COTTON OUTBREAK—AND THE WEEVIL OUTLOOK.

(From The Columbia Record.) The outlook for cotton in South Carolina and throughout the belt from a production standpoint is unusually good, except for the boll weevil threat. There appears to be some difference of opinion as to the extent of infestation by this pest. It is, of course, recognized that weevils have emerged in large numbers, in proportion to the total going into hibernation and the survivors are breeding under generally favorable conditions.

So That's It.

(From The New York Times.) In fairness to Mr. Graustein of the International Paper and Power company it has been suggested that he may be an ardent comic-strip fan and bought newspapers right and left in order to miss nothing.
