

Years Of Wandering Wins Up Right Here In Shelby

Youngster Who Has Wandered Over Globe Wants To Re-main Here.

(By TED LEAGUE.) Well, since these girls were so entertaining and apparently pleased with my style of dancing, I tried to make myself as gracious as possible. But at eleven thirty when the time for good night came, I told one of them that it would be good night and good bye also, and the fellows that came over were good enough to invite me to spend the night with them, which I did. They carried me to their home, gave me a bed and breakfast and carried me to the next town the next morning.

In this town I saw an ad for a "short order cook" and applied for the job and got it. That afternoon,

ADMINISTRATRIX NOTICE. I started out on the road again, fed and found once more. I looked again for Jerry but without a sign of him and thought of going to the post office. Found a letter from him explaining that his grandmother had been seriously hurt in an auto accident and that he must go to Omaha, Neb. immediately. He also told me that he would come to South Carolina as soon as he could do so.

I hit the highway again and got a ride with a tourist headed for Chicago with a full load. He carried me to the outskirts of Memphis, Tenn., just at sundown one Sunday afternoon. It began to rain and I had no place to go, no place to eat or sleep. I asked several farmers if I might occupy their barn but to no avail and decided the best thing I could do would be to go to the saw mill and get under the shed. The saw mill happened to be just off the highway and about three o'clock in the morning I heard voices. Negroes were coming down the highway and I didn't want them to disturb me or think I was hurting anything by being there so I took a white shirt out of my suit case, put it over my head and when they were abreast the saw mill I raised up and hollered just as loud as I could. One of the negroes said "What's dat?"

That was a lot of fun though. Working at a distillery and making believe that I was a real moonshiner. It certainly took some clever acting on my part to be a moonshiner with them. (Please remember that I haven't said which mountain I was in.)

Jerry arrived on the scene a few weeks after I did, and I didn't even let him in on the secret. He informed me that his grandmother had died, leaving him ten thousand in cold cash, to be his when he became thirty-one years of age. If he had received it then we would have probably gone places, seen things and done those things you read about in fairy tales but poor Jerry, his mania for booze got the best of him and he drank just too much of it, got in jail had to pay a heavy fine. After that he returned to California.

After leaving the mountains, I came directly to other small places in North Carolina continuing the work I had started in South Carolina. That was completed several weeks ago and I resigned from my "position" as a spotter.

Too many people have the impression that the famous 18th amendment was made only to be broken and is not a friend of those engaged in the legitimate practice of helping to enforce that law. However that is all passed but I certainly had a lot of fun while it lasted.

Shelby is a fine place, growing every day, inhabited by people that believe in progress and have modern ideas. I have made numerous friends in Shelby and hope to remain here for some time, but I cannot remain here merely as a waiter in a leading cafe. I have hopes of making a connection with a growing concern where I will have a chance for advancement.

"To ramble is all right; to see the places you have dreamed about in your childhood is also o. k.; but when one comes to the realization that he is nothing but a wanderer, a floater, a ne'er do well, etc., it is high time to consider settling down to something worthwhile.

The urge to wander on to other places comes to me often. The longing for the open road or for the salt tinged air of the sea is so strong at times until I can hardly repress the desire to drop everything and go to sea again, but after fighting that urge for so long it now seems like one long, pleasant dream to think of those places I have been to.

Here's hoping that Shelby will offer some opportunity, whereby I can remain with all of you and grow with you, prosper with you and be one of you. Adios.

The beginning—(of a settled down life.)

EDGWOOD SHINGLES are cut edge-grain and positively will not warp, cup or curl—they force the old shingles tight to the sheathing and the tight and flat for fifty years and more.

Applying EDGWOOD Shingles in this manner is not new, as it has long been practised in cold climates to apply Red Cedar Shingles over tight sheathing and building paper. It is a fallacy to assume that EDGWOOD Shingles will decay if laid over old shingles — rot-promoting fungi can find no weakness in British Columbia Red Cedar, as Nature has endowed this wood with preservative oils.

EDGWOOD Shingles are cut edge-grain and permit a 5" exposure to the weather for 16" shingles, and 5 1/2" for 18" shingles. They have greater covering capacity, consequently cost no more than the ordinary flat grain shingle. In fact, they cost a whole lot less, when you realize that you have a fifty-year roof free from trouble.

THESE DEALERS recommend and Sell Edgwoods L. U. ARROWOOD, Z. J. THOMPSON, Shelby, N. C.

and I have never heard the answer he got.

Got a good ride next morning into Memphis, fixed a Ford car for a man in trouble, made two dollars on the deal, fed my face and started to Nashville, knowing that it couldn't be very far to Shelby and a fair was being held and I got a job there as a bally hood. I was one of those fierce South Sea Islanders with a ring in each ear and one in my nose. I was painted up all black with a white skin tight suit on and carried a long wicked looking knife. My job was to attract and hold a crowd while the "barker" told them about the wonderful attractions on the inside. Made $2.50 per day and board on the job. It lasted a week and the carnival went south.

I went on to Knoxville, encountered a friend of mine from Greenville, S. C. and rode all the way home with him. I learned that we were connected with the federal prohibition department and he offered me some very interesting work. That of going into the mountains, getting acquainted with the moonshiners, getting their confidence, making liquor with them if necessary, and letting him know where they worked. The remuneration was very good. For the sake of a job I took it, lived with my folks for two months and then the fun began. At the present time, there is not a single moonshiner in those mountains and they don't know that their friend and co-worker was responsible for the deluge of officers and raiding parties.

Corbett Family To Shelby From Graham

(Special to The Star.)

Graham, N. C., April 27.—To the regret of their many friends the family of Mr. J. O. Corbett have moved to Shelby where they will make their home. Mr. Corbett since the first of the year has held the position of auditor of the Cleveland Cloth mills, a place he is eminently fitted by reason of long training. For twenty-five years Mr. Corbett was bookkeeper and head of the office at Saxaphaw Cotton mill. When that business failed he became county accountant until the change of administration due to the returns from the election last November. The Presbyterian church sustains a great loss in the removal of the Corbett family. Every branch of the church had some member of the family among its workers and the Sunday school was ably superintended and managed by Mr. Corbett for eight years, and for five years he was an elder in the church. We wish them happiness in their new home.

BILIOUSNESS Arkansan Convinced Since His Childhood That "Black-Draught Can't Be Beaten" For It.

West Helena, Ark.—"I am fifty-two years of age, and I have taken Black-Draught, when needed, all my life," writes Mr. G. L. Smith, of 253 North Third Street, this city.

"When I was just a child, my mother made Black-Draught tea, and gave it to me for colds and biliousness. It was a family medicine with us.

"After I was grown and went out on the farm, working hard, I would get a dull, tired feeling and a bad taste in my mouth. I would know then, that I was bilious. I would take a few doses of Black-Draught, and soon feel good as new.

"In later years, I have taken Black-Draught and it has helped me for constipation and biliousness, and I am still of the same belief, as when a child, that Black-Draught can't be beaten."

Thousands of men and women find Black-Draught of great help in relieving the common ailments, due to constipation, biliousness and indigestion.

Black-Draught is prepared from selected medicinal herbs and roots. A natural remedy for unnatural conditions of the system.
