

FINDING FAULT

Editor of The Star:

I believe it would prove profitable to many of us if we would read carefully and prayerfully the words of Saint Paul, found in the 6th chapter of Galatians and the 1st verse. It reads like this: "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; consisting thyself, less thou also be tempted."

We all have our faults. A fault is not hard to find. It does not take a great or wise man to find a fault in another, but it does take a great and good man to try to restore a man when he finds him in a fault.

Paul says, "ye which are spiritual restore such an one." Every member of the church is supposed to be a spiritual person, and yet we even find church members glorying in the magnifying of the faults of others. Some people seem to think that a man will get by with something wrong and no one else will know about it unless they make it known to the public. Just read the words of Paul in the 7th verse of the 6th chapter of Galatians. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. "No man can get by with a wrong, it will tell on him sooner or later."

A man would get a very false notion of his standing among his friends and acquaintances if it were possible—as many would like to have it possible—to know what is said of him behind his back. One day he would go about in a glow of self-esteem, and the next he would be bowed under a sense of misapprehension and disgust. It would be impossible for him to put this and that together and "strike an average." The fact is, there is a strange human tendency to take the present friend into present confidence. With strong natures this tendency proves often a stumbling-block, with weak natures it amounts to fickleness. It is a proof, no doubt, of the universal brotherhood; but one has to watch, lest, in an unguarded moment it leads him into ever so slight disloyalty to the absent.

Never empty yourself to discover the faults of others—look to your own. You had better find out one of your own faults than ten of your neighbors. When a thing does not suit you, think of some pleasant quality in it. There is nothing so bad as it might be. Whenever you catch yourself in a fault-finding remark, say some approving one in the same breath, and you will soon be cured. Because some one else has discovered the fault and made remark about it before you did does in no degree justify you. Since the best of us have too many infirmities to answer for, says Dean Swift, we ought not to be too severe upon those of others; and, therefore, if our brother is in trouble, we ought to help him, without inquiring over-seriously what produced it.

True worth does not exult in the faults and deficiency of others; as true refinement turns away from grossness and deformity, instead of being tempted to indulge in an unmanly triumph over it.

The tongue that feeds on mischief, the babbling, the tattling, the sly whispering, the impertinent meddling, all these tongues are trespassing on the community constantly. The fiery tongue is also abroad, and being set on fire of hell, scatters firebrands among friends, sets families, neighborhoods, churches, and social circles in a flame; and, like the salamander, is wrecked when out of the burning element. The black slandering tongue is constantly preying upon the rose buds of innocence and virtue, the foliage of merit, worth, genius, and talent.

"Oh!" says some one, "I have something now, and when I meet that man I will give it to him."

And they wait for the right company and the right circumstance, and then they out with the most disagreeable things. And if they are remonstrated with, they say, "It is true," as if that were a justification of their conduct. If God should take all the things that are true of you, and make a scourge of them, and whip you with it, you would be the most miserable of men. Have you a right to take any little story you can pick up about a man, and use it in such a way as to give him pain, and injure him, making him very unhappy, then you know just how the devil feels. When he does something to make some one very unhappy, he feels just as, for the time being you feel when you have done a cruel thing, and some body is hurt, and it does you good. If you would bear your neighbor's faults, cast your eyes upon your own. The greatest of all faults is to believe we have none.

A cat watching for mice will let an elephant go by without ever looking up, so people who are mousing for the faults of others, let great excellences pass them unnoticed.

Those who strive to help others, gladdening their hearts, and making them happy, will get the most happiness and joy out of life. But those who delight to find and magnify to others the faults of others, will sooner or later find they are getting the least out of life, and have but little to live for.

God help us, as human beings, made in his image and likeness, to deal with the wayward and fallen, in the spirit of love. Alexander had an ugly scar in his forehead, received in battle. When the great artist painted his portrait, he sketched him leaning on his elbow, with his finger covering the scar. So let us paint each other with the finger of love covering the scar.

