

PLAN GRID GAME FOR STATE STARS

Jack McDowell To Lead Brilliant Array In Asheville On November 12.

Asheville Citizen.

The greatest galaxy of southern stars to parade in football togs on an Asheville field will be seen in action in the Memorial Stadium here Monday, November 12, when Jack McDowell leads his American Legion all-stars against the Weaver college eleven under auspices of the local post of the Legion. McDowell, N. C. State's all-southern back of last year, will be ably supported by a brilliant array of teammates.

Arrangements for the classic yesterday were put in motion by Ben F. Jumper, a member of the local post. Mr. Jumper declared last night that he believed all experienced football players in this section of the state will gladly offer their services for the benefit of the legion. Monday, November 12, is to be generally observed as a holiday since Armistice Day this year falls on Sunday.

Such stars as the following likely will be numbered among the Legion's team:

Blaney Rackley, former all-state quarterback with Wake Forest college and now coach at Grace high school.

Alex Waite, former all-south atlantic guard on the University of South Carolina eleven and coach of Asheville's Maroons.

Charlie Poindexter, another all-southern performer while playing guard at the University of North Carolina.

"Goat" Randolph, 1923 fullback on Bill Fetzer's Tar Heels.

"Hop" Arbogast, all-Virginia end while playing a flank position at Washington and Lee University.

Tom McCoy, erstwhile versatile back on the University of Virginia Cavaliers.

"Monk" Ober, Charlie Chakales, Ralph James and Neely Kukendall, Wake Forest backfield aces during Hank Garrity's regime.

Sammy Homewood, a husky tackle formerly on N. C. State's Wolfpack.

Sam Graham, another Maroon coach who used to play a line position with the "Pony Express" of Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Coach Moss, of the Candler high school squadron, who played at Duke university.

Walt Shuford, now Biltmore mentor, who was selected on the all-state eleven during his backfield days with State's Wolfpack.

"Red" Orr, present coach of Blue Ridge school, who played under the colors of the Purple Hurricane at Furman university.

Other likely performers of the Legion eleven will be Weldon Weir, monogram man from Wake Forest's line along with former teammates Bill Stradley and Charlie Zimmerman. The Legion also will enlist the services of a number of former high school stars to replace the "old timers" as gradually pass out on the field from hard work.

The Legion combination will be coached by "Nemo" Coleman, 1919 captain of the University of North Carolina Tar Heels, and until last year director of athletics at Bingham Military school.

All other football players wishing to play in the game have been requested by Legion officials to communicate with them.

Movie Star Differs With His Uncle Sam

Government Claims Douglas Fairbanks Oves Over A Million Income Taxes.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Douglas Fairbanks computes his income in one way; the government adds it up in another. Consequently, the famous moving picture star with his wife, the equally famous Mary Pickford, were in town today to keep an appointment at the treasury. Something over a million dollars was at stake.

The government contends that Fairbanks owes exactly $1,090,273.56 in unpaid federal taxes. It asserts that Miss Pickford also is delinquent, but to what extent has not been revealed. The dispute centers upon the method by which the stars market their pictures.

Miss Pickford was up for discussion at today's conference, but since the issues are identical with those of her husband, it was understood that any agreement reached would form a basis for settlement of the government's claims against both.

ESTATE OF CARNES IS VALUED AT $200,000

Atlanta, Oct. 27.—Assets of Clinton S. Carnes, former treasurer of the Baptist home mission board will approximate $200,000, receivers reported to Judge John B. Hutcheson of the Stone Mountain circuit today.

His properties include real estate in Atlanta, stock in various enterprises and investments in loans on property in Georgia and Florida. Funds realized will be applied to reduce alleged shortage in funds of the board, it was said.

Carnes is now in Fulton County jail under 18 indictments charging Thomas H. Scott, and Leon O'Neal

Getting Ready For Carolina Game Saturday.

These are some of Gus Tebell's stars at North Carolina State who will play University of North Carolina on Riddick Field, Raleigh, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Warren, Crum and Goodwin are lettermen and regulars. Melton is the 1928 McDowell at State. Johnson is second string quarterback to Sparky Adams, regular.

Love Finds A Way

Arkansas City, Kans.—Love will always find a way.

Thirty years ago Mrs. Laura Alton, a young widow with two small sons to support, worked in the little Empire laundry here. It was owned by C. N. Hunt, mayor and postmaster for 18 years.

One of the settlers in Oklahoma's famous Cherokee strip, C. C. Endicott, came along, married her, and took her to his newly-claimed farm, where with her meager savings they bought an additional 160 acres of farm land.

Times continued hard, however. To hold the land they had bought

Mrs. Endicott had to run a hand laundry, and she and her husband and her two sons went through many long years of very hard work. The land was not very good, and while they would gladly have sold it they could find no buyers.

Then, in 1921, they found themselves plucked into one of Oklahoma's traditional fairy tales. The Comar Oil company leased Mrs. Endicott's land, and struck a gusher of prodigious size. For three years she enjoyed an income of more than $5,000 a day; in a short time the family moved to California and began to enjoy their new riches. They were millionaires, several times over.

A year ago Mr. Endicott died, and the woman was again a widow.

Thirty years ago a young man worked in the little Empire laundry here—one Dave C. Twedell. He and the young widow were sweethearts. They might have married had not some turn of fate separated them; and when she married Endicott, Twedell moved to Arizona, where he too was married.

A year ago Mrs. Twedell died. Recently Mrs. Endicott chanced to pass through Phoenix, Ariz. There she met her old friend, Dave Twedell. They fell in love all over again—and not long ago they were married, by a minister who had also been a fellow-worker in the Empire laundry thirty years ago.

Now they're on their honeymoon—a round-the-world trip, via Hawaii.

Cotton Co-Ops To Sell Fertilizers And Seed Hereafter

With the issuing this week of a charter for the Cotton Growers Supply company, U. B. Blalock, general manager of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative association, makes the following announcement:

"The Cotton Growers Supply company is a subsidiary corporation of the Cotton Growers Cooperative association.

"Its charter gives the corporation very wide latitude but it is the purpose of the organization at present only to engage in the handling of improved cotton seed and other field seeds, commercial fertilizers, and fertilizer materials for the members of the association only.

"A certain amount of the reserve funds of the cotton association, not to exceed $100,000, will be set aside for this subsidiary as capital stock.

"Seeds, fertilizers, and fertilizer materials will be handled only on a cash basis.

"The directors and the management of the association have been of the opinion for quite some time that they should engage in other activities for the benefit of their members besides that of handling cotton for the members of the association. For some years past other cotton cooperative associations, either through subsidiary or through farm bureau organizations, have been handling field seeds, fertilizers, and fertilizer materials, and other merchandise in a very successful manner for their membership. The Alabama Cotton Association has been remarkably successful along this line and handled over one hundred thousand tons of fertilizer the past season.

"The combined purchasing power of our membership gives us an advantage that we feel we should capitalize on.

"The first step in the promotion of cooperative cotton marketing is the introduction of improved cotton seed, thereby producing a better quality of cotton than that grown by the average cotton producer. We are already assured that our first season's business in the handling of improved or pedigreed seeds will amount to several thousands of bushels. In fact, one order for 10,000 bushels of pedigreed cotton seed has been placed with one of the South's best known seed breeders.

"There will be comparatively little if any additional cost in operating this subsidiary as the same officers and employees who handle the affairs of the cotton association will operate the subsidiary."
