

Legion Praised By Local Service Man

"A comradeship of men who have memories of squads right, submarine infested seas, and trenches of France, are enjoyments of men who belong to The American Legion," said Dr. T. B. Gold, M. D., D. S. C. member of the Warren Hoyle, Post No. 82 today.

"By paying dues and taking part in the Legion, a veteran engages in great national projects of service. The Legion works for relief of disabled comrades, their departments, and orphaned children of veterans. The Legion, through a great network of ten thousand posts, is engaged in the promotion of national defense, aviation a safety campaign, a junior baseball world series, emergency relief, community service, and scores of worthwhile projects. The Legion stands in the front line of every field where the interest of World War veterans is at stake.

"The Legionnaire receives free upon payment of his dues to the organization The American Legion Monthly. This magazine, produced by one of the largest publishing plants in the world, is well illustrated. It commands the writings of leading authors. It is one of the most quoted magazines in the country. It is a delightful visitor to every man who shares the common memories of World War service.

"Membership in the Legion in most communities, entitles the veteran to club privileges as most posts own their homes. Whenever a veteran travels over the United States, and foreign countries, he finds fellow Legionnaires. They are friendly and need no introduction beyond a Legion membership card.

"The Legion is democratic. Its meetings afford a forum for self expression. In the Legion there is no rank. Millionaires associate with men of the moderate circumstances, memories of World War days.

"Legion Posts enjoy assistance and companionship of the American Legion Auxiliary, consisting of approximately three hundred thousand patriotic women. Legion membership carries the privilege of joining the Forty and Eight, the play and honor society of the Legion.

"There are deeper benefits derived from membership in the Legion. The veteran soon falls into the swing of things. He soon catches the spirit. He begins to ask 'What can I do to help?' The men of the Legion serve in peace as they did in war."

At The Theatres

Hoot Mon, Sir Harry Lauder is now in the films. You will have the privilege of seeing the great comedian at the Princess today in his first bow before the camera—"Huntingtower." Of course Sir Harry is a scream on the silver sheet. The plot of the picture ties up closely with the recent visit to this country of the woman claiming to be Princess Anastasia, daughter of the late Tsar. The book of the same name, by Col. John Buchan had a wide sale.

Sally O'Neil comes tomorrow in "Hardboiled," a picture from the Arthur Somers Roche story. Lilyan Tashman is in the cast. It depicts the adventures of a show girl.

"The Iron Mask," with Douglas Fairbanks, Tuesday and Wednesday, and Greta Garbo Thursday and Friday, are two outstanding specials offered this week at the Webb.

Meantime Lya De Putti, co-star with Emil Jennings, in the great tragedy "Variety," in a comedy drama entitled "Buck Privates" tops the very good program today.

"The Iron Mask," is the sequel to "The Three Musketeers," with which Douglas Fairbanks thrilled the world a year ago. He plays D'Artagnan in this play as in the former. Critics everywhere say it is the best picture Doug has made. It has broken box office records in New York.

Cotton Market

(By John F. Clark and Co.)

Cotton was quoted today at noon on New York exchange: March 21.28; October 20.59. Saturday's close: March 21.41; October 20.66.

Midling 1113 against 112 Friday. Sales of print cloths and sheetings in Worth street past week ran to the heaviest volume in many weeks. Manchester cable says rise in raw cotton restricts cloth sales. China most active buyer, India demand smaller. New York Herald Tribune, Memphis special says, curtailment of cotton acreage likely. Sales of fertilizer 40 to 70 percent below last year. Some farms in Georgia and Alabama, abandoned because of flood and credit conditions. Steady demand for spot cotton, southern weather clear over week-end. Forecast fair east rain west. Rather buy on reactions. CLEVELBURG.

Plans have been completed for the construction of a three-story glass house on top of a New York building. It will be made of glass "bricks," translucent but not transparent. They will be connected by concrete and steel reinforcing. Interesting effects in lighting will be produced at night, when the house is illuminated from within, the architect promises.

One reason why the moon is not fit for human habitation, besides the two well known facts that it has no atmosphere and is subject to unendurable extremes of temperature, is that it undergoes the incessant bombardment of innumerable meteors. The majority of these bodies are no larger than grains of sand, but have great penetrating power, as they fly at speeds ranging up to forty miles or more a second.

Cream shipments from a small valley station in Surry county have increased from 15 gallons to 95 gallons in one year.
