

An All-American Holdover

By QUIN HALL.

THE race for football supremacy in the Pacific Coast Conference is going to be a pretty hot affair again this year with five elevens having a look-in at the title, according to early predictions.

Last season the official standings showed Stanford, Southern California and Idaho tied for the honor with the status of the last named open to dispute in the face of a schedule which did not call for games with California or Washington. Idaho suffered no defeats but had two tie games, while Southern California and Stanford had but one tie and no losses, the tie being their own 13-13 game.

This year the struggle is likely to center among the teams representing Southern California, Stanford, Oregon State and Idaho with an outside chance for Washington State with fourteen letter men and a championship freshman team returning to furnish excellent material for a bang-up varsity aggregation.

Jesse Hibbs, who was chosen as an All-American tackle pretty generally by experts following the finish of the season last year, will be back with his line plunging tactics to bolster the Southern California line. Hibbs succeeds the great Morley Drury as captain and one of the big problems confronting Coach Howard Jones will undoubtedly hinge on developing a player to take the place of the great Drury—not an easy task in the life of any coach.

While Drury, one of the most fiery and elusive quarterbacks of the past years, will be missed at Southern California, the presence of an experienced lineman like Hibbs on the squad will have its good influence. Hibbs is a capable tackle. In addition, Jones has veterans back for the ends, centre and one guard position. With experienced timber in these spots, he should build a line which will help open up the paths for his backfield.

The annual struggle on the Pacific Coast is always interesting and is closely followed by football fans throughout the country. This wide interest is increased lately through the scheduling of inter-sectional games between the Coast elevens and teams representing the Middle West and East.

This year four such struggles are on the books. Washington will mix with Chicago at Chicago on November 23; Stanford plays the Army in New York on December 1; Oregon State will try conclusions with New York University on November 29, and Notre Dame will hook up with Southern California at Los Angeles on December 1. While all of these games are enthusiastically anticipated, the last named seems to hold the inside track on creating widespread interest.

Last year this Notre Dame-Southern California clash brought in some 113,000 paid customers. The battle was waged in Chicago on Soldier Field and was played before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a gridiron match. The game was won by Notre Dame, 7 to 6. This year's game probably will not attract so large a crowd, but the interest will be just as intense. The Army-Stanford game at New York will prove another big gate attraction and should play to capacity.

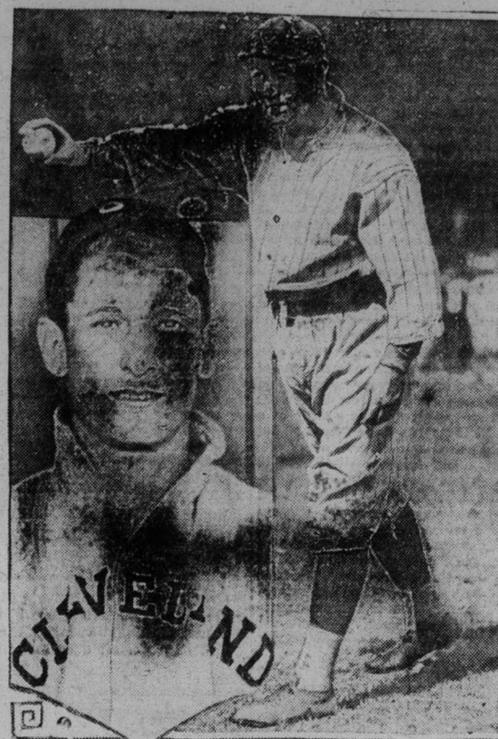

Hibbs and his team face a tough schedule and not the least among the games scheduled is the one booked for Saturday which will bring the Trojans against "Nibbs" Price's California "Golden Bears" at Berkeley. This is one of the classics of the Pacific Coast season every year. The Trojans took the Bears last year to the tune of 13 to 0.

This game will furnish an early line on the ability of two of the outstanding elevens in the Pacific Coast Conference. A victory will give either team an edge in future dopings.

ABSOLUTELY - the most thrilling performance of my experience... and then think of the price

Thus, thousands are voicing their new discovery! And the occasion—a nation-wide program of personal demonstrations on the greatest scale in Hudson history. New thousands literally "discovered" Hudson for the first time. For the first time they travelled so fast with such safety, smoothness and exhilarating ease. For the first time they witnessed incomparable performance delivered with a fuel economy that averaged from 16 to 18 miles per gallon, according to the local conditions of demonstration. And the concrete results were the largest proportion of Hudson retail sales of any demonstration program of all time.
