. P. Gold and Mrs. C. A. Gold of Chesnee, S. C. visited Mrs. Ellen Wilson and family last week.

Sorry to know Mrs. Ralph Gold is in the Shelby hospital for an operation, hope for her a speedy recovery.

An Expensive Luxury

The Gaffney Ledger. American motorists paid $735,226,000 in automobile taxes in 1926, according to a survey just completed.

The largest single item was for $296,000,000 for registration fees in the 48 states and the District of Columbia. The second largest was the gasoline tax and it amounted to $205,000,000.

Personal property taxes on automobiles amounted to $125,000,000, while the excise tax on passenger cars ran to $86,713,000. The same tax on commercial vehicles came to $1,831,903 and for accessories and tires to $5,403,155 while the occupational tax on passenger cars for hire totaled $176,815.

Municipal taxes totaled $15,000,000 thus bringing the grand total to $735,226,173.

Regardless of their cost no one owning an automobile would be without one if it is at all possible to possess one. The number of automobiles in use is constantly growing, due not alone to new buyers but to many families increasing the number owned. Many people have been alarmed about the so-called saturation point.

60 Wives In 30 Years.

Cairo, Egypt.—A prominent resident of Tantas, near Cairo, has gone to trial to determine what became of the 60 women whom he married in 30 years. Some of his wives were lost through divorces allegedly forged and others died mysteriously, authorities say.

Would Settle On City's Differences

(Special to The Star.)

After reading Mr. Dorsey's statement in The Star and after consultation with Dr. Gold on the situation in our city which is calculated to engender strife and unrest in our city, it seems to me that this matter could be settled mutually and stop this strife. I did not vote for Mr. Dorsey, but he was duly elected and is entitled to a fair show. I voted for all four of our aldermen and consider them as god men as we have in our city. I have been acquainted with Dr. Gold for 40 years and his character is unquestioned and he is one of the leading physicians and as a citizen there is not a better citizen in the county, not even in the state. Those other three aldermen I have known from childhood and their record is equal to that of Dr. Gold, and as to the mayor I have not known him but a short while, but I know nothing against his reputation.

Now I suggest that a call meeting be held by the citizens of our city. Let all citizens interested come together and agree upon some terms of compromise and stop this racket as it has a tendency to engender strife.

I make these suggestions and if the editor of The Star thinks these suggestions worth while, make a call say Saturday at 2 o'clock and let us settle this thing.

SAYS STAMMERING IS ON THE INCREASE

Indianapolis.—High tension life and the whirligig of modern pleasures are due to make the United States a nation of stammers by the year 2127.

Fortunately this dire contingency depends upon an increase in the number of stutters and stammerers in the same ratio as the increase in the last 20 years.

Since 1907 stammering among children from three to six years of age has increased 10 per cent, according to Benjamin N. Bogue, widely known authority on speech

"Not only have stuttering and stammering been aggravated but other speech disorders as well," the survey states. "More than a million persons of all ages in the nation today are afflicted with stuttering or stammering."

BRITISH MARRIAGE RATE IS LOWEST SINCE 1886

(By International News Service.)

London.—According to the registrar-general's official figures, the marriage rate in Britain in 1926 was the lowest since 1886—except for the war year of 1917.

And the number of births was the lowest since 1860, when the population was only half what it is now.

Senator Fulton In Serious Condition

The Kings Mountain News of October 11 says:

Little improvement has been noted in the condition of Senator Tom Fulton sr., who has been quite ill for some time, and members of the family yesterday afternoon regarded his condition as "very serious."

Senator Fulton underwent a major operation several months ago and was convalescing at his home when his condition suddenly became worse. About a week ago he was attacked by hiccoughs which all efforts on the part of his attending physician have failed to relieve.
