BANK HIRES MAN TO FIGHT WEEVIL

Chester, S. C.—What is said to be one of the most forward and progressive steps to be taken in an effort to combat the ravages of the boll weevil in Chester county has been made by the National Exchange Bank, of this city, where in a full time man, R. F. Palmer, of Bradley, S. C., a graduate of Clemson college who has specialized in boll weevil control, has been employed by this bank. His duties will be to advise and assist farmers in this territory, without cost, in applying intelligent control measures to the cotton fields where this service is needed. "A lot of time, effort and money," Ralph W. Coarsey, Chester county demonstration agent stated, "has been wasted in the past through applying poison where it is not needed and in putting the poison on in an effective manner. If the farmers will cooperate in this project it will be the largest demonstration of this kind ever attempted in this section, and its successful operation holds out more promise of effectively meeting the boll weevil situation than anything before attempted. The man selected for this work is a graduate of Clemson college, who has been specially trained in boll weevil control work and his employment in Chester county will prove a valuable asset to the agricultural interests of the county."

44 COUNTIES CO-OPERATE IN FIRE CONTROL WORK

Raleigh.—Addition of Warren and Washington counties will bring the list of North Carolina counties having agreements with the state department of conservation and development for forest fire control work to 44, July 1, State Forester J. S. Holmes has announced. This will bring the total to the highest ever coming under the state organization, Mr. Holmes said, and represents an increase of more than one third over the total of 32 counties co-operating with the conservation department a year ago.

Alexander county, which has been working under a short-term agreement with the state department, has also been reported to have renewed its work for next year, the forester said and Jackson county has renewed its agreement. Caldwell and Hoke counties will make large appropriations available for an increased scope of the work.

Copeland's HEALTH TALK

● Watch Flat Feet
By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
(United States Senator and former Health Commissioner of New York)
(Inquiries may be addressed to Dr. Copeland, care The Star, Shelby, N. C. If you desire a personal reply, enclose a stamped envelope, addressed back to you.)

Anything that interferes with the natural and free use of the foot in walking is bound to cause all manner of disagreeable symptoms. If your foot is thrown out of its natural position, strain is bound to be the result. Such strain is capable of causing pain extending anywhere from the foot itself through the leg and into the back.

Many a person has believed himself to be suffering from rheumatism, or even some sort of kidney or spinal trouble, when these organs and parts are really perfectly normal. He is merely paying the penalty of walking on a foot which has become too weakened in certain parts of its delicate structure to perform its function properly.

Flat-foot is the name given this trouble. It is a displacement of the bones of the foot which receive the weight of the body when standing or walking. As a result the arch of the foot is depressed or flattened. There are many causes of this condition. Chief of these are improperly fitted shoes. They may be shoes with excessive high heels, or narrow or short toes, or shoes which do not give necessary support to highly arched insteps. Another cause is the turning of the feet outward in walking. Weakened muscles and ligaments due to exhausting illness, poor health, old age, rapid growth in a child, overweight, prolonged standing on hard floors, corns and bunions and specific diseases—all these are factors in producing flat-foot.

The first measure to take in the treatment of flat-foot is to get properly adjusted shoes. These should have broad, low heels and ample space for the toes. Everybody should cultivate correct attitude in standing and walking. The sufferer from flat-foot should throw the weight of the body frequently upon the outer side of the feet while standing. He should walk with the feet held parallel and pointed forward with the weight on the outer side.

The third thing to do is to practice tip-toe exercises twice daily. The sufferer stands with the toes pointed inward, and slowly raises and lowers himself upon the toes, descending with the weight on the outer side of the heels.

If these measures do not give relief it will be necessary to strap the foot with adhesive plaster or to place it for a time in a cast or to use mechanical appliances. Your doctor or the specialist will advise you regarding such treatment. Even after the condition has been corrected from flat-foot must give close attention to the selection and fit of his shoes and to the cultivation of a proper attitude in standing and walking. He must do this if he is to avoid a return of the trouble.

Uncle Sam Tight Fisted To Some Of His Employees

$2,500-A-Year Workers Must Put Up Big Bonds. Some Employee Bonds Run High.

Washington. — Foreign nations sometimes think of good old Uncle Sam as tight-fisted, and so do some of good old Uncle Sam's employes.

The government worker getting $2500 a year who has to put up a bond of $100,000 and who, in addition to carrying responsibility for large sums of money, has to pay for the bond from his own pocket, probably is one of those who does. The bonding charge may deprive him of his vacation money and he has to keep his bond renewed.

Many federal employes are not bonded, but perhaps as many as 150,000 are, and although a few have to put up a bond of $100,000 each one has to shell out money for a bond which benefits only the government and the surety companies. There's a bill in congress which would make Uncle Sam pay the fee, but no one ever does anything about it.

Some Bonds Run High. The government has about 500,000 bonds in force, a majority them to insure the performance of contracts. The principal of these bonds run all the way from $50 to $10,000,000 and the navy department, on a ship building job, has exacted a bond as high as $15,000,000.

Fidelity bonds, covering employes, run as high as $200,000. About 100,000 persons in the postal service are bonded, including postmasters whose bonds run all the way from $5000 to $100,000, in accordance with the amount of money they handle, and mail carrier and clerks, whose sureties range from $500 to $2000 or $3000.

Until 1894 the government had to accept bonds from individual guarantors instead of from corporations and in that year there was about $50,000,000 in accumulated claims against individuals who had gone bond for public servants and had disappeared or been found to be insolvent. Congress gave the business to surety companies and today competition between them is so keen that several keep girls hanging around the White House to get each new list of nominations as fast as they come from the presidential offices, so the companies may go after the appointee for his bond business.

All government bonding is handled through the section of surety bonds in the treasury, the chief of which is Thomas L. Lawrence. This section is a clearing house for all bonds and it is Lawrence's job to see that all surety companies doing government bond business are financially strong. He has an approved list of 94 companies from which the treasury will accept bonds. Last year Lawrence made four companies renege, under penalty of losing all business with federal appointees.

About 200,000 bonds a year are taken. The largest one was for $7,000,000, covering construction work on the new department of commerce building. The government customarily takes a 50 per cent bond on all its contract work. Contractors, of course, make the government pay the bonding costs, by including them in the original bid under one heading or another. Naturally so. The contractor on the commerce building, for example, had to pay more than $160,000 for his bond.

The underpaid federal employe, of course, can't get out of paying his.

Except in a very few cases where it runs up to $250 it costs a dollar per $1000 of surety to be bonded. Those affected include all persons disbursing money or having the custody of money or property. None of the cabinet members has to give bond, but all under them are held accountable for whatever money or property they handle.
