"GUS AND GUSSIE" —

A Slight Correction

HYSTERIC!
NOTHING LESS IS WHAT GUS THINKS THE AUDIENCES WILL GET WHEN THEY HEAR THE NEW WOW LAUGHS HE HAS CHOSEN FOR THE TWO-ACT.

THE ONLY THING I'M AFRAID OF IS THE PEOPLE'LL FALL IN THE AISLES AN' HAVE TO BE CARRIED OUT.

IT WILL SERVE THEM RIGHT FOR COMING TO SEE A GREAT TEAM LIKE US, THEY ENTER THE THEATRE AT THEIR OWN RISK, AND TAKE THE CONSEQUENCES.

YEH, LET'S HAVE THAT CLEARLY UNDERSTOODEN.

OUR STUFF IS SO FUNNY I CAN'T SAY IT, IT BREAKS ME ALL UP. I DON' KNOW HOW I'LL EVER FINISH THIS ONE WITHOUT ROLLIN' ON THE FLOOR... WHERE YOU SAY TO ME, 'HOW MANY CHILDREN DID YOUR MA HAVE, ALTOGETHER?'

AN' I SAY BACK-- OH, I CAN'T, IT'S KILLIN' ME, ---WHERE I SAY BACK 'SHE HAD SEVEN-- BUT NOT ALTOGETHER-- ONE AT A TIME.

ALL BUT READY.

JINKS THE BOOKING AGENT HAS FIXED THE FIRST HALF OF NEXT WEEK FOR US AT THE TINNANKANNE THEATRE TO BREAK IN OUR VEHICLE.

THAT'S FINE AN' FANCY, BUT WHAT DO YOU MEAN VEHICLE? ARE WE A HORSE?

THAT'S THE REFINED NAME FOR THE ACT-- THE STUFF WE DO-- OUR MATERIAL.

OUR BILLING WILL READ LIKE THIS-- "GUS AND GUSSIE PRESENT EACH OTHER IN THEIR MAGNIFICENT NEW VEHICLE-- JESTS AND JAZZES OF 1929."

BUT, ON SECOND THOUGHT, AIN'T THAT TITLE A LITTLE BIT LONG-- YOU KNOW, TO GO ON A 'LECTRIC SIGN?

Copeland's Health Talk

Dysentery In Winter

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

(United States Senator And Former Health Commissioner of New York.)
We are likely to associate certain diseases with particular seasons of the year. For instance, influenza, in the popular mind, is a disease of cold weather. As a matter of fact it is not. Weather conditions have almost nothing to do with it.

I think I should modify that last statement just a little. Anything that depresses vitality is bad for health. Cold and damp have their effect of course. But so far as the community progress of the disease is concerned, it will sweep onward in cool weather or hot.

Dysentery is disease popularly supposed to be a hot weather ailment. Of course, diarrhoea due to food contamination are more common in hot weather when the germs more readily multiply. But one of the true dysenteries may be met at any season of the year.

In olden times they used to talk about the "bloody flux." Whole armies suffered from it. That name was given because the bowel discharges were mixtures of mucus and blood. The waste material actually took the form of a bloody flux.

When they speak of true dysentery, the doctors have two forms in mind. One is the "bacillary dysentery." The other is known to the profession as "amoebic dysentery."

Both these dysenteries are associated with diet. In this respect they resemble the more common diarrhoeas. But instead of being the result of ordinary food poisoning, as are the latter, each can be traced to a particular germ or parasitic organism.

These agents get into the system through the taking of food or drink. Almost invariably they can be traced to human carriers. Their intestinal discharges are carried into the water supply, or reach the food by the assistance of soiled fingers. Water-cress and other salad materials may be contaminated by these discharges.

Not long ago I talked with a young woman who has chronic amoebic dysentery. She complained about her doctor because he "punched her in the side" every time she met him. Inflammation or abscess of the liver is a complication of this disease. Tenderness over that organ is one of its first signs. The doctor pressed over the liver to see if it was all right.

