The suggestion of the editor of Collier's Weekly that night pedestrians on our highways wear a white handkerchief tied around an arm, to give automobile lights something to work on should be seriously regarded. But in many rural regions in the south, the suggestion will be valueless because the class of natives who prowls on the roads at night are not generally accustomed to the use of white handkerchiefs; they are devotees of the red bandanna. And there are many who don't even carry a bandanna; they merely use a thumb and forefinger.

Ty Cobb Seems Set On Retiring

Atlanta—Old Ty Cobb seems determined to go through with his promise to hang up his spikes.

Outside the baseball fold for the first time in more than 20 years, the great Georgian is showing no signs of yielding to the urge of the game he graced so long.

Here today on other business, Cobb said: "I've had enough of it. If I ever come back it will be as an owner, I will never sign again as a player and I have no desire to manage another club."

"It is going to be hard to stay out and I don't intend to stay out. One of these days you will read where Ty Cobb has bought a club. It probably will be right here in the south, too."

Cobb is as brown as a berry and says he is in first class trim. He feels he has a couple of years of playing left in his system, but wants to retire before his batting average falls below the 300 mark.

For a golfer who has been giving the links a more or less wide berth for the better part of a year, Bobby Jones is showing surprising form in his early practice rounds for the National open and National amateur tournaments.

He went around the difficult East Lake course in 65 the other day to serve notice to the golfing world that he will have to be reckoned with both at Winger Foot and at Del Monte.

Bobby reached the 17th tee with par 4-3 left for a 66. He finished in 2-4, on the 17th, which is 400 yards long, he sank a mashie-niblick pitch for a 2 and then clicked off a four on the 18th.

After that deuce on the 17th, Jones had a 2 left for a 63 which would have tied his course record made in 1922.

Back from New York and Chicago where he talked business with various fight promoters on behalf of his husky son, Pa Stribling is at Macon ready to receive delegations from Miami regarding a proposed Tommy Loughran-Young Stribling bout there next winter.

Miami sportsmen are said to be considering financing the fight which would be held in the arena the city of Miami bought from the Madison Square Garden Corporation following the Sharkey-Stribling contest in February.

The Striblings are not over to another meeting with Loughran. The Georgian has fought Tommy three times each getting a decision with the third bout a draw.
