Fuel system of the new Ford has been designed for reliability and long service

THE practical value of Ford simplicity of design is especially apparent in the fuel system.

The gasoline tank is built integral with the cowl and is unusually sturdy because it is made of heavy sheet steel, torse plated to prevent rust or corrosion. An additional factor of strength is the fact that it is composed of only two pieces, instead of three or four, and is electrically welded—not soldered.

Because of the location of the tank, the entire flow of gasoline is an even, natural flow—following the natural law of gravity. This is the simplest and most direct way of supplying gasoline to the carburetor without variations in pressure. The gasoline feed pipe of the new Ford is only 18 inches long and is easily accessible all the way.

The gasoline passes from the tank to the carburetor through a filter or sediment bulb mounted on the steel dash which separates the gasoline tank from the engine.

The carburetor is specially designed and has been built to deliver many thousands of miles of good service.

Since all adjustments are fixed except the needle valve and idler, there is practically nothing to get out of order.

The choke rod on the dash acts as a primer and also as a regulator of your gasoline mixture. The new hot spot manifold insures complete vaporization of the gasoline before it enters the combustion chamber of the engine.

As a matter of fact, the fuel system of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires very little service attention.

The filter or sediment bulb should be cleaned at regular intervals and the carburetor screen removed and washed in gasoline. Occasionally the drain plug at the bottom of the carburetor should be removed and the carburetor drained for a few seconds.

Have your Ford dealer look after these important little details for you when you have the car oiled and greased. A thorough, periodic checking-up costs little, but it has a great deal to do with long life and continuously good performance.

CARLOAD PEDIGREED CLEVELAND BIG BOLL COTTON SEED

Now On Way To Shelby For Farmers Of This Section.

Being deeply interested in cotton production in this section and realizing along with our farmers that in order to produce the highest possible yields and best quality our planting seed must be renewed continually with improved stock, we have ordered a carload of the best obtainable seed of the Cleveland Big Boll Type to offer to the farmers of this section and this is to give you an opportunity to supply yourself with some of this improved seed.

After a thorough investigation we find that Lee Wilson and Company, at Wilson in Northern Arkansas, are the best breeders and largest growers of the Cleveland Big Boll Type cotton in the world. They have spent fifteen years and $50,000.00 in improving and preparing to handle this seed and they plant their entire crop of 20,000 acres exclusively in this Pedigreed Cleveland Big Boll seed, which they are now selling under the name of Wilson Type Big Boll. This cotton has the following good points:

- Bolls large and very easy to pick.
- Turnout at gin forty per cent.
- Staple one inch and of good quality.
- Highest yielder by actual records.
- Desirable type and medium foliage.
- Prolific and fruits very rapidly.
- Earliest maturing of Cleveland types.
- Hardy and free from diseases.

A carload of this seed will arrive at our mill in Shelby within the next few days. It is first class in every respect, re-cleaned, and in 100-lb., branded and sealed bags. We are offering this seed at cost, that is, at the rate of $1.80 per bushel $6.00 per bag) for cash or in exchange for your seed at 75c per bushel, as you prefer.

This carload of Pedigreed Cleveland Big Boll Type seed won't last long at this price.

Better see or write us at once if you want some of this fine seed.
