EXPERIMENT CAUSE OF MILD SENSATION

Worcester, Mass.—The search of a professor of physics at Clark university for a new propellant for rockets designed to explore the upper strata of the air caused a sensation hereabouts yesterday but left the result of the experiment, figuratively at least, somewhat up in the air today.

First reports from the isolated district in which Professor Robert H. Goddard has his 40-foot steel tower and experiment station, were that a flaming meteor had burst with a terrific detonation. Some persons thought an airplane had crashed and so great was the excitement that two ambulances dashed about looking for victims while an airplane went aloft to search for the wreckage.

Feed Your Cotton With Chilean Nitrate of Soda

The best of cotton growers are learning to feed their crops just as the best of livestock men have learned how to scientifically feed their animals. And these cotton farmers are learning that Chilean nitrate of soda, 100 to 200 pounds per acre, applied as a side-dressing by or before the time the first blooms appear, is the finest of all foods for the growing cotton crop. Such a side-application keeps the cotton green and fruiting vigorously, long after cotton not so side-dressed has turned yellow and is throwing off all the little bolls set. Feed your cotton with Chilean nitrate of soda, and it will fatten your pocketbook. It is becoming proverbial with the best farmers in the Cotton Belt.

JOHN COTTON DANA, AGE 72 NOTED LIBRARIAN, IS DEAD

New York, July 21.—John Cotton Dana, 72, of Newark, N. J., nationally known librarian, died today at St. Vincent's hospital of acute toxemia which followed an operation he underwent some time ago.

Mississippi Farmer Uses 162 Tons Chilean Nitrate Soda on Farm This Year

From 4 1/2 tons Chilean nitrate of soda used on 90 acres of cotton in 1917, I have increased the scope of my farming operations and the use of this great fertilizing material, until this year, I am using 162 tons on between 1,100 and 1,200 acres of cotton. Whatever success I may have had as a cotton-grower, I attribute, more than to any other single factor, to Chilean nitrate of soda. For me, it has meant the difference between success and failure; and farmers everywhere in the Cotton Belt, by increasing tons of thousands, are finding it the key to big crops and farm profits.—B. L. Moss, Soso, Miss.

Twelve years' experience with Chilean Nitrate of Soda as a cotton fertilizer has led me to the certain conclusion that for each dollar spent for it I get, on an average, an increase in the cotton crop worth at least five dollars. Two hundred pounds of Chilean Nitrate per acre, costing about $5, used as a side-dressing, may be depended upon to give an increase in yield of 100 to 150 pounds of lint per acre, in average seasons. Swapping one dollar for five dollars is a trade I always like to make, and using Chilean nitrate as a side-dressing for cotton is the surest way I know of for making such a trade.—B. L. Moss, Soso, Miss.
