

Shelby Market. Cotton 18 1/2c Cotton Seed, bu. 61 1/2c

Rain For Tonight. Today's North Carolina Weather Report: Increasing cloudiness followed by rain late tonight and Tuesday. Slightly cooler tonight in northeast portion.

Kills Three. J. W. Hinkle, textile mill book-keeper, on Saturday night killed two of his children and himself in the woods a few miles from High Point. The bodies were found by a searching party early Sunday morning. All three were shot by a .38 calibre pistol. The father and the two children—Virgil, 10 year-old boy, and Elizabeth, seven-year-old girl, left the home for a walk late Saturday afternoon while the mother was preparing supper.

Cotton Ginning In County 17,134 Bales To Oct. 18th

Cleveland county ginned 17,134 bales of cotton up to October 18 of this year, compared with 21,907 bales up to the same date a year ago, according to figures compiled from the gins of the county by Miles H. Ware, special agent for the census department of the U. S. government. This is somewhat lower than last year and causes the readers of The Star to vary their guesses somewhat on the amount of the entire crop. The crop is later and may catch up with a year ago with a good season for harvest, but the wet weather seriously cut the crop, others contend.

GUESSES POUR IN AT LAST MOMENT

Guessing Time Is Over—Winner will Receive $5 When Total Crop Is Known. Guesses poured in at The Star office Saturday on the cotton crop Cleveland county will make this year and the most accurate guesser will receive $5 from The Star when the total ginnings are finally announced. The guessing closed Saturday October 27, on the very day when the Census department announced that up to October 18 there had been ginned in the county 17,134 bales as compared with 21,907 bales up to the same date a year ago. No more guesses will be taken as the late guessers would have the advantage of knowing the periodical gin reports.

Some of the late guesses are F. M. Ledbetter 43,500; L. R. Gordon 43,977; Alma Gordon 48,910; Mrs. Lee R. Gordon 45,000; J. J. Powell 41,495; C. W. Anthony 46,720; Clara Mae Gordon 47,875; B. P. Barrett 42,550; G. G. Davis 47,932; Janie Davis 49,200; Mrs. Annie Warlick 26,789; Lowell McSwain 44,976; Thelma Jolley 47,552; J. A. Lovelace 46,389; Miss Mary Camp 35,363; Miss Anna Camp 30,240; Mrs. J. A. Lovelace 49,000; J. A. Wilson 47,674; Mrs. D. C. Elliott 39,999; David Elliott 41,886; Mrs. Guy Roberts 49,557; J. D. Boyles 41,500; R. L. Armour 44,372; Mrs. R. L. Armour 45,988; Veva Armour 46,233; Robert Earle Armour 47,977; Inez Armour 48,989; Isabel Armour 45,154; Mrs. J. F. Harris 44,806; Tom Canipe 39,999; B. J. Grigg 38,999; Mrs. B. J. Grigg 43,763; Mrs. Susan Canipe 41,459.

Hits Mr. Raskob. "The courtesy of selecting a national chairman is accorded the party leader and whom did he select? Mr. Raskob, an out-standing, big-business Republican, a member of the most exclusive Republican club in America, dominated by that Republican leader, Mr. Vare. And I might tell you that he hoped to get Vare's support, but Vare wouldn't come over. Democratic leaders are when they ask us to support the Democratic ticket out of party loyalty when their leader, Mr. Smith himself has picked as his chairman Mr. Raskob, a big business Republican who has never voted the Democratic ticket in his life.

Congressman Newby charged that Smith and Raskob have entered a conspiracy to deliver the Democratic party into the hands of a branch of the Republican party.

Mrs. Champion At Funeral Of Father. Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Champion have returned from a hurried visit to Mrs. Champion's old home at Wagner, S. C., where the couple attended the funeral of Mrs. Champion's father, Mr. J. M. Fox. Mr. Fox's funeral was held Friday.

HOOPER SUPPORT ASKED OF ANTIS HERE BY SPEAKER

Says Election Of Smith Would Be Greatest Calamity—Wants To Make A Saloon Party.

"I want to urge you men and women to support Mr. Herbert Hoover, that great executive approved by President Woodrow Wilson," declared Congressman Nathan Newby of California, a native of North Carolina who is delivering a series of anti-Smith speeches in North Carolina. He was speaking Saturday and there was hand-clapping all over the court room when he made the statement. The court room was about two-thirds filled. Some of them were Republicans, however, and others were known to be strong Smith supporters, but the bulk were anti-Smith voters.

