Nothing Dull In Hoover Ceremony

Capital Has Crowded Hours Scheduled When Hoover, Curtis Are Inaugurated.

Washington.—Final plans of the inaugural committee, announced leave no room for dull moments on March 4 when Herbert Hoover becomes president of the United States and Charles Curtis the vice president.

Probably at 11 o'clock the doors of the senate chamber will be opened, and in the historic hall will gather the senators, senators-elect, the house of representatives, the diplomatic corps, members of the president's cabinet, general of the armies, chief of staff of the army, chief of naval operations, marine corps, commandant, the supreme court, and invited guests. At 11:30 o'clock the presidential and vice presidential party will leave the White House for the chamber where Mr. Curtis will take the oath of office.

The senate then will be adjourned by the retiring vice president, and President Coolidge thereupon will call the senate into extraordinary session.

Curtis First.

Immediately afterwards Vice President Curtis will deliver his inaugural address and administer the oath of office to senators-elect. The entire gathering then will adjourn to the front of the capitol to witness the induction of Mr. Hoover into office.

After his inaugural address Mr. Hoover will be escorted up Pennsylvania avenue to the White House where he will have as his luncheon guests the new vice president and his party. The parade will form immediately after the presidential party leaves the capitol and will march up Pennsylvania avenue to 15th street where it will halt until Mr. Hoover and Mr. Curtis have finished their luncheon. It will then proceed up 15th street around the treasury building and past the reviewing stand in front of the White House where Mr. Hoover and Mr.

A Woman's Life—Sewing On Chevrons

Washington.—Cadet Corps at West Point takes great pride in the perfectly sewn chevrons worn by commissioned and non-commissioned officers. During the last fifty years one woman has been engaged in making the ornate decorations of gold lace, black braid and broadcloth, a task requiring great skill and experience.

She is Mrs. Louise Regan of Highland Falls, N. Y. She started the work at ten, but her uninterrupted service began when she was eighteen. Mrs. Regan is now sixty-eight. Chevrons made by her were worn by many officers of the army who now wear General's stars.

BLOATED FEELING

And Other Troubles Went Away After This South Carolinian Had Taken Black-Draught.

TRA. B. C.—"I have used Black-Draught, at intervals, for about five years," says Mr. J. F. GUILLAND, of this place. "I take it for indigestion. 'After eating, I would have a tight, bloated feeling, and pains in my chest and stomach. I would spit up my food, and some things I ate would not agree with me at all. 'I would be hungry, but afraid to eat on account of the indigestion. I would be constipated, too. 'Some one told me that I should try Black-Draught, which I did, with good results. I take just a small dose after meals, and I feel like a different person. 'I do not have any more trouble of that kind. I can now eat almost anything I want to, at any time, and it does not hurt me. 'Black-Draught is a splendid medicine. I can recommend it to others. 'Thousands of people have found relief, in cases of common indigestion, by taking a pinch of Black-Draught after meals, and continuing this treatment for several days. 'Take Theodor's Black-Draught. It is purely vegetable and acts in a helpful way, without the bad effects of mineral drugs. NC-199

INCREASE NOTED IN MIND DISEASE

Gain In Admissions To Hospitals Greater Than The Population Gain.

Washington.—A department of commerce report released shows that the increase in the number of first admissions to state hospitals in North Carolina between 1922 and 1927 was relatively greater than the growth in the state's population during the same period.

Of the first admissions in North Carolina during 1927, 743 were males and 630 were females. Those present on January 1, 1928, included 2,248 males and 2,651 females.

The three hospitals in North Carolina, the report discloses, had a total of 1,373 first admissions during 1927, compared with 1,162 in 1926 and 851 in 1925.

These first admissions represent patients received during the year who had not previously been under treatment in any hospital for mental disease. Such newly admitted patients, the report says, afford the best available measure of the number of new cases of mental disease which are brought under hospital treatment during a given year.

"The increase in the number of first admissions to state hospitals in North Carolina between 1922 and 1927," the report shows, "was relatively greater than the growth in the state's population during the same period, as shown by the fact that the first admissions in 1927 numbered 47.4 per 100,000 of population as compared with 40.7 in 1926 and 31.9 in 1925."

"The extent to which provision has been made for state treatment of mental patients is indicated by the number of patients present in the state hospitals on a given date. In North Carolina, the number of mental patients under treatment in the state hospitals has increased steadily from 2,489 on January 1, 1910, to 4,899 on January 1, 1928; and the ratio of such patients per 100,000 of general population increased from 112.8 on January 1, 1910, to 167.8 on January 1, 1928.

"These reports are based on reports furnished by the institutions, through the cooperation of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare. The figures for 1927 and 1928 are preliminary and subject to correction."

Big Pike Tries To Dine On Little Pig

Albion, Ind.—They grow pike in this neighborhood. Here's the story of Alva Hodge and he has the pictorial exhibit to prove it.

Stocking a pond on his farm with minnows, Hodge never was able to find one of them matured. Then ducks began disappearing. Mr. Hodge began observing the pond closely, and when a sow and her brood waded into the water and one of the pigs began to squeal, he investigated. A monster pike had the little porker's leg in his mouth. Mr. Hodge took a club and killed the fish, which was 6 feet 2 inches long and weighed 124 pounds.

