MAN'S MEMORY RESTORED ON SEEING NAME IN PAPER

Tulsa, Okla.—After being known 11 years as "the man without a name," Patrick F. Taggart finds himself again in possession of his memory.
He was found on the outskirts of Tulsa, lying near a railroad track. He had been slugged, robbed and left wounded. He was taken to the Y. M. C. A., where he lived as "the man without a name" until he saw the word "Taggart" in a newspaper headline.

"That's my name!" he excitedly told C. E. Bouchner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Previously, a Memorial day parade caused the strange man to recall that he was with the colors in 1898. The surname and the knowledge of military service opened the way to an investigation which revealed the man was Patrick F. Taggart, 49, an honorably discharged veteran of the Spanish-American war.

"A delicate brain operation, paid for by A. L. Funk, an oil man, brought back more of Taggart's memory and relieved the paralysis which afflicted him. Then Taggart remembered that his wife and child died of influenza in California and that he was going back to his native Boston when he became lost in Tulsa. Friends have obtained a soldier's pension for the man who has experienced so much misfortune.

"I've got money now, and I am on top of the world," Taggart says.

GREEN FAMILY EXTENDS THANKS TO FRIENDS

Not being able to see all our friends in person, we take this method of thanking those who were so sympathetic in their expressions to us on the occasion of the tragic death of Guy Green, one of the victims in the terrible disaster in Shelby this week. It was a great source of comfort to have so many come to us in our hours of sorrow and distress.—Mrs. Guy Green, R. V. Green and family, Hoyle F. Turner and family, Mooresboro.

"Sweet Afton"

The Afton river referred to in "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," is a stream of Scotland in southeastern Ayrshire. It rises near the junction of that country with Dumfries and Galloway, and flows nine miles north into the Nith near New Cumnock church.

MEET GUSSIE!

Keep your hand on your heart and the other on your change-pocket. Gussie is the sort of hat-check girl that makes men forget—forget that she is a hat-check girl. She serves smiles with overcoats and crushes hearts with derbies. Gussie is the proprietress of a slim trim, fetching figure, a tip-provoking smile and a vocal "line" that is static's only rival. This shapely, witty, smiling, clever bit of femininity is co-star.

BLACKSBURG AIRPORT NOW BEING IMPROVED

Blacksburg.—Grading and conditioning of the Blacksburg landing field was begun Tuesday, by Boyd and Goforth, contractors, of Charlotte and, it is said, it will be completed within two weeks. The improvement is under the direction of the department of commerce, and it is said that other developments will follow, looking towards the establishment of a regular airport, or port-of-call, at Blacksburg.
It is expected that a formal opening will follow the completion of the field, in connection with the celebration of the semi-centennial anniversary of the founding of the town of Blacksburg which was chartered in 1878.

LAST U. S. SI YEAR MAN QUILTS ENGLAND FOR HOME

London.—Boylston Beal, honorary counsellor of the American embassy, known here as the "last of the dollar-a-year men," is leaving London to take up his residence in Boston.
Mr. Beal was born in Boston, was graduated from the Harvard law school and practiced law in Boston. He was in Berlin in 1914, when the war broke out and became attached to the American embassy. In July, 1914, when the American embassy took over all English interests in Berlin, he was placed in charge of the English contingent and remained in Germany until all the women and children had been sent to their own country.

Return From Camping.

Stillwell, Paul Wootton and Fred Morton returned yesterday from a five day camping trip through Tennessee and Kentucky, the trip taking them as far as the Mammoth Cave, which they report to be the most interesting site they beheld. They travelled several miles in a boat on the underground river where the fish are blind and the outlet of the river is unknown.

AT THE MOVIES—

"The Return of Peter Grimm" holds forth at the Princess theatre today. This is a picturized presentation of the stage drama in which David Warfield scored one of the greatest successes of his interesting career. It was written by David Belasco and the performance of Janet Haynor explains why this beautiful little actress is just about the most promising player in the motion picture business today. Saturday Buck Jones in "The Branded Sombere," a two gun drama of a ten gallon hat. Playing with Buck Jones is Leila Hyams, playing role of ranch heroine. Her parents are well known in vaudeville boards.

Watch For Gardner Speech Over State

Max Gardner, who will be the next governor of North Carolina if the stars keep shining until an election can be held, will make his first public proclamation of his campaign at Boone Monday and, very naturally, he will not only be heard eagerly by the folks of the mountain territory, but the state will await with tense interest his primary deliverances in this campaign.

To a degree that few, if any man in the history of the commonwealth has possessed, Mr. Gardner enjoys the esteem and confidence of those of his party as well as the respect and admiration of the citizens of North Carolina generally, whatever their political affiliations may be. It can reasonably be expected, therefore, that his remarks will weigh heavily in influence and the path that he pioneers for himself will be followed by thousands of his fellow-Democrats who will feel more safety in treading once he has cut the way.

