Around Our TOWN Shelby SIDELIGHTS

SHELBY'S POLICE CHIEF, "MAC" POSTON, RECEIVED A LETTER last week which indicates that Anita Loos was not so very foolish when she wrote her book and gave it the title "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

The letter was a plaintive little epistle written by a lonely young wife of a city not so far distant. "My husband," it said in substance, "may be in your town. He's gone off and left me with a big blonde. Those big blondes, Anita, sure do seem to have that "It" preferred by gentlemen, married and otherwise. Anyway, that's what the young abandoned wife inferred in her letter, which didn't seem to lay the blame upon her inconsiderate husband—she wants him back—but rather seemed to think the big blonde had tolled him off.

Whether or not the police department will locate the erring lesser half and send him back home remains to be seen. Of course the local law is not a bureau for adjusting matrimonial troubles, but then it may be that some of Uncle Sam's laws will look askance at the manner in which they are living.

THE LETTERS RECEIVED BY A police chief, and by all officers of the law, we suppose, tell of the inside of many heartaches and tribulations in life. Life has its own little short stories, and some serials, filled with pathos, and the next time you read a short story do not consider that it could not have happened. Many strange things happen in life. Ask Chief Poston or some of the other officers of the law to permit you to read the letters they receive in one month.

One letter will be seeking a fair young daughter who became bored with the home routine and left town with some glib-talking stranger. Another will tell of a wife who tired of kitchen and household drudgery while listening to the honeyed words of a would-be shik with whom she departed town under the lure of travelling and seeing things. Still another will tell of a young boy in his early teens who followed the call of the wanderlust and the letter will usually come from a heart-broken mother sitting back home listening to every footstep coming up the front walk.

Many times the police department in Shelby as well as in other towns or cities manages to render the aid asked by the letter writers. Often they do not, for the wanderer has moved on to another town.

You never know what a blue-coated police officer has on his mind when he watches you pass a street corner. Some whose conscience may be pricking them think perhaps that the cop sees the bulge in the hip pocket, or knows that the car you are riding does not have the proper license tag, but he may be looking to see if you're a wandering

Shelby Star May Hit Major Leagues

(Houston Lawing in Hickory Record.) The state championship Shelby baseball outfit of high school circles can now boast something more than just a state title. The Shelby team placed a player right into class "B" baseball from the high school field.

Cline Owens Lee, Shelby youth, joined the Columbus club of the Southeastern league following his graduation from the Cleveland debut into professional ballroom was one of the rarest feats ever witnessed in the South for a mere high school youth. Lee collected three hits from four attempts and handled eleven assists without a bobble in his league debut at Columbus. So you can bet he's the idol of Shelby fans now, and just wait, you'll probably hear more of this youngster in the major league camps.

WEAK, RUN-DOWN

Alabama Lady Could Hardly Lift Her Head. Began To Feel Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Loxley, Ala.—"I was in an awful bad state of health," says Mrs. Charles Jenkins, of this place. "I was all run-down and weak as could be. I did not have the strength of a kitten. Some days I could hardly lift my head from the pillow. "I looked like a skeleton. I was so thin and haggard. It took all my will power to drag myself around the house. I never walked any farther than I had to, for it hurt me to stand on my feet. "My back and sides hurt me until I thought I could not stand it. "I saw myself growing gradually weaker and I did not know what to do. I tried several things but nothing helped me. "One day I read about how other women had been helped by taking Cardui, so I thought I would try it. I found it a splendid medicine. After I began to take it, I soon began to feel stronger and able to do things. "From that time to the present I have taken Cardui several times when I was run-down in health. It has never failed to help me. "Cardui should help you, too. Get a bottle today. NC-202
