

Oil The Root Of All Troubles.

From The Pathfinder.

A quarrel has grown up between France and Spain over the Spanish oil monopoly. When the Spanish government took over all the oil business in the state it proceeded to settle with the various foreign oil firms doing business there. The French firms insisted on an allowance for good will which the government refused to allow. Finally the French government intervened and suggested arbitration. This Spain refused, and thereupon France resorted to reprisals by levying full fees for identity cards on all Spanish citizens in France. This was a breach of a convention of 1862 and caused a strong protest from Spain.

Must Drink To Be Popular, Chicago School Girls State

Jury Investigating Death Of Youth On Liquor Party Is Amazed At Evidence.

Chicago.—Liquor drinking among the grade and high school pupils has aroused Chicago again. Two years ago all saloons near schools were closed, but the drinking continued. The death of George Lux, twenty-four, member of a school drinking party, induced Coroner Bunsen to summon a jury of educators, which has been astonished at evidence given by girls.

Colletta Liston, fifteen, an eighth grade pupil in the Liberty school, and Gladys Hanks, seventeen, a junior at Lindholm high school, were with Lux when the car in which they were riding overturned, smothering him. They testified concerning the liquor party at a road house, dancing until 2:30 a. m. and then the fatal ride.

"When you go visiting now-a-days you have to take a bottle, and if we don't drink we're not wanted," declared Virginia Graf, nineteen, one of the members of the party.

Prof. Samuel Stevens of the jury asked: "But these parties, must you girls go to them? Can't you entertain in your own homes?"

"Oh, yes," Virginia replied with a toss of her bobbed head, "but if he can't bring his bottle with him he's off you and won't come again."

The members of the jury are Edward J. Tobin county superintendent of schools; Paul T. Buzin, superintendent of Lutheran Parochial schools; Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools of Chicago; Prof. E. F. Burgess, head of the sociology department, professor of law at Loyola university, and Prof. Stevens, who holds the chair of psychology at Northwestern.

"The situation is acute," said Prof. Stevens, "and it can't get much worse without serious trouble. Prohibition is undoubtedly a factor in this desperate situation."

The jury put the blame on parents. Mr. Buzin said:

"These wayward children throughout Chicago and the nation are merely following the trend set by their parents. In the measure that if parents violate the laws and the moral code the children will. Likewise, they will be as law-abiding as their parents. Of course, there are exceptions, but that is the rule."

It Doesn't Pay To Lie To Your Dog

Story Of Dog Pulling Youngster From Death In Water Explains Why.

Christian World.

Early one morning Mark Lewis heard a low whining under his window. He quickly got out of bed and ran to the open window. The big flat door-stone was just beneath him, and on the stone sat a puppy.

Edward W. Frenz tells this dog story in High and Far.

The dog was brown and white, with a coat of long, thick hair that would have been pretty if it had not been wet and muddy, full of snarls and tangled with burrs. The dog, hearing the slight noise that Mark made when he went to the window, looked up at him with a pair of soft brown eyes that seemed to say, "Please give me something to eat. I am a poor dog that has no home and is out of work!"

Mark hurried down and opened the door. The little dog came in, whimpering and wiggling all over. In a minute his pink tongue was lapping a dish of milk. Mark and his cousins Fred and Charlie named the dog Bob and kept him for their own.

One day, when they had him for about a week, they were playing with him in front of the house. Mark had an apple that he would throw for Bob to chase. They thought it was better fun sometimes not to throw the apple, but only to make the motion. Poor Bob would see Mark's arm move, and away he would dash, without waiting to see whether the apple went or not; and then he would look so puzzled that you could not help laughing at him.

The doctor who was driving along called to them, "Boys, I am sorry to see that you are lying to your dog."

"Why sir what do you mean?" asked Fred.

"Well," said the doctor, "when you make a motion as if to throw the apple, your dog trusts you; he thinks you mean to throw it, and when you hold the apple back you really tell him a lie. By and by he will learn that he cannot trust you, and he will not do what you tell him to. You ought never to lie to a dog."