The crowd was rather large considering the fact that other places were drawing on the people. Cole Blease was speaking at Gastonia, a big wedding was under way and the big Saturday night shopping was going on, but many turned aside long enough to hear Mr. Newby. Mr. Newby devoted most of his attack of Governor Smith because of his stand on prohibition and charged that he was a member of Tammany which had been a traitor to Cox and Davis, the last two presidential candidates, yet "Cox and Davis are kissing the hand that smote them."

"The election of Alfred Smith to the presidency would be the greatest calamity that could befall America," declared Congressman Newby. "Our friends of the Democratic fold are urging us to support him because of party loyalty, but I tell you as a Democrat that there are times when party loyalty should be tossed to the winds and we should vote our convictions and for principles. That time has come." "In all of the legislative career of Alfred Smith, he has voted against every moral issue and in the interest of the liquor people. He sent Norman E. Mack down to the Houston convention to try to get a wet plank written in the platform. They wouldn't believe that Mack was speaking for Smith, but when Mr. Smith was asked about it, he wired back that he did want a wet plank. They refused to give it to him and yet he was nominated. Just as soon as the nomination was over and he felt that he had it, he repudiated the dry plank and every since has done the best he can to make the Democratic party the saloon party."

"A man who would repudiate his party is not worthy of the honor that has been accorded him as standard bearer of his party. Smith has let it be known that he is a wet candidate and practised a piece of Tammany strategy by taking a wet stand in the hope of capturing the vote of the North and hoping that the South would stay in the Democratic fold as it has always done.

From Gaffney Ledger: Mrs. Elizabeth Cabaniss, 77, wife of J. W. Cabaniss, of Chesnee, route 2, died at her home Tuesday morning at 8:30. Mrs. Cabaniss was born in Cleveland county, N. C., October 18, 1850. She was the daughter of Henry Powell and Jane Costner Powell. For 45 years Mrs. Cabaniss has been a resident of Chesnee. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. Susan Potter, Chesnee, route 2; Mrs. C. O. Bishop, Chesnee, route 2; D. P. Cabaniss, Union; R. L. and H. B. Cabaniss, of Lockhart. Brothers and sisters who survive are: William Powell, Cowpens; Mrs. Mag McEntire of Lawndale, N. C.; Mrs. Georgia Green, of Lattimore, N. C., and Mrs. Sam Blanton, of Gaffney, route 9. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Piedmont church. The Rev. C. M. Griffin, Chesnee, was the officiating minister, and Z. Blackwell was the funeral director.

Several Regulars Behind With Studies Are Not Eligible. Other Games. The Shelby high football eleven for the first time in many years will not enter the state high football series for the North Carolina championship. It was announced at noon here today by Casey Morris, athletic director of the city schools. The Morris decision followed the announcement that several of the regular players on the varsity eleven would not be eligible for the series due to the fact that they were behind in their studies.

Cherryville Friday. However, Coach Morris will continue to play the season out with other eleven not in or eliminated from the state race. On Friday afternoon the strong Cherryville eleven comes here for a game, and the Shelby coach says that he intends to give the blue-clad outfit enough work this week to enable them to get out and win a game after two consecutive defeats.

Couple Married At County Court House. James Granger and Cora Belle Clark were married at the county court house here Saturday afternoon. Squire T. C. Eskridge performed the ceremony.

Three Unstudied Photos of Governor Smith

No political leader of recent years has possessed Governor Alfred E. Smith's knack of being intensely human despite the cares of political office. These three photos show him in his unstudied moments: At left, the nominee responding happily to cheers of the crowd on his Southern tour; center, a golf links snapshot, and, right, in the happiest role of all, that of being the sort of granddaddy that a young fellow wants around. The drawing is an artist's conception of the governor's humble start in life as a newsboy in lower New York.

Boyer And Johnson Come Back To Churches

Thieves Get Two Autos Here During Wedding Ceremony On Saturday Night. Returns To Shelby. Fitzgerald And Forbis Returned; Needham Is Moved.

First National Moves Into Five Million Resources. R. M. Dover Car And Henry Edwards' Car Stolen. Edwards' Car Found.

"The Shadow," Shelby's elusive house burglar, had one put over on him Saturday night—or, perhaps, "The Shadow" staged it himself. Anyway, thieves made away with two cars here Saturday night while the Fox-Dover wedding was underway at Central Methodist church. Owners of the two autos were in the church at the time attending the ceremony, one of the city's outstanding social functions of the year.

