

Charge Her With Slaying Lover Of Hubby In Chicago

Alleged To Have Slain Young Divorcee, Housekeeper, Farmer Of Husband.

Chicago.—Mrs. Catherine Cassler, who spent 27 months in jail for murder, part of the time close to the shadow of the scaffold, is back there with new murder accusations flying about her gray head.

A mesh of circumstances which began forming even before her release from jail April 30 has involved her in the inquiry into the death of Cammeola Soutar, 24-year-old divorcee whose body, a bullet through the heart, was found in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., last Friday.

In the face of police charges, Mrs. Cassler has maintained a calm denial of any knowledge concerning Miss Soutar's death. She said she knew her husband, Truman, had employed the young woman as housekeeper during part of the time she was in jail, and that she had heard other things involving the two. "Cammie," as Miss Soutar was called, was said to have called on Mrs. Cassler in jail several months ago and taunted her with a story that she and Mrs. Cassler's husband were to be married. Mrs. Cassler, however, said she "wasn't mad at her for it. I don't get jealous."

Refused To Talk. There were several circumstances that police at Valparaiso, Ind., where Mrs. Cassler is held, were unable to get the 40-year-old woman to explain Mrs. Cassler's husband provided the most damaging information. He said that three days after his wife's release from jail she had confronted Miss Soutar and himself, threatening them with a revolver.

Mrs. Cassler said she had not been near Hebron, Ind., for three years; but police pointed out that Hebron was her old home town, and they had three witnesses who claimed to have seen Mrs. Cassler there.

Miss Soutar was killed with a .32 calibre bullet. Police found a quantity of bullets of the same calibre wrapped in a handkerchief in a trunk belonging to Mrs. Cassler.

Edward Cassler, the woman's 19-year-old son, said he had taken his mother driving last Tuesday, but that they had not gone outside Chicago. He said he saw a revolver in her possession, but the weapon has not been found.

"So Much Good."

Charlotte News.

"There's so much good in the worst of us."

Carl Lippard, somewhat notorious as a result of numerous bootlegging exploits which reached the courts, was captured a couple of months ago after a roaring 40-mile automobile race. He had liquor in his car. He was put in the Wilkes county jail.

Shortly thereafter, his parents came to see him. The jailer was new. Neither visitors nor prisoner were familiar to him.

Carl Lippard saw his opportunity and grasped it. Disguised in some fashion or other, he fled the jail.

The chase that followed was widespread and intensive. It was likewise ineffectual. Apparently the bootlegger had vanished.

Federal authorities, in the meantime, had arrested the man's parents on a charge of abetting in the escape, and were holding them for trial.

Day before yesterday Carl Lippard, of his own accord, came to Wilkesboro, gave himself up, pleaded guilty to all charges against him and was sentenced to three years in the Federal penitentiary, as well as fined heavily. Someone asked him why he came back, after he had apparently gained his freedom. His answer was brief.

"I heard they had arrested my mother," he said.

HALT PELLAGRA BY CORRECT DIET

Pellagra is increasing at an alarming rate in North Carolina according to the State Board of Health. In 1928 the records show 847 deaths from this cause, an increase of 23 per cent over 1927, and this does not take into account the number of people suffering with the disease in all of its stages.

Dr. George Cooper, of the State Board of Health, in writing of pellagra says: "Pellagra, the killer, can be eliminated from this state permanently in one way alone, and that is through a kitchen clinic in every household that needs it. Food and food alone will accomplish its removal."

In the country and in the town pellagra takes its toll; and if proper diet is the factor which will wipe out this dreaded scourge, every teacher and home demonstration agent in the state, whose function it is to teach people what and how to eat for good results, should be mobilized to assist the physician in those places where pellagra has made its inroads.

To this end the Division of Home Demonstration Work offers to those suffering with the disease, the services of its nutrition specialist, Miss Mary E. Thomas, with headquarters at State college, and its home agents in fifty-six counties.

These home agents are working with rural people and when a physician has diagnosed the disease and has prescribed treatment, the services of the agents would include sending out and interpreting Dr. Joseph Goldberger's diet to such families in their respective counties as desired assistance.

This service would also include helping the family to select such parts of a pellagra-preventing diet as might be produced on the farm or by helping such a family to plan for a garden, a cow, and chicken; that the proper nutrition of father, mother and children may be insured in the future.

Dr. Goldberger recommends that the diet of those among whom this disease was most prevalent be improved by the addition of fresh lean meat, eggs and milk. He states that pellagra is caused by the absence of a pellagra-preventive vitamin, which is believed to be present in nearly all natural foods except oils and fats, but in greatly varying amounts.

It is not yet known just how much each food contains nor how much the body must have to keep it in good health, but to be on the safe side the following foods are recommended: Sweet or buttermilk, 2 pints daily; lean meat, beef, mutton, pork, fresh fowl, 1-4 to 1-2 pound each day; eggs, at least one daily; vegetables—potatoes, turnips, and turnip greens, stringbeans, tomatoes, cabbage, collards, and other vegetables, two daily; fruits—fresh, canned or dried, two servings daily; whole grain products, two servings daily.

