

Boiling Springs Fans Look For A Fast Football Eleven At Baptist School This Fall

Expect Blaine Rackley To Build A Winner. Start Training In August.

(By RENN DRUM)

Out Boiling Springs way and among alumni of the Baptist school all over this section the word now is that there will be some lively football played by the eleven representing the Baptist junior college this fall.

And the news, naturally, sounds interesting hereabouts.

Last year without doubt the Baptist college had some of the best-appearing football material in this section of the state and the grid fans, somewhat isolated from college play in this section, sat up and took interest. Perhaps it wouldn't be long until Boiling Springs would be playing Lenoir-Rhyne, Guilford and the smaller colleges with some of the games coming to Shelby? But, for some reason or the other, the team failed to come through. It looked good when it trotted on the field. Big and husky. Fast-moving, too. Yet it failed to win consistently, and football fans like all other fans like a winner.

Perking Up.

Hopes have revived, however, and already the old quarterbacks and tackles who played at Wake Forest and elsewhere are getting keyed up for what Boiling Springs may have on the gridiron this fall. And it must be said that the outlook is rosy.

First of all, Blaine Rackley, perhaps the smartest little backfield man who ever wore the Demon Deacons uniform at Wake Forest, has been employed to coach the Baptist eleven. Rackley, it is said, will have the material, and the Boiling Springs alumni, especially the old Wake Forest grads, believe he will deliver.

Start In August.

That Rackley means to exert himself to put his coaching rep and the school on the map the first year is evinced by the fact that he has already sent word to the boys who will be back next year to get out to the college by late August so that he can start training early. And that was one trouble with the junior college outfit last fall—it didn't get in good condition until it was time to play basketball.

Oak Ridge Here.

Of particular interest to Shelby fans is the announcement that the fast Oak Ridge prep school eleven will play the junior Baptists in Shelby again this fall. If Rackley delivers, that should be a pigskin party worth missing some of the big games for.

Boys Back.

Just how many of the huskies who played for Coach Hammett last fall will be back this fall is not known as yet, but a big portion of the squad will be there, it is understood. Certainly it is known Buck Coble, former Shelby High Star and

About The Fish Our Boss Had Last Week

Greensboro News.

"Filled with Pasquotank fish." Mr. Bost telegraphs from Elizabeth City, of President Lee Weather's of the Press association; "fish so fresh from the Pasquotank river that they were still wiggling when they hit the frying pan"; "four miles into the country to eat freshly-caught fish." "the fish fry on the river bank was the event of the day." Doggone, that is what comes of sending a political and theological expert to do an important news story. Fish? Fish? What kind of fish, man?

It will occasion no surprise if Mr. Bost, instead of supplying the information essential to his story, should reply that what was good enough in narrative style for the holy evangelistic chroniclers, citing Matthew 14, Luke 5, Luke 9, Mark 6, is good enough for him. If we did not know that all these stories were inspired, we'd say they are defective from a news point of view. Not to mention Jonah. Of course, if Jonah had not been inspired to be so vague in his ichthyology, while the reams and volumes of argument thus provoked would have avoided, there might nevertheless have been quite as much argument if he had, for instance, declared it was a whale that used him as bait. But it would have been much more satisfactory if he had gone ahead and told exactly what fix he was in. There is this to be said for Jonah, however: never having been in the same predicament before, he could not be expected to identify the predicament, and it is quite possible he did not see what happened to him before it happened—or for that matter, after.

Sandwich, England.—That aspiring golfer, the Prince of Wales, probably will prefer Hagen's style, but nevertheless he is seeking further ideas on improving his game. Watch the British amateur tournament, he was much interested in the little one-handed pot-hook putter of Joshua Crane, of Boston, and asked permission to inspect it.

WRECK VICTIM WAS NATIVE OF COUNTY

Perry Smith Killed In Georgia Wreck With Wife. Came From Cleveland County.

Spartanburg, June 6.—Perry A. Smith, formerly of Columbia, who had recently been making his home in Spartanburg, died at an early hour this morning at Winder, Ga., from injuries sustained in an automobile accident yesterday in which Mrs. Smith was instantly killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were returning from a visit to a Mrs. Phillips, a relative of Mrs. Smith's in Atlanta, when at a point about five miles from Lawrenceville the accident occurred. The machine of Mrs. Bona Allen of Atlanta and Buford, Ga., wife of a shoe manufacturer, was entering the main highway as the Smith machine approached the intersection, which is on a curve in the road and a down grade.

