"NATURES STORY."
(By Lloyd Mauney.)

By the side of the open wildwood Where the murmuring of the trees Brings the smell of budding blossoms Faintly on the gentle breeze.

By the side of the wooded glen Where the shadows love to play, Where the singing of the gay birds Make sweet music all the day.

In the midst of the towering limbs Where the trees rise dark and tall, And the singing of the bush bird Clearly rises and gently falls.

In the pathway of the forest Where the trail grows very dim, In the calling of the breezes There you go to talk with Him.

In the shadow of the giant tree Towering upward to the sky, Where the mist of fleecy clouds Fleck themselves as they pass by.

In the land of shrouded mystery Where the wild life loves to play, There's the place you'll go to find Him.

That is what they often say, By the trunk of some dead tree Where the toll for life has ceased, There you find the thing you wish for.

There will be the place of peace. In the place of beauty and charm Where the wild life all resides, There's the place you'll be another And forget your foolish pride.

In the heart of man and nature Where the will is just the same, Each is striving for the better Working for some worldly gain.

In the life that lives about us Let this now our slogan be, Let us always love each other And not think so much of "me."

Jonas Shares His Office With Man Dodging A Black Congressman LaGuardia, New York, Offers To Take Office Beside Negro.

Washington. — Representative Charles A. Jonas, Republican member from the ninth North Carolina district, has come to the rescue of Representative George M. Pritchard, Republican of the Asheville district. He is harboring him in his office on the third floor of the house office building, far removed from Representative Oscar DePriest, the Illinois negro congressman. The Pritchard name plate has been removed from room 132, the telephone taken out and the doors locked.

Mr. Pritchard's secretary is at the Jonas suite of offices. But this is temporary arrangement. Soon Pritchard will have a room to himself. The house leaders are moving to quite him.

Among Friends. Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Republican of New York today wired Speaker Longworth that he would take a room by Representative DePriest. This enables the Republicans to place DePriest among friends. The prospect is that DePriest will be sandwiched in between LaGuardia and Representative Melvin J. Maas, Republican of Minnesota, and that Pritchard will have a room in another section of the spacious building.

Native New Yorker. LaGuardia who offers his services in this pinch was born in New York in 1882. He is a stocky, brown skinned man of everlasting energy. During the World war he was an aviator. His people are of Italian

For Mayor. I hereby announce my candidacy for Mayor of the City of Shelby and pledge the citizens of the community that if I am elected I will endeavor to perform my duties impartially and give the people the very best services of which I am capable.

Collegians Have Higher Ideals, Says College Man
 University Dean Asserts American Collegian Is Not "Collegiate," Has Higher Ideals.

Washington.—The modern American collegian is not "collegiate" but "has higher ideals and purposes, does better and more serious scholastic work and lives by a higher standard of moral conduct than the student of any preceding generation."

That is the conclusion, Henry Grattan Dogie, dean of open of George Washington university, has drawn from his own observations and from statements by the presidents or deans of men of about 300 colleges in reply to a questionnaire.

He undertook the inquiry, he explained in an announcement of the results today, with a desire "to contribute something toward the correction of what I believe to be erroneous public opinion concerning the college man and woman today."

He will make a detailed report this week at the annual meeting here of the association of deans and advisers of men.

The "collegiate" of the stage and comic papers represents only one or two per cent of the student body, the replies agreed, and almost all declared that the slovenly appearance, tumble-down socks, three-day shirts and rumpled collars were execrations and were disapproved by the majority of collegians. Most college men, they said, were serious minded, particular about their appearance, kept their hair neatly trimmed and their shoes shined, wore clean line, and eschewed the coonskin coat, the gaudily painted flivver, hard drinking and bad manners.

BLOATED FEELING
 And Other Troubles Went Away After This South Carolinian Had Taken Black-Draught.

Iva, S. C.—"I have used Black-Draught, at intervals, for about five years," says Mr. J. F. Olliland, of this place. "I take it for indigestion."

"After eating, I would have a tight, bloated feeling, and pains in my chest and stomach. I would spit up my food, and some things I ate would not agree with me at all. "I would be hungry, but afraid to eat on account of the indigestion. I would be constipated, too."

"Some one told me that I should try Black-Draught, which I did, with good results. I take just a small dose after meals, and I feel like a different person."

"I do not have any more trouble of that kind. I can now eat almost anything I want to, at any time, and it does not hurt me."

Mitt Tolbert Co. Here Next Week
 One event that is always looked forward to with a great deal of pleasant anticipation is the annual engagement, in this city, of the Mitt Tolbert Chautauqua Players.

The people of Shelby have grown so that it has grown to be more mingling with the players each season that it has grown to be more or less of a community enterprise.

Each season Mr. Holloway has assembled together an organization of talented players whose efforts have been received graciously wherever they have appeared. He has spared no effort or expense in bringing the finest class of amusement available anywhere into the cities of North Carolina where he annually exhibits.

This season he has outdone all previous efforts in getting together the finest company yet to appear here. From the four corners of America they have come to Shelby during the past three weeks preparatory to the opening.

All plays being presented this year are the latest royalty releases, nothing being repeated. All the vaudeville is brand new and different from anything heretofore presented under canvass. On Monday night the "It Girl," a brand new snappy drama of modern life, dealing with the flapper and her problems will be presented. Plenty of comedy situations are injected into the play and there are surprises galore. The woman will be seen in a dazzling array of feminine finery which will cause more than the usual comment. Miss Betty Edwards, charming leading woman, will be seen in the title role. Boyd Holloway himself will support her in the very pleasing role of Ted Layton. All the members of the newly assembled company will be seen to good advantage. Music by the new famous Virginia Serenaders will be heard throughout the evening and is guaranteed to drive the blues away.

Ladies will be free on Monday night when accompanied by a paid adult ticket.

The tent is located on the Rudasill property, just behind the Victor hotel.