One car, a Ford roadster, was the property of R. M. Dover, Jr., and the other, an Essex coupe, belonged to Attorney Henry B. Edwards. Later in the night Saturday the Edwards car was found abandoned by the roadside on highway 20 west of Shelby in the Mooresboro section. As yet no report or clue has been found of the Dover car. Today reward cards were issued by local officers in spreading a dragnet for the thief throughout the section.

The Dover auto was the third to be stolen here within a week's time.

Fire Drives Sick Woman From Home. Her Son, Called Home From New York Sitting At Her Bedside In Early Morning.

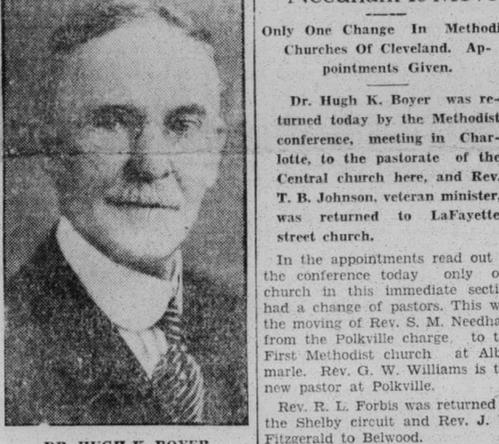

Fire drove Mrs. F. A. Ferree of South Shelby from her sick bed at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning when the roof was found to be ablaze. Mrs. Ferree was desperately ill and her son had been called by wire from New York. He was sitting by her bedside when a cracking noise was heard. Investigation found that a blaze was eating at the roof which caught from the chimney. An alarm brought the fire department and the blaze was extinguished without much damage. Mrs. Ferree was taken to a neighbor's home. The excitement of the fire somewhat unnerved her.

The house is owned by Carl Hughes and the slight damage to the roof is covered by insurance.

Couple Married At County Court House. James Granger and Cora Belle Clark were married at the county court house here Saturday afternoon. Squire T. C. Eskridge performed the ceremony.

DR. HUGH K. BOYER. JUDGE E. Y. WEBB WEDS AT TARBORO. Shelby Jurist Is Quietly Married To Mrs. James B. Taylor On Sunday Morning.

A wedding of much interest throughout the state and the south was solemnized Sunday morning at 10 o'clock at Tarboro when Judge E. Yates Webb, prominent Federal jurist, was married at Tarboro to Mrs. James B. Taylor at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Pender at Tarboro. Rev. T. L. Harnesberger, pastor of the Howard Memorial Presbyterian church of Tarboro officiated.

Owing to a recent death in the family of the bride, only members of the two families witnessed the ceremony. Out-of-town guests included Judge James L. Webb, a brother of the groom and Mrs. O. Max Gardner, his niece, both of Shelby. Mrs. Webb is a member of a prominent Eastern Carolina family and widow of the late James B. Taylor of Asheville. She is a charming woman and will be a great addition to the social and religious life of the community.

Judge Webb served in congress for 16 years and has been judge of the federal court in Western Carolina for the past eight or nine years. He attained national distinction in congress by his authorship of the Webb-Kenyon bill which was the forerunner of the Volstead act.

Judge and Mrs. Webb will live in Shelby upon their return from a honeymoon trip.

Couple Married At County Court House. James Granger and Cora Belle Clark were married at the county court house here Saturday afternoon. Squire T. C. Eskridge performed the ceremony.

Bleese Slashes At Hoover Democrats; Boosts Gov. Smith

NEWELL HAS BIG CROWD FOR TALK. Republican Campaigner Fills Court House Here. Hot After Smith.

Jake F. Newell, the fire-eating insurgent of the North Carolina G. O. P., came to Shelby Saturday afternoon and attracted to the county court house what was considered one of the largest Republican audiences in a score of years. For years untold the gatherings at Republican speakings here have been small with a few scores of the old reliables listening in, but this year with the party holding some hope of upsetting the state Republicans of Cleveland are summoning in every party man. That fact together with the well-known entertaining ability of Newell practically filled the large court room.

There may have been anti-Smith Democrats in the audience, but for the most part it was made up of straght, Republican voters, many of whom have taken little interest in politics for years but are going to extend their major efforts to carry Cleveland county and the state this fall.

It was the second big audience of the day for the court house. Senator Cole Blease having spoken to the Democrats earlier in the day. Later in the evening Judge Nathan Newby orated for the anti-Smiths. Each side had its inning Saturday. Mr. Newell, to use a Republican phrase, "spoke up one side and down the other," but he centered his forceful argument in an attack on the immigration and prohibition principles of the Democratic candidate for president.