Let us obey the words of Paul, as found in Titus 3:2. "Speak evil of no man."

"Boys flying their kites, haul in their white winged birds; But you can't do that when you are flying words. Careful with fire, is good advice you know; Words, unexpressed, some times fall back dead; But God himself can't kill them, when once they are said."

Back To Life.

Coffeyville, Kansas.—Old timers in Coffeyville were surprised to read that Jack Dalton, supposed member of the notorious Dalton outlaw gang, had been married in Albuquerque, N. M., to "Cattle Annie" Burke, his boyhood sweetheart. History records that Emmett Dalton was the only one of the Dalton boys to survive a pitched battle here in 1892 when the gang raided a bank. Grattan and Bob Dalton were slain by possemen.

DESPERATE FLOOD CONDITIONS IN INDIA

London.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Calcutta described conditions resulting from the recent floods in the northeastern areas as the most desperate in history.

The commissioner of Assam Valley estimated that 30,000 persons had been driven from their homes in his district and that the flood in the Summa Valley covers about 1,800 square miles.

The entire town of Salchar is under water and hundreds of persons have been reported dead. The food shortage is acute and relief operations have been so hindered that many refugees are facing starvation.

TORTURING PAINS
Ceredo Lady Tells How She Was Unable To Find Anything To Relieve Them Until She Took Cardui.
Ceredo, Va.—In telling how she was benefited by taking Cardui, Mrs. Ferlie Yelkey, of this place, says: "At one time, I had a very serious spell which left me weak. At times, I would suffer such intense pains across my back and in my side that I could hardly stand it. I endured this over and over again. Every time the pains were worse than before. I was in despair because nothing helped me. I tried several remedies, but I continued to suffer. One day, I read about Cardui. Other women told how they had gotten strong and well after taking it. I have often been thankful for that day, for after I had taken Cardui for awhile, I felt like a different human being. It did not seem possible, but I did not suffer the old, torturing pains and I really felt well. I can heartily recommend Cardui, for I know how much I improved after I took it. Since then, I have taken it several times when I have needed a tonic, and I have always been benefited. It is a wonderful help. All good druggists sell Cardui. Try it for your troubles."

Mrs. Hoyle Dies In Rutherford County

Mrs. Susan Hoyle Who Married Columbus Hoyle Of Cleveland County Is Dead.

(Special to The Star.)

The many friends in Cleveland county of Mrs. Susan Hoyle will regret to learn of her death in Rutherford county which occurred the eighteenth of June. Mrs. Hoyle before marriage was Miss Susan Green, daughter of the late James Greene of Caroleen. She was married to Mr. Columbus Hoyle of Cleveland county 39 years ago and to this union was born nine children two preceding her to the grave several years ago. The living are Shuford, Charles, Lane, Guy, Arthur, Misses Rosie and Beatrice, all of Rutherford county. She joined the High Shoals Baptist church in early life, later moving her membership to Pleasant Grove in Cleveland county where she was a member at the time of her death. She was a noble Christian woman who had a kind word and pleasant smile to all with whom she came in contact. To know her was to love her. Her body was laid to rest in the Addersville cemetery in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives. The funeral services were conducted by the pastor of Addersville church.

The beautiful flowering offering attested the high esteem in which she was held. Many people from Cleveland county attended the funeral and extended their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family.

$15,000 Smuggling Foiled.

New York.—A brightly colored tobacco pouch, with contents just as interesting as the exterior, was found among the personal effects of Louis Remire, seaman aboard the Red Star liner Pennland as he was going ashore yesterday at West 17th street.

Remire was stopped by Customs Guard B. C. Huntley, who discovered the pouch. Its unusual weight made Huntley suspicious and protruding under a layer of tobacco, he found several diamonds.

He called Inspector F. G. Carr and together they examined the stones. Their total value was placed at $15,000.

Remire was arrested and taken to the Custom House for questioning. He denied having any knowledge of the contents of the pouch. He said it had been given to him.