Mr. Smith struck the Allen machine a glancing blow as he swerved his car in trying to avoid a crash and his machine was plunged off an embankment and into a field, turning over four times. Mrs. Smith was thrown out before the car came to rest and Mr. Smith was caught beneath the wreckage. The machine was a total loss, while a witness estimated damage to the Allen car at $50. Mrs. Allen was reported to have been injured, also.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved here about two weeks ago from Gastonia. Mr. Smith formerly lived in Columbia, where he was overseer of spinning in Olympia mill. He left Columbia about four years ago, working since then in Lyman and Gastonia. He was commanding first lieutenant of the motor transport company 298th South Carolina National guard. Four children live in Spartanburg, while Mr. Smith's father, A. B. Smith, 111 Gadsden street, now lives in Columbia.

From Double Shoals.

A letter from Mr. P. M. Mooney, of Columbia, S. C., to The Star concerning Mr. Smith gives the following information:

Mr. Perry Albert Smith was a son of Mr. A. B. Smith and Mrs. Carrie Martin Smith. He was born and reared in the Double Shoals section of upper Cleveland county. He was a nephew of Mrs. Hampton Simmons on his mother's side and Mrs. Ham Williams on his father's side. He was one of sixteen children.

A brother, Rev. Charles Smith, a Baptist minister, died about ten years ago of flu at Fairfax, S. C. His mother, Mrs. Carrie Smith, died about four years ago.

Mr. Smith was a member of the M. E. church, South, a Mason, an Oddfellow and Junior Order of United American Mechanics. He was also commanding first lieutenant of the Motor Transport company, 29th South Carolina national guards.

Mr. Smith was a very capable mill overseer and superintendent. He was overseer at Pacific Mills, Columbia, S. C. for about seven years and was transferred to Lyman, S. C. as superintendent. He served there for four years when he resigned to take a similar position at Ninety Six, S. C. and then to Gastonia as superintendent of the Lory Mill. He was there when the mill strike occurred a few months ago.

Mr. Smith's wife before her marriage was Miss Rosa Martin of Durham.

SICK STOMACH

First Trial of Black-Draught
Convincing, Says Lady,
Who Escaped Suffering
By Taking It.

Jackson, Miss.—"My first experience with Black-Draught convinced me that it was a good medicine," says Mrs. Ida Kersh, 311 South Congress Street, this city, who says she has taken Black-Draught for years. "My trouble," writes Mrs. Kersh, "was sick headache which seemed to be caused by constipation. I used to have a thick, slimy taste in my mouth, and such a tired, bad feeling. This would be followed by headache and sick stomach. I would have to stop my work and go to bed. I read about Black-Draught and decided to try it. I found that by taking the Black-Draught in time, I could ward off these sick spells. "And so for the last twenty years, when I feel the least bit bad, I take Black-Draught and feel that it has saved me much pain and sickness." Constipation dams up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms. "Thousands of letters of praise from users of Theford's Black-Draught, on file at the laboratories where Black-Draught is made, testify to the high esteem in which it is held for the relief of constipation and attendant ills. ## The News Editor turned to the Telephone

When floods isolated southern Alabama, and press time approached with little definite news of the disaster or the extent of the damage, the news editors of the Birmingham, Alabama, Age-Herald naturally turned to the long distance operators.

They knew from experience that the telephone service would not fail if loyalty, courage and human ingenuity could maintain it. The story of what happened is told in this letter from Harry C. Frye, assistant managing editor of the paper:

"May I express the appreciation of the Birmingham Age-Herald for the one hundred per cent cooperation and effectiveness of the long distance service during the southern Alabama flood disaster. . . . In twenty-five years' experience in the newspaper business I have found that I can meet and overcome most any difficulty in gathering news beyond the local borders simply by turning the responsibility over to the telephone operators. They have never failed me, and in the flood crisis your operators performed not only true to form, but met and overcame new problems with an ingenuity that is beyond all understanding of a humble newspaper man."

The telephone organization appreciates this tribute which encourages them in their determination that service shall not fail.