Dr. Goldberger says: "Pellagra may occur anywhere and in anyone, but it is the poor man who is the chief sufferer from it. This explains why hard times, especially when accompanied by rising food prices, are likely to be followed by an increase in the disease."

Starches, fats and sweets at these times furnish a large part of the poor man's diet, because they are the less costly foods, and the lean meat, milk and eggs, which are so necessary for pellagra prevention, are left out of the diet because of the expense involved.

Miss Mary Thomas, nutrition specialist of the Home Demonstration Division, has prepared a diet sheet based upon the recommendations of Dr. Goldberger. This sheet will be available for distribution by June 14th and persons in any county which does not have a home demonstration agent or any other person desiring a copy of this diet sheet may address a card to the Home Demonstration Department at State College, Raleigh, or may secure one from the county home agent.

First Time In Sixteen Years.

Concord Tribune.

Judge W. F. Harding, presiding in Cabarrus superior court, heard the case of a young white man charged with participating in the theft of an automobile. During questioning of the defendant and his father it was brought out that the youth was a regular attendant at Sunday school and attended church services at least once each Sunday.

These facts made it difficult for Judge Harding to understand the action of the youth, for he declared this was the first case during his sixteen years on the bench, where a regular Sunday school attendant and church member was charged with such a crime.

That's a splendid record for our Sunday schools, regardless of the facts in this particular case, and it may be an answer to the oft-repeated question as to what we are to do about crime. It would be difficult to approximate even, the number of defendants who have appeared before Judge Harding in sixteen years, and the fact that this was the first regular Sunday school pupil to be included in the grand total speaks strikingly well of the beneficial results of Sunday school training.

Thousands to Attend Rhododendron Fest

Flower Show Will Be Held In Asheville Week Of June 17 To 22.

Asheville, June 4.—Throngs of visitors from all parts of the eastern United States and from many states of the middle west and far west will be attracted to Asheville by the rhododendron festival which will take place during the week of June 17 to 22. Transportation companies are preparing to transport an unusually large crowd. Ample hotel space to care for visitors at the event is available according to officials in charge of the festival.

Special railway rates are offered by railroads in the southeast and southwest and a number of entire excursion trains offering Pullman service will be added to the regular train service to Asheville from gateway cities prior to the opening of the event. Special summer tourist rates on railway lines prevail also from most of the major cities to Asheville throughout the summer months. These rates are expected to augment the railway travel to Asheville for the festival week.

Motor highways connecting Asheville with all sections of the country have been greatly improved during the past year and motorists will find paved roads centering upon the southern highland region available for motor tours to Asheville for the festival week according to information received from motor clubs and highway officials in the states to be traversed.

Motor tours of the Western North Carolina region are particularly delightful during the month of June owing to the fact that the motor routes in the mountains are linked with blossoming rhododendron, mountain laurel and azalea. Special tours of the most attractive flowering areas in the vicinity of Asheville will be arranged during the festival week.

ETHICAL VALUE OF ADVERTISING SHOWN

New York.—A message from President Hoover to the International Advertising Association stressing the ethical value of advertising was made public by C. C. Younggreen, president of the association. The message was occasioned by the twenty-fifth anniversary convention of the association, which is to be held in Berlin August 12 to 15. In a letter to Senator Arthur Sapper, who invited him to attend the convention, President Hoover expressed regret that pressure of affairs prevented his acceptance.

"The economic, social and international values of advertising are now so generally understood that I need not enlarge upon them," the president said in his message to the association, "but in conveying to you my cordial best wishes for a successful convention of the International Advertising Association, I should like you to know that I estimate its ethical value as of equal importance."

"The reiterated act of placing one's commercial aims before the public in cold type, day after day, compels one to subject his own motives to a criticism as severe as that which he expects from the public scrutiny. Also, the agencies estimated by the advertisers themselves for checking up the truth of advertising in general have produced the most beneficial results."

"The noteworthy advance in the ethics of business, easily perceptible in the last 20 years, is in no small measure due to the self-examination cheerfully exacted of themselves by business men in their practice of the art of advertising."

It is typical of Colonel Lindbergh that he flies non-chalantly over a whole war to call on his fiancée.—Arkansas Gazette.

A SERIOUS CHANGE

Kentucky Lady Was Seriously Ill for Months But Was Finally Relieved By Cardui.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—"At a time in my life, when my health was undergoing a serious change," says Mrs. J. C. Ray, who lives near here, "I found Cardui to be of the greatest benefit to me. I was seriously ill for about two months, and for several months I was not well. My nerves were all unstrung. I could not bear the least noise around me. I could not sleep.

"My head ached until it seemed as if it would burst. My feet and limbs swelled dreadfully. I felt tired all the time. When I was up, I dragged around the house, but most of the time I spent on the bed. I got Cardui and began taking it regularly. Very soon I could see that it was helping me. I began to sleep better and eat more. The awful nervousness got better.

"When I had finished the first bottle, I was much better than I had been for many weeks. I was so encouraged that I kept right on. Before very long I was doing all my housework and was feeling quite well."

Thousands of other women have been helped by Cardui after long suffering from weakness and nervousness.
