

The Blameless Bishop

(W. Tom Bost in Greensboro News)

A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behavior, given to hospitality, apt to teach; Not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre; but patient, not a brawler, not covetous: One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity; (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?) First Timothy, III: 2, 3, 4, 5.

The first clerical impulse was of course a sermon on the impending heresy trial in Gastonia when the candidates for the electric chair in Raleigh are to be examined on their theology.

Meanwhile the pagan press has

WEAK AND THIN

Virginia Lady Was Just Dragging Around. Health Improved Steadily After She Took Cardui.

Bristol, Va.—"I was just about down in bed and so weak I was past going," writes Mrs. Jennie Goodman, of 718 Portsmouth Avenue, this city. Mrs. Goodman says her family was very uneasy about her condition, as she seemed so weak and thin.

"I ached all over," she explains, "and my back and sides hurt most of the time."

"I dragged around, and did not see a day of good health."

"I went to call on one of my neighbors, and she remarked about my looking so bad. She told me to get a bottle of Cardui and take it. Next Saturday night, my husband brought it home to me."

"Before I had taken Cardui a week, I was feeling much better. I continued taking it for awhile, as my health kept on improving."

"I gained in weight, and soon was feeling like a new person. Since then I have taken Cardui several times, and it has always done me good. I can recommend it to others."

Cardui has been in use so long that its merit has been proved by the experience of several generations of women.

self that he is "sober." It is a habit with him, looking sober. His sobriety actually seems to pain him, it is so intense.

Fifthly, he must be of good behaviour. Here again there is a controversy which he alone can settle. Other bishops have denounced his conduct. But Bishop Cannon has not. He is pleased with his past and will fashion his future on it. He must be given to hospitality. Well, there are many kinds of it and the Scriptures are silent on the sort that a bishop must show. If we are going to stop with his treatment of Al Smith and Tammany then we cannot in truth contend that Bishop Cannon is very long on hospitality. But Smith and Tammany have neighbors on the New York stock exchange. All the evidence is that Bishop Cannon was quite hospitable to them.

In the seventh place he must be "apt to teach." Well, in the name of prohibition has he not been calling Mr. Raskob the "chamberlain of the Pope?" Who has been more "apt to teach" religious rancor than Bishop Cannon?

Eighth place, "not given to wine." No, and wine is not given to him. Ninthly, "no striker." If he never has been a striker if he were in Gastonia he would not strike.

Tenth, not greedy of filthy lucre. First place, any lucre that he touches, whether plucked from the "margins," or picked up from the sanctified anti-Smith campaign fund, will be clean.

Eleventh requirement that he be patient is so easily met that reference to it is unnecessary. The twelfth, that he be "not a brawler" is important. How peace does brood about him! Bishop James Thomas Helflin isn't less so.

Thirteenth, that he be "not covetous," is purely relative. All that he covets is control of Democratic politics in Virginia and throughout the United States. Surely that is an honorable desire.

Fourteenth requirement that a bishop "ruleth well his own house" unfortunately is too personal for comment. But it may be guaranteed that any bishop who can run the Democratic party as he does should be able to handle his own household and have "his children in subjection with all gravity."

"For," asks the Apostle parenthetically, "if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?" Or putting it differently, how can a bishop better take care of the church than by taking care first of the Democratic organization?

Therefore, search the Scriptures and you will find not a word that condemns Bishop Cannon's stock speculations. There are 14 points not including the interrogation, in a bishop's qualifications, but not one stands in the way of stock gambling. If it be contended that it is wrong to buy on margins, it is in order to remark that many a Christian expects to get eternal life on far less than Bishop Cannon put into his stock operations.

And neither should the New York World nor the Herald Tribune of that same unholy city.

Why Not Organize City League Here With Four Teams?

Four Textile Clubs Playing Double-Header Each Saturday Would Stir Interest.

(By Renn Drem)

Why shouldn't Shelby have a four-club textile league? The town now has four fairly fast textile mill clubs all looking for games and taking the chance of picking up Saturday contests with other independent clubs over the section not booked for the day.

Would it not be considerably more convenient and could not more baseball fever be stirred up in Shelby if the four clubs were organized into a league with a proper schedule so that they might play each other each Saturday at the city park.

Would Draw Crowds. The idea, or plan of the writer is that only one game be played each week by each club, as the members of all four teams are employed the week, but the schedule should be arranged for a double-header each Saturday, thus permitting all four teams to play.

The four clubs referred to are the Cleveland Cloth mill team, the Dover-Ora team managed by Casey Morris, the Eastside mill club, and the South Shelby team. Suppose that on the first Saturday the Eastside team would play the South Shelby team in the first game of a double-header, beginning at 3 o'clock, with the Cleveland Cloth team meeting the Dover-Ora aggregation in the second game.

A double-header of that type each Saturday would without doubt bring big crowds to the city park. And therein, we believe, enters another important factor of an organized league. At present only one of the four clubs may use the city park each Saturday. This means that the other clubs must play on grounds where there are no fences and admission is hard to collect, or must play away from home.

With the four clubs playing in a double-header each Saturday at the city park with good crowds attending at 50 cents per admission—and any baseball fan in town will pay that to see a good double-header—the four teams could split the gate receipts each Saturday after the games and thus realize enough money to defray their expenses.

Why Not Try It? From every angle it appears as if more baseball interest could be worked up throughout the city with the league plan than at present and likewise the league plan would give the city amusement for the summer without the expense that goes with keeping up an uptown team.

About One Hold-Back. One draw-back that may keep some of the mills from endorsing the league idea as suggested here will likely be the matter of expense. In the past, we are informed, such a league held sway for a time in Shelby and the interest in the race became so heated that the teams began to employ professional and semi-professional players to come to town and play with their teams. Avoiding such an occurrence should a league be formed this year would be no hard matter. Strict rules and regulations should be set down at the beginning of the season and adhered to. If formed there should be a board of directors, made up of a representative from each mill and one uptown man not interested in either team as head. The day the league is formed the manager of each club should be forced to submit a list of his players. Then the league ruling should be that no other players should be employed or used during the season. In case players, now employees of some of the mills, should become sick or leave town the matter of replacing the absent players should be taken up before the directors to be sure that no "ringers" are run in to chase up the expenses and spoil the amateur idea of the league.

Should the plan appeal to the several clubs and mill officials the writer will gladly assist in whatever manner possible in organizing the circuit and in giving it publicity, for it is undisputed that a city the size of Shelby needs baseball of some type, and we believe the above plan would give the fans of the town some very interesting diamond sport for the year. If officials of the mills and the managers of the clubs are interested a meeting may be held at any time desired in the offices of The Star to organize the league and formulate a schedule.
