"GUS AND GUSSIE" — The Fewer The Higher

Larger Sales Of Cigarettes Caused By Women Smoking

(Raleigh News & Observer.) If Raleigh smokers kept up with the average for the nation last year, they smoked 1,225.9 miles of cigarettes laid end on end, which is 28,244,400 cigarettes. This was an increase of over 2,330,000 over the consumption the preceding year. The increase for the country was so startling that experts were called upon to account for the increase over 1927, which was considered by manufacturers to be a banner year. These experts, being largely men, promptly pointed to the increase of smoking among women, saying that this accounted for a large percentage of the increased sales. And Raleigh stores, where cigarettes are handled, bear out the story. The above figures are based on statistics just issued by the Internal Revenue bureau, which showed that 105,915,165,014 cigarettes were smoked or at least purchased in the United States during 1928, as tax returns show. With an estimated population of 120,013,000 for the nation, and 32,000 for Raleigh, the Capital city's quota is slightly under a million and a half packages. The nation as a whole showed an increase of 8,739,357,530. If that number is divided by the percentage of Raleigh's population to that of the United States, it will be seen that 2,330,495 more cigarettes were smoked here in 1928 than in the preceding year, always supposing that Raleigh consumes its exact per capita share, and it probably consumes more.

Senator Simmons And His Idea Of Running In Next Election

(Hickory Record.) That Senator Simmons will be a candidate in 1932 to succeed himself as senior United States senator from North Carolina is the news from Washington. There is no doubt but that this will be received in many sections of the state with gladness, even appreciation. On the other hand and in other sections there are those—who for years have been the senator's friends and members of his organization, in many cases—who will not be so glad to hear that he is to run for the office again. Those who do not want Mr. Simmons to be a candidate in the next election are those who wish to punish him for his attitude in the last presidential election—because he did not feel disposed to support the party's nominee. Those who are glad that he is to seek the office again include Democrats who stood by him during the Hoover-Smith campaign, because of the force of habit of belonging to the Simmons faction if, indeed, it could be called a faction—was so powerful that they could not get away from it. Looking at it from the outside, one would be compelled to say that the old senator, who for more than 30 years has led his party and who is now one of the highest ranking members of the United States senate, would easily be re-elected, that he can hold the office as long as he lives. But from another angle, it does not look so promising. The question all hinges upon whether the breach caused in the last election will be healed in four years. Will the Democrats forget their differences? Will they rally to the cause of their veteran leader, if for nothing else, because of his long and faithful service and out of respect of his gray locks? It remains to be seen, and it may depend upon the next nominee of the Democratic party and the senator's attitude at that time. It is too far away, now, to foresee.
