

COCK FIGHTERS IN CHEROKEE FINED

Gaffney, S. C.—Three men who remained to guard the feathered warriors being preened for battle Saturday in the vicinity of Cherokee Baptist church when officers reached the scene were fined $15 each by Magistrate Floyd L. Baker yesterday upon pleading guilty to a charge of attempting to stage a cock fight. They are Clarence White, Boyce Lee Cudd and J. O. Peeler. The officers said several other men at the scene escaped by running.

LADY'S SUFFERING

She Writes That "A Friend Told Me To Take Cardui and I Know It Helped Me."

Greenville, Miss.—In describing how she suffered several years ago, Mrs. Mattie Dalton, of 213 Walnut Street, this city, recently wrote: "I would cramp, and my hands and feet would draw, so I came near having convulsions. I would have to stay in bed a week, and when I would get up, I just dragged around, and did not feel like doing my work. I suffered a great deal with my back. "A friend came to see me and saw how I suffered. She told me to try taking Cardui, which I did. I seemed to have more strength, after my first bottle. After I had taken about four bottles of Cardui, I saw a great improvement. "I quit having such bad spells, and was stronger and better than in a long time. I gained in weight. I took a few more bottles of Cardui, and felt so well that I quit taking it. "I certainly can recommend Cardui, for I know what it is to suffer, and I know that Cardui helped me." "Thousands of women have written to tell of the benefit Cardui has been to them, in helping them to build up their health. Purely vegetable. Get a bottle today. All druggists. NC-206

Copeland's Health Talk

A Chronic Heart

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

(United States Senator And Former Health Commissioner of New York.)

No matter where the severe pain is located in the body, it seems to the sufferer that he is worse off than anybody else ever was. It is the present pain that seems hardest.

I have seen many a person in terrible agony. Headache, earache, the eye pain in glaucoma, the suffering of shingles, inflammation of the stomach—any one of these may be terrible. But to my mind the attack known as "angina pectoris," angina of the heart, is the most dreadful of all pains.

When the agony of this ailment comes on the bravest and calmest of strong men will roll on the floor in his distress. Every line in the pallid face shows the terrible mental fear and physical suffering. There is nothing else that can approach its agonizing effects.

One writer describes it in these words: "A heavy leaden weight lies upon the patient's chest and he dare not try to breathe because of excruciating pain, and without breath he must die." Indeed, it is a state of misery without equal.

Some unfortunate persons have a tendency to this disease. They suffer recurring attacks. Every few weeks, or perhaps only once a year, they appear.

Usually the angina comes on after severe physical strain or emotional disturbance. Anger, sorrow, disaster, or some similar exciting cause may bring on the attack.

All at once there is a pain in the heart. It feels as if that vital organ had been seized and was being squeezed in a powerful vise. The pain does not stop here. It fills the chest, runs into the shoulder and down the arm.

The face is the color of ashes. Sweat pours from the forehead. The victim is sure he will die at once. He looks and acts and feels like a dying man.

The spasm may last but a few minutes. It may continue for a quarter of an hour or even longer. But usually the pain passes off after a few seconds. Indeed, it is so unbearable that death would come without speedy relief.

Of course, I have been describing the violent, the worst forms of angina pectoris. There are other forms in which the agony is less pronounced and the symptoms disappear quickly.

Not every pain, by any means, that is felt under the chest bone, is angina pectoris. There may be severe pain in some attacks of indigestion with gas formation. But then the agony is less severe and usually more prolonged. Sometimes in high blood pressure associated with kidney diseases, there may be attacks of pain in this region. It is important to have your doctor make a thorough physical examination to determine exactly what is wrong.

There are remedies which control the pain of angina. Your doctor will prescribe them. By using them at once there is every prospect of speedy relief.

It is a good idea to carry a supply of the medicine. It is likely to be needed when it is difficult to get the doctor in a hurry.

Mrs. A. D. Q.—What do you advise for anemia where the patient's body swells? I have been taking lemon juice with a view to reducing.

A.—It would be unwise to take too much lemon juice since you are anemic. Lemon juice taken in excess will tend to thin the blood and is not weight reducing. You should be under the care of your doctor. Have him prescribe for you.

A. E. O. Q.—I have a friend and the slightest touch on any part of her body leaves a black and blue mark. What causes this condition? A.—This is probably due to a circulatory disturbance.

J. P. Q.—How can I gain weight? A.—Proper dieting and deep breathing is the secret. You should eat nourishing foods and have plenty of sleep and rest.