That seemed funny to the boys at first, but they all liked the doctor, so they stopped fooling Bob. In time he became so well trained that he would do anything his young masters told him to do. Best of all he liked to bring things out of the water; and he learned that he could trust his young friends surely, so if one of them made a motion toward the water, in Bob would go, certain that he would find there something which must be brought to land.

One afternoon the boys went down to the shore of the pond to play. While Mark and Fred were watching a turtle, little Charlie went over to a big rock that reached out into the water. All at once there was a splash and a scream, and Charlie was gone. He had slipped from the rock. The other boys ran toward him, and Mark lay down on his stomach, to reach out as far as he could; but Charlie was nowhere to be seen. In their fear both the boys screamed at the top of their voices. A second later Bob came tearing out of the bushes as if he knew something was wrong.

Both boys had the same thought at the same time. Bob could do what they could not. Each made a motion of throwing something into the water, each cried, "In Bob, in! Go fetch it!"

With a great splash Bob leaped clear of the rock and began to swim in a circle. He had not made even one turn when Charlie's head came up close at hand. The dog did not have to be told what to do. He knew that he was there to get something, so he fastened his teeth in Charlie's coat collar, and in half a minute had him in shallow water, where the boys could drag him out.

That evening, when the doctor had come down from Charlie's room and had said that he would be all right in the morning, and the boys had told him how well Bob had acted, the doctor patted the dog's curly head tenderly, and turning to Mark said, "Now do you see, my boy, why I told you never to lie to a dog?"

Earl Whitten, 11, of Chicago received a reward of $2,500 for finding and returning a lost pearl necklace valued at $25,000.

Angel Of Broadway Plans A Temple In

Los Angeles, Calif.—The "Angel of Broadway" has come to Los Angeles and she has come to stay.

In other words, Rheba Crawford, who as a Salvation Army lass did much good in New York city for a number of years, has chosen Los Angeles as the place for the great work of her career.

And she has done this despite the fact that this city already has one great woman evangelist, Almee Temple McPherson.

"Because," declares Miss Crawford, "I do not consider Mrs. McPherson as competition. There is no doubt that she does some great work. But she does not appeal to the same class of people I do. We teach along entirely different lines."

Plans A Huge Temple.
Miss Crawford has completed plans for the erection of a $2,000,000 12-story cathedral in which to carry on her work here. Right off the bat she will have the jump on Almee, whose Angelus Temple is valued at only $1,000,000. The building itself will be unique, resembling a Y. W. C. A. more than a church.

The portion of the building which faces the street will be suitable for stores on the ground floor. The remainder of the first floor will be given over to the church proper. The second floor will be in the nature of a hospital ward to care for convalescing girls who have been discharged from hospitals but who still need care and have no money. The third floor will be given over to the care of stranded girls until jobs can be found for them.

The next three floors will have rooms which will be open to poor working girls at a minimum charge of six dollars a week. The scale of prices, including two meals a day, will graduate upward, depending

SICK STOMACH

First Trial of Black-Draught Convincing, Says Lady, Who Escaped Suffering By Taking It.

Jackson, Miss.—"My first experience with Black-Draught convinced me that it was a good medicine," says Mrs. Ida Kersh, 811 South Congress Street, this city, who says she has taken Black-Draught for years.

"My trouble," writes Mrs. Kersh, "was sick headache which seemed to be caused by constipation. I used to have a thick, slimy taste in my mouth, and such a tired, bad feeling. This would be followed by headache and sick stomach. I would have to stop my work and go to bed."

"I read about Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found that by taking the Black-Draught in time, I could ward off these sick spells."

"And so for the last twenty years, when I feel the least bit bad, I take Black-Draught and feel that it has saved me much pain and sickness."

Constipation dams up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms.

Thousands of letters of praise from users of Theodor's Black-Draught, on file at the laboratories where Black-Draught is made, testify to the high esteem in which it is held for the relief of constipation and attendant ills.

upon a girl's salary. The top six floors will contain exceptionally nice apartments, which will be rented at standard prices.

