Now that the deep well has been finished on the court square to supply eight gallons of water per minute, the mayor and aldermen of the town of Shelby, who agreed to build a fountain and provide and maintain the power pump, have two plans drawn for a fountain.

There is a definite move on in Shelby for extending the corporate limits of the town. This has been talked for some time, but it seems that the legal machinery for such extension, so nothing can be done until after the next legislature meets.

Rev. C. F. Sherrill and Mrs. Sherrill will arrive in Shelby next week from Guilford college where he has been pastor. He was superannuated by the Western North Carolina conference and will make his home here in new residence being under process of erection at Jones place on East Warren street.

TEN YEARS AGO. October 25, 1918.

The influenza situation has not improved as indications tended to foretell at the beginning of the week. Yesterday's report showed 119 new cases in Shelby and vicinity.

Most of those reported are in Shelby proper. There have been 16 deaths in Shelby within three days this week. New cases are reported daily at Lawndale, Grover, Kings Mountain, Boiling Springs and many cases are being reported daily from every section of the county.

In the history of Shelby no such calamity as the present epidemic has befallen the town. There has been more suffering, more loss of time and energy, and more deaths than in any other period of the town's history.

19 Killed, 26 Hurt Here

Nineteen persons were killed and 26 were injured during a recent race in Milan, Italy, as a result of the crash pictured here. Signor Materassi, famous European racer, traveling 120 miles an hour, crashed into another car, hurtled over a guard rail and plowed through a crowd of spectators. The death car finally came to rest as shown. Materassi was among those killed.

Piedmont Opening Delayed to Nov. 12th

Vacation of Six Weeks To Allow Students To Pick Cotton—Pickers Are Short.

(Special to The Star.) Piedmont high school will not open till Monday, November 12. This will make a vacation of six weeks. We are doing this in order to help the farmers. Despite the great number of unemployed in the state according to reports, there is a great scarcity of cotton pickers in this portion of Cleveland county and the farmers are dependent largely on the children to help gather the crop.

The work of the first two months of the session was fine and we are hoping that every child will be in school promptly on November 12. Investment in education is the best investment that fathers and mothers can make for their children, who as Dr. Charles McKiever used to say are "The seed corn of civilization."

With best wishes for you and for the best county newspaper in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Spangler spent the week-end in Charlotte.

Methodists Leave Political Topics

Charlotte, Oct. 25.—Ministers and lay delegates attending the sessions of the annual meeting of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference, in the First Methodist church here, today settled down to consideration of the business of the conference.

The storm of yesterday which fellowed adoption of a resolution opposing any but "dry" candidates in the political campaign did not come up this morning, when ministers and others plunged into the second day's work of the meeting. Speed and precision marked the conduct of this morning's sessions.