J. P. R. Q.—What should a boy aged 16, 5 feet 5 inches tall weigh? 2.—Can I reduce my height? A.—He should weigh about 125 pounds. A.—Cannot be done. You have several years in which to grow.

Back In Old Days When Things Fizzed

Asheville Citizen. A leading editorial in this week's issue of the Morganton News-Herald, headed "Memories," catches the eye and rivets attention. But when it is discovered that the article has to do with an event dating back to 1894 we are led to marvel; for what sort of "memories" can Miss Beatrice Cobb have of 1894? The fact is she pretends to none for the article has to do with the menu card of a banquet which Morganton gave to the North Carolina Press association thirty-five years ago and which a citizen of that town unearthed the other day. Tickets to the banquet were ten dollars a plate. Miss Cobb thinks that there would be a brisk demand for them at a much higher price than that if the same menu could be served now. It included "Aldoro Sherry," "Moett and Chandon (White Seal)" and "G. H. Mumm (extra dry)." We were just about to echo her doubt as to whether the younger generation would know what the words last quoted meant when our stenographer interrupted to ask whether "Moett and Chandon" and "G. H. Mumm (Extra Dry)" were whiskey. We had to explain that they were two famous brands of champagne—a beverage which sparkled and fizzed, tickling the nose as well as the palate and often leaving a "hang over" which was highly dangerous. At the Morganton banquet there were nine "toasts" and sixteen speakers. That is the way they did things in the days of sherry and

Detective Thinks Vanderburg Affair Mystery No Longer

Gives No Details, However, Of His Investigation In Gaston Case.

Gastonia Gazette.

Colonel Frank Morgan, noted detective of Richmond, Va., for many years connected with the British Military Intelligence in Egypt and South Africa, and in later years with the U. S. secret service in the Teapot Dome investigation, who has been in Gastonia for several weeks past on an investigation of the Vanderburg murder mystery, involving young Jake Vanderburg, held for trial in April on a charge of slaying and burning five members of his own family last December, left for Richmond.

"The Vanderburg 'mystery' is no longer a mystery," declared Colonel Morgan when approached just before he boarded his train for home. "I have completed my investigation. I am through with the case, and, although I cannot divulge my finds for several days yet, you can say that the so-called mystery is solved."

Colonel Morgan repeatedly refused to disclose the evidence which he had uncovered in his weeks of investigation and which he declared would unquestionably explode the aura of mystery that has hovered about the crime. He would only say that the mystery was no longer a mystery, and that he would publicly reveal his discoveries as soon as tactics permitted.

J. W. Vanderburg, his wife, two daughters and one son were murdered (it is believed) and the Vanderburg home burned on the night of Thursday, December 27th, last. Jacob Vanderburg, 18-year-old son of the family was the only member who escaped death. He was found sitting by the road side near the ruins of the home with a gun and a suit case. He has been in the Gaston county jail and is charged with first degree murder in five counts and arson. His trial is scheduled to come up at the April term of Gaston superior court.

FALLSTON, N. C. SMITH'S GARAGE GOODYEAR TIRES

WOMAN WHO SAW 7 WARS DIES AT 103

Atlanta, Mar. 4.—Mrs. Amanda Wade, who knew the soldiers of seven wars, is dead here today, aged 103. Her proudest boast was that during her lifetime the medicine she had taken "could be held in the hollow of one hand." Aside from that century of unbroken health she liked most to recall acquaintance with fighting men of the revolution, navy gunners of 1812 and soldiers of the Indian, Mexican, Civil, Spanish-American and World wars. Prior to her death she had been confined to her chair for 20 months by a broken hip. Mrs. Wade saw the first railroad train run in her native state of South Carolina. She was born in Greenville county, June 14, 1825.

Unusual experiments that will have a far-reaching effect on airplane design are being conducted at Langley field, Va. The air resistance of the increasingly popular radial air-cooled aviation motor, which now is one of the most serious drawbacks of this type of airplane power plant, is reduced by more than thirty per cent by a radical change in streamlining the cowling, which diverts the propeller slip stream around the motor and yet does not interfere with the cooling.

RESOLUTION.

Since it was the will of the Great Architect of the Universe to remove from our midst on February 16, 1929, our beloved Brother George Smyrnis—therefore be it resolved:

- 1.—That we bow in submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. 2.—That Cleveland lodge No. 202 has lost a faithful brother whose fellowship it was a pleasure to enjoy. Love, kindness and generosity were natural impulses of his heart. We also recognize the fact that our loss is his gain. 3.—That we extend to his relatives and friends our sympathies, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records in the archives of the lodge and a copy be published in the Cleveland Star and, also, in the Orphan's Friend.