Boy Scout Activities In This Community

(By V. C. Mason, Scoutmaster Of Troop 5.)

Much interest and enthusiasm was manifested in the first general meeting of the Boy Scouts of Shelby held at the high school building, Monday afternoon, February 25. All troops were represented with the majority of its members present. Lee B. Weathers, vice president of the scout movement in Cleveland county was present, and made some timely remarks concerning the advancement of scout work in Shelby, and surrounding territory. "We need more leaders and better leaders," said Mr. Weathers in his closing remarks. "for our scouts in Shelby, and if you boys know where we can find them, we will get them."

Mr. T. B. Falls discussed our lack of interest in the court of honor meetings which are held every second Monday night in each month at the court house. Mr. Andrews, principal of the high school, made an important announcement concerning extra credit that would be given to Boy Scout attaining the Eagle Rank. He said that an Eagle Scout would be given one unit of credit toward graduation in his senior year after he had obtained fifteen required units. "This unit would go down on his college entrance blank as an extra-curricular activity," said Mr. Andrews.

The boys made several suggestions concerning scout work in Shelby. Allen Suttle of Troop two was elected scribe for these general meetings. It was decided that these meetings should be held at the high school every first Monday in each month a week before the court of honor meeting.

Scholarships To Be Awarded By National Boy Scout Press Assn.

The annual meeting of the National Boy Scout Press association will be held in conjunction with the Columbia Interscholastic Press association convention on Friday March 8, at Columbia university, New York city, N. Y., according to an announcement from the national offices of the Boy Scouts of America. Outstanding features of the meeting will be the announcement of a four year scholarship award to an approved school of journalism which will be given yearly to the member of the association doing the outstanding work in journalism, and the adoption of a formal constitution and the election of officers.

Membership in the National Boy Scout Press association is open to all members of the Boy Scouts of America who have earned the Merit Badge in Journalism, the Gold Quill of the Lone Scout, or who are editors of Chartered Amateur Publications of the Boy Scout movement. There will be a representation at the meeting from every part of the United States.

Grow What They Want

Cotton fiber of uniform standards has always been wanted by the manufacturers, and the price premium has always favored these standards, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. But farmers offered what they grew instead of growing what the market wanted. Quality kept on getting worse—until "finally the cause became clear." Public gins had taken the place of the old-time plantation gin, and everybody's seed was being mixed, crossing and mongrelizing the whole crop. The way to do, says the Department, is to plant one good variety of cotton in each ginning neighborhood. In other words, put GOOD seed on your V-C Fertilizer.

Newspapers from cornstalks in six hours is the latest record made by the scientific sharps. What will they do next? FULL ROWS is prepared for anything short of a paid-up subscription list.

"ON ONE 5-ACRE PLOT I used 450 pounds of V-C per acre with no soda or top dressing of any kind, and I picked seven bales averaging 550 pounds. V-C beat them all!"—W. J. McStewart, Coats, N. C.

Education Pays Dividends

A study of 1271 farmers was made by the Georgia State College of Agriculture in 1925, says the Yearbook of Agriculture. Records showed that farmers with a common school education had a yearly income of about two and a half times as much as farmers without schooling. Farmers with a high school education earned approximately three times as much, and farmers with a short course in agricultural education earned about four times as much as those without schooling.

Takes a smart boll weevil to beat V-C cotton.

"The soil, like an athlete, finds it hard to come back once it is bordering on exhaustion," says Modern Farming. "The time to get most from an investment in plant food is BEFORE the soil is depleted."

A Preacher of Farming

One of the hardest working and best meaning folks in the world is your typical average county agent. He's a sort of preacher about farming instead of religion. Yet how often does he get credit for trying? Or for knowing what he's talking about? Still, FULL ROWS has noticed one thing: the farmers who make money year in and year out always listen when the county agent talks. The money may be due to the listening, or the listening may be due to the money, but somehow they go together.

"As yield per acre goes UP, net cost per pound goes DOWN."—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

One-Variety Cotton

"Advantages may be expected by one-variety cotton communities above the prices obtained by communities that produce a miscellaneous crop," says the 1927 Yearbook of Agriculture. "This is shown by experience in communities where the seed is kept pure and a uniform fiber is produced. In California, Arizona and New Mexico one-variety communities have been maintained since 1920. Definite programs of community improvement have been adopted recently in several of the older cotton-growing states."

HOW TO RAISE TURNIPS.

"Take hold of the top and pull," says Mixed Goods.

"ABOUT 25 PER CENT of the average cost of fertilizer is made up of inbound and outbound freight charges."—National Fertilizer Assn.

"THIS SEASON I decided to experiment with V-C super analysis grades, planting 15 acres and using 300 pounds of 5-15-5 per acre. On this field I made more than a bale to the acre."—Dr. W. C. Carver, Vidette, Ga.

Wise Farmers Make Sure

Two farmers get exactly the same price for their product—but one MAKES MORE than the other for his year's work. The difference is in Cost of Production. And the biggest factor in controlling cost of production is fertilizer—the right kind, the right analysis, used right. Hit-or-miss farmers take a chance and hope for the best. Good farmers, wise farmers, the kind who make money, take NO chances that they don't have to take. They buy V-C.