Mr. Gardner's main business will be, we anticipate, to solidify sentiment for the state ticket and to guard with jealous care the party's destiny as it concerns itself primarily with the government of this commonwealth. He is the one man of them all in this campaign who is capacitated to keep the state majority intact and even to swell it to a conspicuous degree in the November voting.

HE'S A CANDIDATE BUT REFUSES TO CAMPAIGN

Topeka, Kan.—J. Edward Barker, who is seeking the Republican nomination for representative in Wyandotte county, is conducting a campaign unique in this state.

In fact he has made no campaign. His only activity has been to file for the office and distribute a few cards showing he was a candidate.

He has not asked a solitary person to vote for him and will not.

He is trying a theory he has held for years, that the wholesale use of results; that a man who will sell money cuts little figure in election to one candidate will sell out to his opponent; also that when a man offers himself as a candidate the people should not be log-rolled and caajoled into voting for him; that he should give them perfect freedom in their choice and accept their decision.

If he wins, he says, he will do the best he can in the legislature; if he loses, the smoke will go up the chimney just the same. Barker comes from one of the oldest and wealthiest families in Wyandotte county.

Their Tastes Differed

A curious fact in connection with Chang and Eng, the famous Siamese conjoined twins, was that one was very fond of wine and drank it freely while the other was a teetotaler, and this often gave rise to strife.

Osteopathy

The principles of osteopathy were first discovered and formulated in 1874 by Dr. Andrew T. Still, a physician of Baldwin, Kan. The first college of osteopathy was opened at Kirksville, Mo., in 1892.

What Mother Love Does
Writers of fiction do not have to use their imaginations to contrive original "mother love" plots, meditates the Greenville News, for, it says, they are revealed with touching regularity in newspaper accounts, as, for example, in a Baltimore incident which has found its way into print.

A woman of some prominence has been accused of disposing of a half million dollars worth of jewels which she had purchased on credit in order to pay the gambling debts of a worthless son. She kept up the practice in the home that the boy "would do better" and earn enough to repay the debts before the time of reckoning came. But the worm did not turn and the tragedy is laid bare.

The mother is the wife of a multimillionaire, but she held the secret from her husband because she did not want him to know the depths to which their boy had fallen. Just like a mother.

Surry County Granite to Front

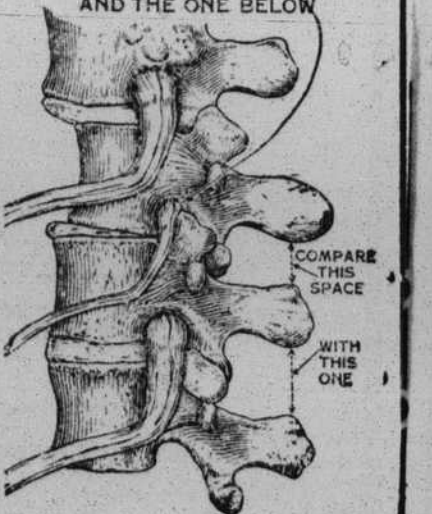

From The Winston-Salem Journal. According to a report just issued by the North Carolina department of conservation and development, the Surry county granite quarries in 1927 had an output valued at $4,596,000, while the entire state's output was valued at only $4,879,000. It will be seen from these figures that Surry county is yielding practically all the granite the state of North Carolina is now producing.

The Mount Airy product is fast taking high place in the commercial world, this stone being regarded of extra fine uniformity and durability. At this time one of the concerns in Mount Airy is filling a big order for the United States government, supplying the stone for the Arlington Memorial Bridge across the Potomac at Washington.

The Eight Month's Term

From The Raleigh Times. Governor McLean's proposed plan favoring an eight months school term by steady increases in the equalization fund until 1929-30 probably the most practical and cautious means by which to attain an end favored by all the special school interests and rather blithely endorsed by unanimous resolution of the N. C. Press association. This program is tendered in lieu of the other proposal for a constitutional amendment fixing eight months as the minimum requirement for the public schools.

COMPARE THIS NERVE

The only standard by which the worth of anything can be judged is by the usefulness to humanity. The only measure of the merits of any health science is the relief it gives to suffering humanity. Chiropractic spinal adjustments replace the abnormal vertebrae (see second bone in cut) releasing the pinch on the spinal nerve (see second nerve in cut) allowing free flow of nerve force from the brain down the spinal cord and out over the nerves to the weak internal organ, muscle or gland to which the pinched nerve supplies. Nature does the healing.
