MYSTERY SHROUDS GRAVE ROBBERY IN YORK GRAVEYARD

Body Removed From Grave Where It Was Buried in 1816. No Valuables.

Rock Hill, S. C.—Residents of the India Hook section of York county are at a loss to understand why the grave of Mrs. Nancy Thomason, buried in a private plot in that section in 1816, was opened recently and the body removed.

Several other graves in the plot which had been preserved by J. B. Fewell, a farmer of the vicinity, were not molested.

The discovery was made by Mr. Fewell after plowers in the vicinity had noticed the mound disturbed and investigated. Mr. Fewell said today that the casket with the body had evidently been carried away in an automobile.

The Thomason family owned the land on which the graves were dug years ago before the Fewell family purchased it. Relatives still reside in this section.

A number of theories for the reason for digging up the body have been advanced but none that seems to satisfactorily explain it. As far as is known no valuables were in the grave.

DOWNTOWN PLAY AREAS DEVELOPED BY WOMEN

Cambridge, Mass.—Converting unused back yards in the business district into play grounds for children is a project successfully carried out by the Cambridge league of women voters.

Realizing that municipal playgrounds are often in distant places where children must get into heavy traffic in order to reach them, the women voters launched its plan for back yard playgrounds.

Prizes were offered in a city-wide contest. Exhibits of back yard playgrounds were held in all parts of the city. Social agencies were interested. Soon boys and girls were more absorbed in making models of playgrounds than in playing in real ones.

THIS HOLDUP FELLOW KNOWS HIS GROCERIES

Chicago.—The fellow who held up Mrs. Raymond Cline knew his groceries.

All he took from the delicatessen store owner was the bag of food-stuff she was carrying home; but in among the carrots, macaroni, gingersnaps and head lettuce were the days receipts—$102.

When Mrs. Emmeline Morris of Glasgow returned from a shopping trip she found a tramp sleeping in her bed.
