

THE STAR'S NEW 24 PAGE GOSS ROTARY PRESS

This is a picture of The Cleveland Star's new twenty-four page Goss rotary press which was put in operation last Wednesday for the first time. Mr. John MacDonald of the Duplex Printing Press Co. has been engaged in its erection for the past four weeks, while Mr. Kennel of the Certified Dry Mat Corporation of New York has been on hand for a week teaching The Star's organization how to operate the stereotype department.

Circulation Up 200. The Star is said to be the only local newspaper outside the daily field in North Carolina that is using a rotary press. It was made necessary to meet the growth in size and circulation of the paper. Hereafter ten and 12 page papers and often 16 page issues will be issued when occasion demands. Already the circulation has jumped nearly 200. In a single day last week 118 subscribers were added at the Cleveland Cloth mill, thus placing the paper in every home in the village every other day. Special features, such as sports, spot news pictures, fashion hints, comic strips, etc., have been added. Every now and then an up-to-date magazine page and full page of news in pictures will be printed. This new press will print 20,000 papers an hour up to 12 pages. Above 12 pages, it will print either 16, 20, or 24 pages an hour at a speed of 10,000 an hour. Invited To See It. Friends of The Star are invited to come in and see the press. It will be in operation between 3 and 3:30 o'clock on the afternoons of Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Mr. Euck Hardin who has been connected with The Star for many years will operate the press and the stereotype department.

Is Prohibitionist But Agrees On Smith On All Other Subjects.

Aberdeen.—Hon. Robert N. Page, one of the leaders in the national congress from which he voluntarily retired greatly to the regret of his constituents, has made a statement of his attitude in this campaign. This is done in an interview with R. F. Beasley, Jr., Mr. Page's full statement is as follows: "You ask me about my attitude toward the present campaign, particularly toward the candidate of the party to which I have belonged for a life time, Governor Alfred E. Smith. I have deferred giving out any statement until after I should have had opportunity to read his speech of acceptance of the nomination given him by the Houston convention. Now that I have read it I am in the same frame of mind I have found myself after knowing the position of every candidate of my party since General Hancock in 1880, the first presidential candidate for whom I voted; each one of them has incorporated into his speech of acceptance something which I personally did not agree with. After so long a period of activity as I have had in this immediate section no small part of it in active politics, and never within my knowledge having concealed any attitude I may have had toward public questions, it seems unnecessary to make reference to my position as touching prohibition of the liquor traffic. Since the early eighties when I aligned myself with those then engaged in trying to outlaw the traffic in North Carolina, I have cast my vote and used such influence as I had to promote temperance. In doing this I have not always agreed with those leading the movement as to the efficiency of the methods used. I am no less a prohibitionist than through all these years, and in the light of the events of the past ten years I do not agree with Governor Smith in his attitude toward the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution, though I believe now, and believed then (prior to the adoption of the amendment) that had the method he now advocates been adopted and pursued, there would have been a great deal more sobriety in this land of ours than there is today under the operation of the amendment, as administered by the last eight years under the Republican administrations of Harding and Coolidge.

"And, as a follower of the teachings of Thomas Jefferson's theory of government, theoretically I am convinced that we should not only have enjoyed a greater degree of sobriety, but our people would have had much more respect for the law. However, I am convinced first of all of the honesty of the Democratic candidate, of his patriotism, his very high attainments and gifts in governmental administration. I agree with his position upon every other problem that he has discussed in his speech. Believing in his honesty and his ability, I also believe he will honestly administer the affairs of government, and in the interest of the masses of the people; that under him there will be no 'Teapot Domes' peddling of Liberty Bonds among the high officials of the party to pay campaign debts with money wrongfully obtained, or any of the many scandals that have disgraced the last eight years of Republican administration. And knowing full well that while he will do just what he has said, recommend modifying amendments to the prohibition amendment, I know equally well that the sentiment of this nation is such that he cannot possibly accomplish that purpose; admiring his frankness and courage, I shall keep my political clothes on perfectly straight and vote the Democratic ticket from the president on down.

"I recall with some distinctness a time in North Carolina's political history when many of our people, because they did not agree about some comparatively unimportant matter, lost their political heads and in their madness turned this good state over to Russell and radicalism. Most men's political memories are short. To vindicate yourself or your opinion upon any one question involved at the risk of bringing political chaos and ruin, is to say the least, exercising poor judgment. Party name or regularity may mean nothing to you, but no one has yet discovered another, or better way to conduct the government under our system. There can be no such animal as a 'Hoover Democrat,' and however patriotic one may be who supports Mr. Hoover for the presidency, he is not a Democrat but a Republican."

concerned about the flapper vote, but what worries our states most is the flapper vote.—The New Yorker. "Wall Street's Chief Worry Is Tight Money."—Head-line. For once we can view Wall Street with sympathetic understanding.—Florence (Ala.) Herald. While we believe the talk we hear about shatter-proof wind-shields, we'd feel even more cheerful if the poles along the streets and highways were made of rubber.—Nashville Banner. Any campaign prediction will be premature until the country learns how the carpet-sweeping industry stands on Hoover and what the cough-drop industry thinks of

Plans To Continue Operating Hotel At Piedmont Springs Through Winter.

Blacksburg.—J. H. Harris is now sole owner of the Piedmont Springs property, comprising approximately 200 acres and including the Franco-Joan hotel, recently completed by Mr. Harris and his partner, C. L. Faber the latter having sold his interest to Mr. Harris, who will continue the operation of the hotel and mineral water business. Mr. Faber and family have returned to his home at Fort Pierce, Fla.

The hotel building is unique, being of log construction neatly chinked, and having 40 rooms with baths and the conveniences. The furnishings are plain but neat and comfortable. The large dining room answers the purpose of a dance hall, where dancing is scheduled for every Tuesday night for square dances. Music is furnished by the Shelby band, and Mr. and Mrs. Harris personally supervise the entertainment as well as the management of the hotel.

Black-Draught

My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night another. In a few days I felt much better. I was hungry and the dizziness was gone.

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year."

Theford's Black-Draught has been found to relieve sick headaches in thousands of cases that were due to constipation. Containing no mineral drugs, it acts gently, yet promptly. Try it.

Missour' Man's Family Number. 6'744--He Is Just A Doctor

Has Brought That Many Babies Into Existence in Fifty-Six Years Practice.

Bunker, Mo.—Some day you may be walking down the street in Helsingfors of Tokio or some place and might meet somebody who hails from Bunker, Mo.

If you do, the chances are 100 to 1 that he knows Doc (Dr. J. B.) Gordon, and the chances are 10 to 1 that Doc Gordon brought that person into the world.

For Doc Gordon, 77-year-old family doctor of this town, has officiated at the birth of 6,744 babies during his 56 years of practice here. At a recent anniversary celebration, 400 of the "babies" gathered at the doctor's home.

Many of Doc Gordon's babies are grandparents now. Hundreds are parents and the others range in age from a few days to twenty-one years. Just the day before the celebration, Doc Gordon drove several miles into the country to bring a new citizen into the world.

In 1871, Doc Gordon will tell you, he helped the stork at $5 per help; now he gets $25. For 26 years he rode horseback through woods that boasted no better highways than paths. Then he bought a horse and buggy. Now he spins over the road in a "little car."

Messages to Doc Gordon came from every corner of the world when he marked his anniversary recently. The postmarks of African towns, South American countries and European lands were numerous.

Doctor Gordon thinks that bringing a baby into the world is one of a doctor's biggest responsibilities.
