TURKEY, ONCE WINELESS. PLANS TO MAKE HER OWN. Bigados, Turkey—Despite the old Koranic taboo, the new Turkey is becoming more and more prone to look on the wine when it is red or any other color, and, more than that, to brew her own.
 The Kemalist government, which has made alcohol one of the 16 state monopolies, has sent the director of the monopoly to Europe to study wine making. The director chose the rich Anatolian grape region as the location for Turkey's future wine industry.

Copeland's Health Talk
 Short Rests Needed

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
 (United States Senator And Former Health Commissioner of New York.)

Not long ago I talked with a friend of mine in Washington. He told me a remarkable thing. This man has so trained himself that, any time he wills, he can shut his eyes and lapse into absolute unconsciousness.

This is almost an unheard of gift. It means everything to its possessor. No matter how strenuous may be his day, nor how tumultuous his life, he can give himself two minutes of absolute relaxation whenever he feels its need.

You and I may not be able to gain such control over our faculties as this. It is our own fault, however, if we do not learn how to rest.

The other day I talked to you about diversion, a complete change for a day or a week or longer. That is not the thing I am talking about now. What I want to impress on you now is that out of each and every 24 hours there should be at least 8 hours, and even 10 hours, of complete relaxation.

I have no patience with those strenuous people who say they can get along with four or five hours of sleep. They seem to think that unless you work 15 or 18 hours a day you are lazy. These smug individuals imagine themselves as tremendous producers because they spend twice as much time at work as the average man does. It is all nonsense. I venture to say that the average individual who applies himself conscientiously to his duties for six or eight hours a day will accomplish twice as much work in the long run as the man who works 14 or 15 hours every day.

The human brain and the human heart and the human kidneys and the human stomach and the human muscles will not tolerate for ever and ever the wicked strain of excessive hours of work.

Nature is exceedingly kind and long suffering. Nature will accept an occasional period of over-strenuous effort. But it is just as sure as death and taxes that Nature will not continue to smile at the man or woman who foolishly and wickedly exhausts body and mind.

I beg of you to order your life in such a way as to have regular periods of relaxation. Even though you do not sleep take the tension off your muscles and the strain off your mind.

Answers To Health Queries.
 A. B. Q.—Is there a condition known as infection of the gall-bladder?
 A.—Yes. Such a condition would be apt to affect the system in general. Have your doctor prescribe after careful examination, including an X-ray of the gall duct.
 R. Z. Q.—What would you advise for a drowsy feeling and an ache in the back of the neck?
 A.—It is possible that you are troubled with auto-intoxication caused by some infection in your system. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.
 L. F. Q.—How can I reduce? What will reduce the legs?
 2.—Can superfluous hair be removed by other than the electric needle and must the work be done by a doctor?

 A.—Restricting your diet in regard to sweets and starches and taking plenty of outdoor exercise should bring about results. Exercise such as brisk walking, dancing, skating, should all be helpful toward this end.
 2.—This is the most satisfactory method of treatment. The work must be done by an expert in this particular line.
 B. Q.—What is the cause and remedy for a coated tongue and bad breath?
 LOCKS FOR CAR RADIATORS NOW ARE NECESSARY
 Chapel Hill.—A new era has been ushered in locally in automobile robbery—radiator "lifting."
 Ben Lane, Chapel Hill boy and student in the university, parked his trusty "flivver" outside the Tin Can the other night when South Carolina and North Carolina staged their basketball fracas and lo and behold, when he came out his Ford was radiator-less.
 The thief, temporarily to cover his work, placed the hood back in position. The owner did not discover his loss until he had started his car and driven down the road a few yards when the hood fell off and discovered the front end minus the water tank.
 If Sir Isaac Newton had based his calculations on a skirt we observed yesterday, instead of on the apple, the thoughtful old boy would have concluded that the law of gravitation worked in the other direction. —Ohio State Journal.
