COSTS OF WAR BILLION YEARLY

Experts Of Treasury Place Total Cost Of Conflict At 33 Billion Dollars.

Washington.—On the twelfth anniversary today of the United States entry into the world war, treasury experts estimated the money cost of the conflict to this nation at $37,000,000,000. It is still costing $1,200,000,000 a year.

This total cost, more than twice the total national debt of the United States, includes not only the net cost for the war period but the continuing costs of the war to the present date.

From the declaration of war, April 6, 1917, until the official end of the state of war between this country and Germany July 2, 1921, the estimated net cost to the United States is placed at $27,183,989,752.96.

But the costs did not cease with the declaration of peace and in the 10 years since the guns were stilled the continuing costs of the war to the United States have been about $1,200,000,000 annually.

Interest on the public debt, care of the veterans and settlement of war claims are the principal continuing costs of the war. These costs are slowly decreasing, but it may be years before the war has been completely paid for.

War costs cannot be ascertained exactly as it is necessary, treasury officials explained, to deduct from total expenditures the estimated normal expenditures of the government for the war period.

The net cost is arrived at by making allowance for the amounts owed this country by foreign nations as a result of war-time loans. The government is still paying pensions growing out of the Mexican War of 1848 and subsequent conflicts.

At The Theatres

"Honeymoon Flats" starring the attractive youth, George Lewis, is the feature picture at the Webb today. It's a comedy of young married folks—gay, frolicsome and entertaining.

Tomorrow brings a special, starring Leatrice Joy—"Man-Made Woman." Appearing with Miss Joy is that sterling actor, H. B. Warner. This is a very fine picture, built on a story of modern society life. A dressed up picture, as the press sheet says. The heroine loved her husband but despised the colorless life she led with him. Hence the story.

The Princess has an ambitious program for this week, including three days of the stage piece "A Trip to the Hawaiian Islands." Today's feature is "The Midnight Taxi," starring Antonio Moreno and Helene Costello. It is a story of thrills and action centering around the bootleg trade. A good comedy is also on the bill. Thursday and Friday a Fox special is due—"Win That Girl" David Rollins and Sue Carol appear in this one. There is an added attraction on the screen Wednesday and Thursday—a one reel sound picture—"Melody"—very appealing. The Hawaiian stage piece is on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with performances both afternoon and evening.

Cotton Market

(By John F. Clark and Co.)

Cotton was quoted at noon today on New York exchange:
May 20.56, October 20.01. Yesterday's close: May 20.64, October 20.10.

Forecast: Carolinas and Georgia occasional showers, Alabama fair preceded by showers. Mississippi fair, Arkansas and Oklahoma part cloudy to unsettled, Texas fair. Raining at Vicksburg and Montgomery last night. March report of Textiles New York shows sales 129.2 percent of production, shipments 109.3 percent of production, stocks decreased 7.4 percent, unfilled orders increased 6.9 percent, bullish. Trading in Worth street, upturn in raw cotton gave more confidence. Memphis Cotton Review in Journal of Commerce says business in actual shows increase, weather favorable for new crop preparation, boll weevil survival statistics discounted. Expect steady market. ### Feline May Have Rabies Without Being Near Dog

County Attorney Ryburn Finds That Even Rats Contract Hydrophobia, Puzzle Yet.

The question as to whether a cat infected with hydrophobia can be termed by law as a mad dog is still somewhat of a knotty legal problem about Shelby.

Some time back, as has been related in The Star heretofore, a mad cat bit several children in the Zion section. The North Carolina law says that a county must pay for damages or rabies treatment resulting from a mad dog, and at a recent meeting of the county commissioners a bill for treatment given the children infected by the cat was presented. The commissioners turned to the law book. The law says that damages resulting from a "rabid dog," mentioning no other animals. Then the question was turned over to County Attorney R. L. Ryburn.

This week Mr. Ryburn informed A. E. Cline, commission chairman, that in delving into the matter he had learned that cats and rats might become infected with hydrophobia without ever getting near a dog. So, it seems as if the lawmaker who created the state law intended for the law to cover all damage by rabid animals, but the law didn't say so and it didn't include mad cats and mad rats. Of course if the cat which bit the children had been infected by a dog, which could have been the case, the county, by law, would be liable for damages resulting, but since it has been learned that a cat may "go mad" without being infected by a dog the problem is a tougher one to crack than ever. The law confines itself to mad dogs—and the law doesn't often stand for an interpretation of what it intended to mean instead of what it reads, and if the particular law is followed to the letter there may be no damages paid out for the rampage of the mad cat about Zion. Such being the case some lawmaker at the next legislature may be urged by the folks back home to insert cats and rats in with the dogs in the mad dog reparations law.

Toddy Joe McGuginn, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McGulinn, of Columbus, was fatally burned last week when she fell into a tub of scalding hot water. And older child of the family was similarly burned a few years ago but the injuries did not prove fatal.