Bacillary and amoebic dysenteries are difficult to treat. A great deal of research work is being done to find a means of control. The United States Government, too, is at work upon the problem.

Vaccines have been prepared which have had some effect upon the bacillary form. The amoebic form is more puzzling. After a while, a less disturbing manner of treatment will be found.

Building up the general system is important for the victim. His education against spreading the virus of dysentery must be undertaken at once. Otherwise, more of the disease producing organisms will be spread abroad.

Any disease which may be carried to others is a dangerous ailment. For the sake of family and friends, as well as the general public, the victim should take every

Mutiny Threatens Among Republicans

Men Who Have Bowed Party Not Likely To Fall In Line With New President.

Washington. — Murmurs of mutiny emanate from the fo'c's' of the good ship G. O. P.

It looks much as if Skipper-elect Hoover will have a chance to try his hand at quelling a bad outbreak mighty soon after retiring. Cap'n Coolidge goes overboard, down the ladder, and his successor takes the quarterdeck to assume command.

New Hands.
Rumor hath it that the "old man-to-be" has shipped a lot of new hands and intends to give them all the choice berths, from first mate on down.

Cap'n Herb will need to be a real bucko to get away with it, if this proves true.

Cap'n Coolidge himself was not very popular with his crew when he took the helm, in the emergency of 1923.

A good many of the most experienced seadogs on board hoped the owners would retire him the next year, at their meeting in Cleveland, but the owners disappointed them, kept Cap'n Cal on the job and in the ensuing race with the Autum Democracy (Cap'n Davis) he navigated the G. O. P. glorious victory.

Even then there was considerable discontent, marked by one tragedy, when Cap'n Cal tried to force a ho'n of his own choosing—Bill Butler, an old Cape Cod shipmate of his—on the senate watch. Somebody slipped a political knife between poor Bill's ribs and that was the end of Senator Butler.

Grew In Favor.
However, Cap'n Coolidge grew in his men's favor as time passed, and toward the finish of the 1924-28 cruise a delegation of the most influential among them went aft to urge him to sign on for another voyage.

The cap'n thanked them but said he didn't choose to.

It would have been well for these faithful seafarers if they had flopped right then to Cap'n expectant Hoover, who already was an applicant for Cap'n Cal's place, but they made the mistake of trying to get the owners, at Kansas City, to shanghai Cap'n Calvin.

Got Billed.
Doubtless the ancient marines who had tolled so hard for Cap'n Cal were downcast, but they took it for granted Skipper-elect Hoover would bear no malice, and turned loyally to the task of getting the G. O. P. shipshape for another speed test with the Autum Democracy (Cap'n Al Smith), in their new commander-elect's interest.

Now the fo'c's' veterans begin to suspect that Cap'n-elect Hoover plans to ladle out all the plum-duff and other maritime luxuries to the new hands, who not only helped him to beat the Autum Democracy, but also plugged for him at Kansas City and earlier—leaving nothing but salt horse and weevily biscuit for the old-timers.

Hence, incipient mutiny.

Both watches—the senate and the house of representatives—are in a turmoil.

Strong Hand.
A strong hand and a stiff marlin-spike are needed in such situations.

Mutineers never yet succeeded in making a presidential cap'n walk the plank, but they have played smash with some originally prosperous-looking voyagers.

This historic example is that of the 1892-96 voyage of the Autum Democracy, when his mutinous crew forced Cap'n Cleveland to barricade himself in his cabin and ran the good ship on the rocks in his absence from the quarterdeck.

A HALF FERTILIZED FIELD IS LIKE A ONE-PRONGED FORK

A one-pronged fork can work the stuffings out of you, but it can't deliver the goods—it just can't give results.

Neither can a poorly fertilized field. You can plow and plant and work all you choose, but if there isn't enough of the right kind of plant food in the field don't look for a full crop. Experiment stations and successful farmers everywhere have proven hundred of times that it's the properly fertilized fields that bring in the big, early, money-making crops. Ask those near you who