Considered one of the most entertaining of Republican campaigners in the state, Newell will speak again Saturday night at 7:30 at Kings Mountain.

Acorn Store Holds Opening On Friday. The Acorn store, in their newly built two story home of elaborate proportions in South LaFayette street, held their formal opening Friday. The event was a great success. The management estimated that between six and seven thousand people marched through the aisles of the establishment during the reception hours.

The opening was held both during the afternoon and evening. The larger crowd was present during the evening, although for the first hour during the afternoon, the store was filled with visitors. Music was provided to enliven the occasion, and some very pleasing souvenirs were distributed. The Acorn is Shelby's latest addition to the long department store list, the store featuring a large variety of merchandise ranging from simple trinkets up to furniture, including ready-to-wear in all its departments.

Home Folks Swarm By Hundreds To Hear Silver Tongue Of Hoey

Shelby Man Thrills Packed Court House In Plea For Smith. Leader Of State Democracy, Falls Says.

Clyde R. Hoey this afternoon brought home to Shelby the oratory that has been swaying two states and long after he started speaking in the county court house his home people were showing and jostling outside trying to get within the sound of his magnetic voice. The first big round of applause came when Chairman B. T. Falls of the Democratic party introduced Hoey to his large audience as the "leader of the Democratic party in North Carolina."

"From Cherokee to Currituck his name is a household word—here he is: Clyde R. Hoey." The large crowd packed into every available seat and inch of space in the big court room and gallery was easily the largest to assemble here in years to hear a political speech. Women, old and young, some with babies in their arms, mingled with the men folks in the big gathering.

The speaker opened his barrage, one that has drawn overflowing crowds in all sections of North Carolina, at the very beginning by declaring that he never any more mentioned the Republican record in North Carolina because "I am ashamed of it." Then he moved on to an advocacy of North Carolina candidates and finally made an eloquent, moving appeal for the votes of the masses who asks the man of his party to be president—Alfred E. Smith. (A more complete report of the address, which was not finished when this was written, will be published Wednesday.)

No Such Animal, He Says. South Wants Negro In His Place.

"Talk about being a Hoover Democrat. He's simply a liar; there ain't no such animal," declared the inimitable Senator Cole L. Blease when he dropped down Shelby Saturday morning enroute to Kings Mountain and Gastonia and was persuaded to deliver a short speech here in the court house.

The senator had not expected to speak here, but when so many wanted to hear him, he was persuaded to talk awhile on the political issues in this campaign and in ten minutes notice a crowd that filled the court house was on hand. It was a cheering, roaring crowd as Senator Blease stabbed and jabbed the Republicans and called on the Democrats to remember the struggle in the south for White Supremacy and help preserve it, for he added "as sure as you live, if Hoover is elected we will have racial trouble in the South again."

Hoover's Mixture Order. This warning came after he had told how Secretary Hoover has forced the white and blacks in his department in Washington to sit together, work together and use the same toilets. "These white clerks are afraid to raise any protest for fear they will lose their jobs," he added, leading up to this by relating how a negro Republican leader in Ohio went to Washington before the convention, asked Mr. Hoover to take down the partitions and compel whites and colored to sit and work together. That negro, said Senator Blease told Mr. Hoover if he didn't obey his command the negro delegates at Kansas City would not vote for him as the nominee. Mr. Hoover made the change and the negro went back to Ohio, announced himself a candidate for delegate and won out over Senator Fees. When Senator Fees made his speech in the convention he was forced to retire because the negro delegate had his seat.

Woods Hang Smith. "Tell me Al Smith would do any worse than that? If he does, just invite him down to South Carolina. I know where there is a big tree and the largest plow line in Anderson." (Continued on page eight.)

Officers Capture Copper Rum Plant. Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock county officers found and destroyed a 50-gallon copper distillery and 60 gallons of beer in the Buffalo section east of Shelby on the B. T. Falls place. A run had been made just a short time before the capture, it appeared, and wood had been hauled in for another run when the officers arrived.

Those in the raid were J. R. Hord, Harvey Harrelson and B. F. Hord. Mrs. Hoey Speaks To Casar Woman's Club. Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey addressed the Democratic Woman's club at Casar on Saturday afternoon. A large and interested crowd was present to hear Mrs. Hoey who delivered a very effective speech that was received with enthusiasm.
