North Carolina Second In Revenue Collections 1928

State Forges Past Pennsylvania By $4,000,000 As Cigaret And Tobacco Receipts Increase.

Washington. — North Carolina climbed to second place in total federal internal revenue taxes collected for the calendar year of 1928. It was in third place for the previous year, showing a gain of nearly 10 per cent.

Total collections for North Carolina amounted to $236,642,027, while Pennsylvania, its closest competitor for second place, collected $232,417,910 and Illinois was in fourth place with $224,858,133. North Carolina collected $217,227,608 the previous year.

New York, of course, was in first place with total collections of $759,122,485, or more than three times the total for North Carolina.

Commissioner of Internal Revenue David H. Blair made public these figures in a comprehensive report, showing total collections by his department for the nation of $2,775,276,986, which is slightly under the total of the previous year of 1927 when $2,819,059,673 were collected.

Leads In Tobacco Tax.

By far the greater amount of the federal taxes in North Carolina last year was in cigarette taxes. The total for cigarette and tobacco taxes were $215,855,748, which was more than twice the amount of miscellaneous taxes collected in New York state, the next highest state.

Cigarette and tobacco taxes in North Carolina increased from $197,531,967 to $20,686,238, an increase of more than a million dollars, but the figures for the nation for income tax show a falling off from $2,195,506,998 to $52,169,417,231 a decrease of $26,000,000.

The main item in North Carolina federal income taxes was from corporations, which paid $15,682,298 as compared with $14,929,509 for the previous year. While corporate income taxes showed this gain of more than a million dollars, the nation as a whole showed a decrease in the same item from $1,336,263,367 to $1,234,366,865, a loss of more than $100,000,000.

Income Taxes.

North Carolina was also able to show a slight gain in individual income taxes, the total for last year being $5,003,940 as compared with $4,602,457 for the previous year.

Short Skirts To Remain With Us Paris Style Says

The Summer Girl Will Have More Covering, Though With Less On Her Back.

Paris.—"Miss Summertime" came to Paris this week with a wardrobe that brought visions of leafy bowers and made the Winter costumes of the best-dressed women in the fashion capital look drab enough for an old clothes sale.

The Summer girl, the first fashion show of the year indicates, is to have a characteristic "allure." She will have, in general, a little more covering than last year, but with a little less on her back.

Fashion statistical experts have had trouble in measuring her skirts, because "Miss Summertime" changes costume so rapidly that no two measures read alike. In the main, however, about as much silk stocking is to be shown as last year. Arms will be covered sometimes at dinner, but the evening gowns which have sleeves possess only scant backs.

Some of the most important dress-makers have been hanging back on the Summer style owing to an agreement to exhibit their ideas later than usual in order to prevent copying of their models.

While the old-line houses thus hesitated, the new house of Maggy Rouff in the Champs Elysees, formally introduced its conception of "Miss Summertime." The party was attended by several hundred of the sartorially important people of Paris and the affair was enlivened by three jazz bands. Altogether it was quite a theatrically conceived style show, as well as being the largest that Paris has seen. Personages in the style-making world hailed it as an answer to their hopes that Paris would meet and defeat the foreign competition in fashions, an industry which the city has regarded as strictly her own for nearly two centuries.

Operetta To Be Given At Lattimore Feb. 1st

"In Old Louisiana" To Be Presented By Music And Arts Dept. Of High School.

On Friday evening February 1, 7:45 o'clock the music department of Lattimore high school presents the operetta "In Old Louisiana" by Dodge-Dodge. This operetta, under the direction of Miss Wiloree Calton and Karl Jordan promises to be one of the best in the history of the school.

Those playing the leading roles: Miss Bleka Blanton as Rose Farley, and Max Gardner as Richard St. John, present a near tragic romance which holds one in suspense to within a few seconds of the end of the play.

Martha and Monty, played by Selma Davis and Lyman Martin respectively, present a love affair both pathetic and humorous but the persistent efforts of Monty bring about the ending we like to see.

Scudder, Tims and Martin, played by Dufaye Bridges, Robert Falls, and Yulan Washburn, in the order named, play the part of conspirators who seek to wreck the birthright of the innocent Rose Farley by manufacturing evidence that she is, by birth, an octroon slave girl. Scudder leads in this plot because of the indifference Rose shows toward his love for her. The culmination of this plot is a duel between Scudder and Richard St. John.

Ned and Judie, colored servants to Pilot and Rose Farley, are played by Beatrix Blanton and Wyan Washburn, supply the laughs which are always stimulating in a play of this type.

Pilot Farley, foster father to Rose, pilot of the record-breaking ship "Eclipse" and owner of the San Souci plantation, is played by Tyree Green. He plays the part of a non assuming sea captain and the role is accompanied by many introductory solos supported by ringing choruses presented by thirty of the best high school voices in North Carolina. The characters are well chosen and the play should be a treat to all who attend. Don't forget the date! Friday evening, February 1, at 7:45 o'clock.

"Cussing" Reverently.
(Monroe Enquirer.)

The Cleveland Star, commenting upon an elderly man who never in his life used profanity, wonders what his reactions might have been when "the plow handles caught him amidship while working a 'newground' or when a root broken by the plowshares slapped him on the shin?" The Shelby paper relates that Chief Hamrick expresses his wrath with "Dad Hang It!" While Attorney McBrayer eases his choler with "Dial that thing!"

Monroe once had a good citizen who "got by" after damning things in a soft voice, adding "And I say it reverently."

Too often the [?] of naval rivalry is the apple of discord.