Will Be Self-Supporting.

"Our idea is to make the building absolutely pay for its own upkeep," declares the evangelist. "In addition we want to make enough to carry on our welfare work. There is plenty of that to be done, too—particularly among the younger folk. I have never seen a city with as many young people as there are here. And since they are the ones in whom I am most interested, I am going to stay in Los Angeles."

"Officially, I will have no connection with our welfare work but naturally I will help as much as possible. My work will be with the church. I always have dreamed of having my own church where I could conduct services as I please and my dream is just about to be realized. My plan is to have speakers of all different religious faiths in my pulpit from time to time."

"I will cater to the younger generation because I like them, probably far better than I would have their grandparents. I don't think that the young people of today are a bit worse than young people ever were. They are merely more honest with the world and with themselves. They do as they want to and make no bones about it. And I am heartily in accord with the modern style of dress. I think it was a crime the way women used to pile clothes on themselves."

modern young woman and a very good target for the eyes. She has up-to-date ideas on all subjects and is not the least interested in changing anyone's ideas to conform with her own.

Seeks Individual Freedom.

"I think that every person has a right to live his own life as he sees fit," she says. "What someone else may do is none of our business unless it is something which directly concerns us."

"That will be the general theme of my sermons. I am not going to attempt to tell people what they should or should not do. I will point out how life may be made more beautiful by following the teachings of Christ. But I am not going to ask any pledges from my congregations."

"Neither am I going to teach anything about the hereafter. I believe we are mostly concerned with this life we are now living and if we live right we will be taken care of in the next world, whatever it may be."

Since Inauguration Day, bootleg liquor prices in Alabama have been boosted more than 400 per cent, according to George Lewis Bailes, Jefferson county solicitor.

TORTURING PAINS

Ceredo Lady Tells How She Was Unable To Find Anything To Relieve Them Until She Took Cardui.

Ceredo, W. Va.—In telling how she was benefited by taking Cardui, Mrs. Ferlie Yelkey, of this place, says: "At one time, I had a very serious spell which left me weak. At times, I would suffer such intense pains across my back and in my side that I could hardly stand it."

"I endured this over and over again. Every time the pains were worse than before."

"I was in despair because nothing helped me. I tried several remedies, but I continued to suffer."

"One day, I read about Cardui. Other women told how they had gotten strong and well after taking it. I have often been thankful for that day, for after I had taken Cardui for awhile, I felt like a different human being."

"It did not seem possible, but I did not suffer the old, torturing pains, and I really felt well. I can heartily recommend Cardui, for I know how much I improved after I took it. Since then, I have taken it several times when I have needed a tonic, and I have always been benefited. It is a wonderful help."

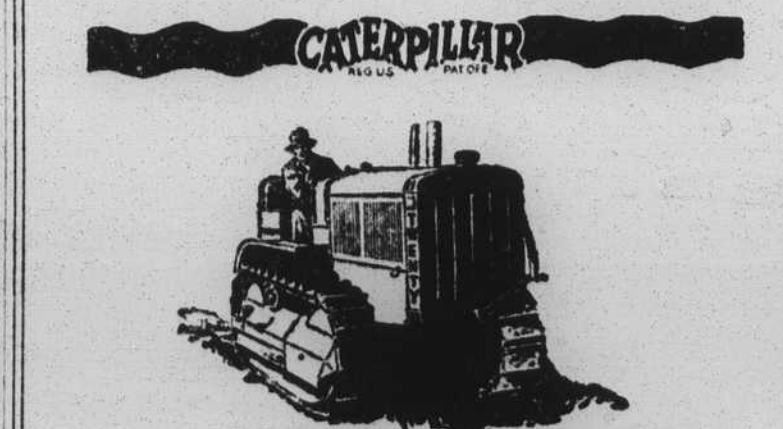

All good druggists sell Cardui. Try it for your troubles.
