GIRLS MORE STUDIOUS THAN BOYS AT DUKE U.

Durham.—Women students are more studious than men at Duke university, if records of Phi Beta Kappa elections at the college mean anything, according to Duke officials.

Chosen by the fraternity, a national society of honor students, strictly upon the basis of scholarship, a far larger number of women students in proportion to their numbers have been elected than men students at Duke.

Total enrollment of men during the last four years at Duke has been about 4,055. Of this number, 37 of 0.9 per cent were picked by Phi Beta Kappa. During the same period, 1,375 women were enrolled, 33 or 2.4 per cent becoming honor students, recognized by the fraternity.

Probably about as near as we come in this country to the quaint Old World custom of cabinets walking out in a body is Hoover resigning.—Detroit News.

It's More Convenient To Shop At Home

"I always buy at home because it is more convenient," a customer told us.
"Shopping out of town means a tiresome trip, and if my purchase isn't satisfactory it is difficult to adjust the matter."

With such good stores as we have here, I wonder anyone goes anywhere else."
