Columbia, S. C.—“For several years after I married I suffered from poor health and weakness. I wanted children but was not strong enough. I am now the mother of three very healthy children and my health is fine. When I feel the need of a tonic I always take the 'Prescription.' I cannot say enough in praise of this wonderful medicine for ailing women.”

Mecklenburg Has Extra Name Record

Charlotte Lawyer Answers to Ten. Huntersville Has Few Names

Charlotte Observer. Lawyer D. E. Henderson professes himself quite bored over all this agitation about people with lots of names.

“Why all this stuff about long names?” Mr. Henderson wanted to know last night. “That Kinston fellow may have a man with a long string, but I figure Charlotte still has the lead. There's myself, for instance.”

Mr. Henderson is a prominent Methodist layman and has the reputation for being quite truthful.

His Story.

“When I was a baby,” the attorney went on, “I was a mighty pretty baby. I was the prettiest in the family—the only one, in fact, at that time. All my uncles thought I was mighty pretty and all of them wanted me named for them. My father decided the best way out of it would be to name me for each one.” He did. He added Mr. Henderson's grandfather, however, and a well known Greek orator. This is Mr. Henderson's name.

Jackson Ezekiel David James Nathaniel Sylvester Willis Edward Demetrius Henderson.

Ten names and 75 letters. “That's really my name,” avers Mr. Henderson. “When I was 21 and presented myself to the registrar I was required to swear to my full name. That's the name I swore to.”

How's This One?

Those Observer correspondents from Kinston and other places who have been worrying the past week or so over the number of names possessed by their respective candidates evidently haven't heard of the Huntersville Fullams. The Fullams are tenant farmers and every spring they try to plant one acre of cotton for each name. If the cotton pans out they'll be assured of a neat year's income. There's Lee, for instance. His full name is Leroy Richard Monroe Covington Robert Lee Alexander Fullam. He's called Lee for short. Whether the Lee's for the Leroy or the next to the last given name Lee says he doesn't know.

Mrs. Fullam's name, too, is ample. It adds eight names to the cotton crop. Naomi Jane Bain Suzanna Miranda Roxanna Alexander Fullam is all that she can remember of her name, it is explained.

Mr. Fullam at times is rather sensitive about his long cognomen. One day he presented himself at the postoffice window with the request that his mail be handed through the grating. “What is your name?” He was asked. “That doesn't make any difference,” he rejoined. “It'll be on the envelope.”

Elliott Reunion To Be Held Aug. 25th

One In Rutherford Also, But the Cleveland County Elliotts Will Unite Aug. 25

Editor Star: While this bears the prima facie evidence of a premature announcement, it shall be briefly explained by the sequel.

Allusion is hereby made to the annual festival known as The Elliott Reunion, which is a time-honored institution and is featured for the fourth Saturday in August of each recurring season. Strictly in conformity with the annual calendar, this means August 25, 1928.

There seems to be another Elliott reunion, which is staged in Rutherford county, North Carolina; and will be held for August 12, 1928. The original Elliott reunion assemblies at Elliott church, 14 miles south west of Shelby, the program means a day of unfettered solid enjoyment for all who attend, and that generally means several hundred; for the Elliotts are a prolific family, and at a feast of loaves and fish, everybody for miles around, including Shelby, Kings Mountain, Lattimore, Mooresboro, Ellenboro, Gastonia, Charlotte and elsewhere; make this point a joyous Mecca and bring their appetites with them.

Severe penalties are imposed upon any who attempt to trouble the political waters; and whose trieth to deliver a political harangue shall be in danger of hell fire. We learn that Hon. A. L. Bulwinkle, congressman from ninth congressional district is to be present; also Mr. Mike Autell, his political manager in primary. As for that all are invited who do repent of their sins, have a desire to flee the wrath to come; who desire ice-water and a four-cornered meal, and who will suppress any inclination toward oratory; are assured of a cordial welcome. Knowing newspaper men excel in gastronomic gymnastics, we can feed some of that cadaverous craft.

Page Sees No Need For More Highway Bonds

Raleigh, July 31.—Tax payers of North Carolina today had the assurance of Frank Page, highway commissioner, that the state will not have to issue any more bonds for completion of its highway system.

If the gasoline tax is kept inviolate for road purposes, the commissioner said the state will have attained by the end of the present fiscal year a self-prepaying, self-increasing highway system.

If the income from the four cent tax on each gallon of gasoline keeps up the rate of 350 miles a year from the revenue, even with considerably less than the present annual increase in motor traffic, maintain all its roads, pay interest on all highway indebtedness and completely wipe out its highway debt by 1932, according to the commissioner.

Mr. Page said his opinions were based upon the actual workings of the road financing system.

Tunney A Killer And How It Works

The Raleigh Times.

