Can We Count On Your Cooperation?

THE strength of this bank is the work of many hands. Our depositors, perhaps more than ourselves, are responsible for the prestige and steady growth which we have enjoyed.

What one friend has told another friend about the treatment received here, has been the all-important factor in gaining for us a constantly widening circle of influence and service.

After all, a bank is strong not merely because of its capital and resources, the wealth in its vaults: but also because of the number of active, interested friends which it can number on its "roll-call."

Therefore, we want you not only to do your banking with us, but if you can induce a friend to bank with us as well, you will be favoring us doubly. Can we count on this cooperation?
