

Tuberculosis Fraud Brought To Light

Los Angeles, Calif.—What federal authorities called one of the largest "tuberculosis cures" swindles ever perpetrated in the West was brought to light here with the indictment of five persons on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Charles F. Aycock and Glen S. Jordan, named in indictments, were arrested and bond fixed at $10,000 and $5,000, respectively. Telegraphic warrants for the arrest of Adolph Beyer, George T. Lester, and Martin H. Lester, were sent to the United States marshal at Denver, Colo.

Post office inspectors said the "guaranteed cure" preparations exploited by the defendants had victimized more than 10,000 persons to the extent of about $1,000,000 over a period of several years.

Government chemists and medical experts were unanimous in the statement that the preparations sold by the alleged combine were worthless in treating tuberculosis.

Government agents said the first of the so-called medical institutes was operated in 1910 by Aycock. A charge of fraud issued in December, 1927, prohibited delivery of mail to either himself or the Aycock Medical Institute and its allied organizations.

The second fraud order was issued last March with the discovery that Aycock had turned the management over to Jordan. From him the Lester brothers were said to have obtained a contract to operate a Denver office.

Hurling Of Hamrick Brings Third State Title To Shelby High

he had on the ball could not be hit regularly and consistently for only three Raeford batters were caught out by the Shelby outfielders, "Whitely" Bumgardner snagging the trio.

From the outset, even during the four scoreless innings in the beginning, Shelby seemed to have an edge on the Raeford team, and it was not until the ninth that the joyous Shelby fans really got worried. A couple of Billy Hodgins boys got on base, one by a walk, and one by a hit. With the tying runs on base the fidgeting started in Shelby's portion of Emmerson field. After some shaky moments two outs were checked up but both runners were still on and the game could still be nothing but a heartache to the Cleveland county group. The Raeford hitter worked Hamrick for two balls, then Hamrick settled and shot over two strikes. Three-two, a runner pawing the ground around third, knowing that he was to run on the next heave regardless. In came the ball. It was one of Hamrick's fast ones, the singing type he uses to write finis to his games. And as the ball came in the runner on base started digging for home. The Raeford hitter swung and missed, but Farris dropped the ball, and it was then that a dread silence enveloped the yelling Shelby fans. But another minute and it was a state title for Shelby. Farris threw the hitter out at first and the Raeford player who dashed home had nothing more to do than pack up the bats and return home with their easter title and nothing more.

When his Shelby high baseball team defeated Raeford Saturday at Chapel Hill for the North Carolina championship Casey Morris established his team on a tie with Clayton for the record of winning the state title more times than any other towns or cities in the state.

The Hitting Part. Rogers, Raeford catcher, led the hitting of the day with three singles, while Hamrick and Poston ranked next with two blows each, one of Hamrick's being a double. Other extra base blows were triples by Harrelson, Bethune, and McBryde, and a double by "Milky" Gold.

Wrong No. Saves Just Eight Lives

New York, May 25.—A "wrong number" today saved a family of eight from death by gas. William Banks was aroused at his Brooklyn home early today by the telephone ringing. Answering it he discovered the party at the other end had been given the wrong number. He also discovered that the house was filled with gas. Mrs. Banks had forgotten to turn off a gas heater when the family went to bed and the flames had gone out. Banks and their six children were treated at home by ambulance surgeons. The mother is in the hospital but is expected to recover.

Old Corn!
Newport, R. I.—It is illegal to keep old corn in this fashionable seaside resort. Or anywhere else in the state for that matter. This has naught to do with society's private stock. Seven farmers in Newport county have been haled to court for having last year's cornstalks. Possession of such was forbidden by the legislature in an effort to fight the corn borer.

Ruth Rewarded.
New York—Described as having contributed more than other New Yorkers to the enlargement and richness of life, Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, member of congress, has been awarded a bronze plaque by the Town Hall club.

An Unseemly Incident.
Gastonia Gazette.
The incident at the Chautauqua tent last night when one of the artists on the program, harassed by the behavior of a bunch of youngsters sitting on the front seats invited them to go to the box office, get a dime and get out, ought to be rather embarrassing to many fathers and mothers of Gastonia. Is it?

It is getting to the point where the conduct of some Gastonia youngsters, both boys and girls, in public is disgraceful. They seem to have no training at home in the simplest and most elemental manners and common courtesies.

It is common knowledge how they gather on the front rows of every entertainment at school, chautauqua tent, and elsewhere, and carry on disgraceful conduct. Their parents, if present, are sitting back somewhere, seemingly oblivious to the misconduct and misbehavior going on. There was a time when children sat with their parents in public gatherings. They knew to behave, or else they would suffer for it when they got home. That day seems to be gone forever.

Children these days enjoy not only every liberty, and privilege, but they feel licensed to exceed all bounds of common decency. Where are the manners supposed to be taught at home?

The conduct of 25 or 30 youngsters massed on the front seats of the Chautauqua tent last night was so bad that Mrs. Jackson had to stop her concert and ask them if they did not wish to go to the box office and get a dime.

Among the children who were guilty of some of this exceedingly obnoxious and unseemly disorder there were some from the supposed best homes of the city. What do their parents think of this?

Tough Luck, Fellow.
New York—Adolph Lewishohn, philanthropist, who will be 80 years old Monday, has one woe. His golf game is rotten but he sings better than he did ten years ago. Still president of half a dozen mining companies, he visits his office thrice a week.

Corn Stalks Are Used As Big Aid For "Snow Break"

Pierre, S. D.—Advisability of planting corn on the north and west sides of highways to prevent snow-drifts is being studied by farm organizations at the suggestion of Frank D. Kriebs, state secretary of agriculture.

It is noticeable, he says, that most of the snowdrifts in the road are found where meadows or plowed fields lie on the north and west sides. If corn were planted there and a five to 10-acre strip of stalks or high stubble left standing, winds from the north and west would pile the snow against them instead of sweeping it out into the highways.

Besides acting as a snow fence, the stalks would hold moisture where it is most needed. Land contiguous to highways drains rapidly. Kriebs says small grains as well as corn may be used if high stubble is left.

Farmers, he says, will be repaid three-fold by increased crops as a result of retained moisture and taxpayers will be saved much expense in removing snow and maintaining highways.