Tunney The Killer! And what a killer! Not a smashing, devastating assassin like Dempsey, but a more terrible variety. A catlike killer that plays with his victim for rounds and rounds, cruelly withholding the coupe de grace, prolonging the agony, smearing the blood, giving the crowd its money's worth.

Poor old Heeneey! Gallant Heeneey with the fighting heart and nothing else. Half-blinded but boring in, boring in, bloody as a duck but carrying the fight all the time to the opponent he cannot see. Heeneey with the ability and the willingness to take it but without the punch.

A salty tear for Tex Rickard! Canny old Rickard who promoted the fight and lost a hundred thousand and berries. Poor old Rickard with the steam yacht who never lost a nickle before in his life. What a terrible nick that hundred thousand smackers is going to make in his bank account. We weep for Mr. Rickard.

The good old public! The funny public that preferred to listen to the fight over the distro and caused Mr. Rickard much distress.

Rickard vs. Public! Round One: Rickard swings. The Public forgets to duck. Rickard jets with a Carpenter and jabs with a Dempsey. The public is groggy at the bell. Round Two: The Public rushes in fighting but Rickard drives his Fripo to the pocketbook and brings up Dempsey to the jaw. Round Three: Rickard drives the Public around the ring with a series of Maloney's Berlenbachs and Delaneys. Round Four: The Public is hanging on and Rickard is pounding its kidneys with Dempsey and Sharkeys.

Round Five: The Public gamely tries to carry the fight to Rickard but he leads with a Dempsey and crosses with a Tunney. Round Six: The Public is groggy. Rickard seems to be pulling his punches. Now he leads with that Dempsey again and brings his Tunney to the bottom. The Public is down. The referee is waving Rickard to a neutral corner. Cns - two-three-four-five-six-seven eight-nine—The Public is up. My how the Public can take it. The Public is weaving in fighting.

Round Seven: Rickard is using his Heeneey and trying to clinch but the Public is staying away and trading punches at long range. Rickard seems hurt and worried at the bell but was still using his Tunney. What will happen in the next round? Will Rickard crown the crowd with another Tunney or with another trusty Dempsey?

ROLL YOUR BARREL, IF EMPTY, SAYS RICHARDS

Columbia.—There's a new kind of “stunt” brewing, but that's all that must be brewing in connection with it, according to a statement from the office of Governor Richards.

The governor has a letter from Todar Alex, written at Lackawanna, N. Y., stating that he proposes to roll a barrel from Buffalo, N. Y., to Miami, Fla., and asking if he may have permission to roll his barrel across the state of South Carolina. “Personally I have no objection to your rolling a barrel across this state, provided it is empty,” governor replied.

The man didn't say whether he proposed a non-stop roll, or whether he was rolling on a wager.

HOOVER TO SEEK VOTE OF FARMERS

G. O. P. Nominee Arranges In Bid for Agricultural Vote

Chicago.—A conference between the Republican presidential nominee, Herbert Hoover, and representatives of the farm relief sentiment in Iowa and other Midwest states has been arranged for August 22 and 23 at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, it has been announced at western campaign headquarters here.

James W. Good, western campaign manager for Mr. Hoover, said in making the announcement that “the real problem now is in meeting the Iowa farmers.” The Republican nominee, Mr. Good stated, would make no public addresses in Cedar Rapids, but would devote his time to conferences with farm leaders who have sought to discuss the agricultural situation with him.

A public mass meeting has been arranged for the evening of August 22, to be addressed by other speakers.

Dates for the conferences were fixed to coincide with Mr. Hoover's return to the village of his birth, West Branch, Iowa, where he is to speak August 21.

Leaders in the fight for farm relief during recent years will be asked to attend the Cedar Rapids conferences. Mr. Good said, so that the Republican nominee may have the benefit of their views in the shaping of a farm program that will prove acceptable. It was indicated that representatives of the corn belt committee, which has for its aim the improvement of agriculture conditions, would be invited to take part in the conference.

Still alive, he tightened two ties about his neck and was strangled to death.

WOULD BEAUTIFY N. C. ROAD SYSTEM

News & Observer.

The general assembly of 1929 will be asked to amend the state highway laws to permit the use of road funds for planting trees and shrubs along the right of way of state highways. It was announced yesterday following a conference of Frank Page, state highway commissioner, Wade H. Phillips, director of the department of conservation and development and J. S. Holmes, state forester for the conservation department.

The state officials were informed that at the last session of congress the federal highway act was amended in order to allow federal road funds to be used “to plant and maintain shade trees along the highways authorized by said act.”

Authority for the use of federal and state funds in beautifying highways by tree-planting, the state officials said, will assure North Carolina of means to turn her good road system into a series of the most attractive motor lanes in the country. They declare that there has been an increasing demand from various women's organizations, civic and patriotic societies, and individuals for the development of the scenic possibilities of the highways of North Carolina.
