In Memory Of George.

(By Lloyd Mauney)

With sunny smile and cherry word He held his place with men, And never will there ever be A greater true friend; He gave his winning smile to all To stranger and to friend, His cheery words and manner Lasted to the end.

With ringing words of greeting He met them with his smile, And gave to them the meaning Of living well worth while;

To great and small he gave alike He helped to spread the sunshine On earth while he was here.

A look of joy filled the eye Of those that came his way, They found a place of joy and cheer And there they wished to stay; A gleam of light filled the place When they beheld his smile, They gained a bit of cheery life A life that was worth while.

Though his smile has passed away We'll meet him after while, And there we'll see and know him By his true honest smile;

The friends he left are many here That often think of him, And of his smiling greeting That greatest finest gem.

Lindy's Outlook.

Wichita, Kas.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has broken his silence on his engagement to Miss Anne Morrow. Asked by the Wichita Beacon whether he thought his marriage would effect his flying he answered "yes." As to where he planned to live he replied, "St. Louis is my home."

Wasn't It Heck?

New York.—Taking a gun from a holdup man is one thing but trying to turn over the captured to New York police is something else. Oliver Deardoff, taxi driver, did just that and was arrested for illegal possession of firearms.

We Talk Radilly.

New York—Americans are talking faster and faster all the time, says Louis J. Goldstein, who was a delegate to a shorthand reporters' convention. He places the average increase at ten words a minute in the last twenty years.

Copeland's Health Talk

Build Up Health

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

(United States Senator And Former Health Commissioner of New York)

If you were called upon to define civilization and to give your ideas of what constitute civilization, what would you say?

The dictionary says that civilization is "a state of social culture characterized by relative progress in the arts, science and statecraft."

This definition would surely be called "high-brow" by most of us—wouldn't it?

Well, anyhow, we need not worry over what Webster says about civilization. That is, I'm going to recite to you what a writer says about it. Let me quote:

"Civilization is a rather difficult term to define, but generally speaking, it represents the condition of an orderly society in which the objectives, ministering to health and happiness, are within the reach of practically the entire population."

Captain O'Berry is 73 years old. He was born in Tarboro January 26, 1856. He is the son of Thomas and Cinderilla (Poppe) O'Berry.

Although Captain O'Berry has taken an active interest in politics, he has never run for public office. In 1910 Governor Aycock appointed him director of State prison here. When he assumed his duties the prison was losing money, but at the end of his term the institution had been put on a self-supporting basis.

Needle In Body 60 Years.

A needle swallowed when he was three years old was recently removed from the body of Porter L. Smith, 63-year-old foreman, of Clarksburg, W. Va.

But we were talking about civilization: I have long preached the doctrine that the purpose of government is to serve humanity. It is not serving humanity unless it does everything a government should do to promote the health and welfare of all its citizens.

When it does this, then, as I view it, it is a civilized government, and its happy citizens are living under the high standards proclaimed by Dr. Hoffman.

But until health and happiness are, as he says, within the reach of practically the entire population, we are not fully civilized.

It is our duty as citizens to do all we can to arrive at this ideal condition.

After all, however, to have national health is not entirely a governmental function. We must do our part as units of a society that cannot be perfectly healthy until all its units possess health.

Health is not a personal matter alone. Disease of the individual brings hardships and sacrifices, unhappiness and misery, to family and friends and harm to the economic world.

We cannot have universal health until every member of society has developed a sound philosophy of right living and right thinking.

It is not serving humanity unless it does everything a government should do to promote the health and welfare of all its citizens.

When it does this, then, as I view it, it is a civilized government, and its happy citizens are living under the high standards proclaimed by Dr. Hoffman.

But until health and happiness are, as he says, within the reach of practically the entire population, we are not fully civilized.

It is our duty as citizens to do all we can to arrive at this ideal condition.
