

Roper Will Try To Put The Sleeping Punch On "Mauler"

Georgia Fighter Faces Terry Roberts Here Saturday Night In Big Bout. "Babe" Carr And "Stump" Braswell, Local Favorites, On Sides Legion Program.

JOHN BAXTER ROOPER Known as "JOHN the BARBER"

His first fight, with Bogie Saab, was one of the best seen in the local ring. KO'd Battling McLarity twice - Teddy Taylor - Rufus Jones

Baxter Roper, caricatured above by an artist of his home town, Columbus, Georgia, comes to Shelby Saturday night of this week with the intention, he says, of kayoing Terry Roberts, the McAdenville Man Mauler.

To which local fans are naturally saying "pooch-pooch." Threatening to get in and mix it up with the big Blonde McAdenville boy is one thing, while actually doing it is an entirely different thing, chirp the fistic fans here who have watched the flying fists of the "Man Mauler."

Still Roper, once known in Georgia as "John the Barber," declares that he is coming up to do just that and nothing else. For that reason Arthur Sides, matchmaker for the Warren Hoyle post of the American Legion, is hoping that he can exhibit some real boxing before a Shelby crowd in the Thompson building Saturday night.

Date Is Changed. The 42-round boxing program was billed for Friday night, but rather than interfere with high school basketball and the Hoey contest, Sides and the Legion officials have shifted the program to Saturday night.

Good Battles. The Roberts-Roper bout will go for 10 rounds—unless, of course, one of the two big boys goes to sleep ere the tenth gong.

The semi-final will see a Shelby youth, Big Joe Singleton, high school athlete, in action against Ralph Hood, who was a ring sensation in Charlotte three years. Singleton learned the manly defense art from "Rudy" Matthews, former high school boxing instructor, and now holding a similar job at the State University. Hood under ordinary circumstances would be too much to pit against the hefty Shelby boy, but Hood has been on the shelf for a couple of years and is now staging a come-back. Even so he will find a tough customer in Singleton, one of the most perfectly-conditioned athletes in the state.

Foster Back. "K. O." Foster, the long limbed, driving fighter from McAdenville who flattened Jack Blanton, Spindale pride here a few weeks back, will face J. D. McLelland, a fistic hope of the Ora mill village, in one of the preliminaries.

In another prelim, Logan "Babe" Carr, the most popular of local sluggers, will go in the ring with Johnny "K. O." Fisher, of Lowell. "Stump" Braswell, the sawed-off, hard-hitting little fellow from McAdenville who made a good impression here in Sides' other program, is to have his hand full in a preliminary with "Boots" Hall of Belmont.

Crown Lind, a Dover Mill boxer, will take on "Kayo" Burrage, McAdenville in a preliminary, while a bout between "Battling" Jackson, of South Shelby and a former army fighter, and another slugger yet to be selected is pending.

The main bout goes 10 rounds, the semi-finals for eight rounds, Foster-McLelland bout for eight, Carr-Fisher for six, Braswell-Hall for six, Lind-Burrage for four and the Jackson bout for four.

The ring at the Thompson building has been enlarged, the seating arrangement improved and Legion officials along with Sides, their matchmaker, hope to entertain Shelby's largest boxing gathering Saturday night.
