Run-Down

"About seven years ago, I was all run-down, worn-out and never felt good," says Mrs. Harry Cantrell, of Cape Girardeau, Mo. "A chair would be more welcome any time than my work." "I was so tired when I would arise in the morning. Instead of being rested, I felt terrible." "At last, mother told me to take Cardui, and I did. After the first bottle, I could tell a difference, and when I had taken five bottles the tired feeling was all gone. I felt like a different person, thanks to Cardui. I hope that other mothers will try Cardui. I have been wonderfully benefited by it." Try Cardui in your case.

SOCIETY PRESENTED AN OLD POE RECEIPT

By Bentley Mulford (Formerly with the Library of Congress.)

The bureau of information of the Edgar Allan Poe Society, 619 Fort Washington avenue, New York city, has just released the following exclusive story to The Ledger due to the interest manifested in the life of works of Edgar A. Poe, who at all times valiantly fought for adequate recognition of the writers in the South.

Hon. George Haven Putnam, the eighty-five year old president of G. P. Putnam's Sons, publishers, recently forwarded as a gift to the Edgar Allan Poe Society a photographic copy of a receipt given by Poe to his father. From an explanatory letter accompanying the gift the following lines are quoted: "The receipt given, in 1845, to my father by Poe for a loan (which was of course practically a gift) for $14, (the amount covering two weeks' board) is in the library of my town house.

"The record of the receipt is given. My father had published, in 1848, Poe's Eureka, or the secret of the Solar System". Poe had secured from week to week advances for $7, and later for $14 against proceeds that were to accrue to the authorship account from the sales of Eureka.

"Poe had suggested to my father that he ought to print not less than fifteen hundred thousand copies as 'the world was certainly waiting for the book.' My father printed an impression, which he hoped might prove to be but a first impression, of seven hundred and fifty copies; and at the end of the first year he had sold of these but three hundred and seventy-five copies. There were, therefore, no proceeds for authorship account, and as a fact the sales of the book were never sufficient to offset the cost of the printing. My father had evidently become somewhat fatigued with the constant applications for advances against 'profits' from the Eureka, and in the receipt now in question Poe promises to 'make no further applications,' at least in connection with this particular book."

Mr. Putnam concludes his friendly epistle to this national literary organization by writing, "I can only wish the best possible success for the undertakings of the Poe Society."

This highly valued memento of Poe will be reproduced in post card size and given to every member of Society. The original reproduction will always remain in the archives of the Society, as one of its most treasured possessions.

Mrs. Alberta Gallatin Childs, formerly from the South, is the founder-president of the Edgar Allan Poe Society. Mr. Edwin Markham, dean of the American poets, is a member of its advisory board.

CAL AND HERB ARE DIFFERENT ON FISH

Washington.—In the tale of the two presidents, Herbert Hoover and Calvin Coolidge, there is a vast difference in "fisherman's luck." "H" stands for "hard" and double "H" means doubly hard, or more plainly tough. "C" stands for "comfort" and the double "C" means very comfortable. Compare the fishing expressions of the two:

Hoover abandoned week-end trips to his Virginia preserves because of a drenched forest and quagmire roads.

On one of his first trips, in May, a low-hanging branch gave him a black eye. His provision trucks got stuck in the mud. He became lost in the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains. He slept in a rough, hastily-constructed shack while storms raged. He spent an hour and a half traversing ten miles. Poachers entered his preserve.

Over near Fredrick, Md., the citizenry protested he was usurping the favorite local pools and his secretary made plans to sell the Maryland preserve but was dissuaded.

Calvin Coolidge, in contrast, came closer to the quiescent type of angler immortalized by James Whitcomb Riley. He was chiefly concerned about the catch. News stories about the Coolidge fishing fold of the showing in his swanky fish basket.

Newly improved roads smoothed the way for the Coolidge limousine in South Dakota and Wisconsin. Game lodge and Cedar Island lodge were not conducive to hardship. For his fishing Christmas in Georgia, Coolidge had the luxurious winter home of Howard Coffin.

Stokes county farmers now have a county farm agent to advise with them after being without this service for ten years.

BUDGET FOR SCHOOLS IS SHARPLY REDUCED

Lenoir.—Slashing right and left at the county board of education's 1929-30 school budget, the county commissioners, at their meeting here yesterday, red-pencilled $20,950 proposed expenses, thereby reducing the school tax rate to approximately 65 cents. Total expenditures for the operation of schools in Caldwell county will amount to $228,207.27 in stead of the proposed $249,157.27. As a result tax payers in the county will be assessed four cents less per hundred dollars than in 1928-29.

Instead of abiding by the State regulation under the Hancock law authorizing $2,500 for the county superintendent, the commissioners increased the amount to $3,100 per year. The proposed $1,200 per year for an office stenographer was killed when the commissioners decided to dispense with the position.

DIAMONDS AND OTHER GEMS FOUND IN THIS STATE

Diamonds, rubies, sapphires and emeralds have all been found in North Carolina, according to Harry T. Davis, of the State Museum, who was not speaking of jewelry that had rolled under burlap.

Though mining in general has seldom paid in this state, Collier Cobb university geologist, has often said that from a mineralogical standpoint North Carolina is "nature's sample case."

There are but three genuinely precious stones among all the mineral species, according to Mr. Davis. These are the diamond, a form of clear varieties of red ruby and blue sapphire, and beryl, in the clear, deep green emerald. Of these precious stones North Carolina has produced all.

Authentic diamonds, said Mr. Davis have been found in the following counties: Three in Burke, two in Rutherford, one in Lincoln, two in Mecklenburg, one in Cleveland, three in McDowell and two in Franklin; a total of 14. All but the two found at the Portis gold mine in Franklin were found in the foothills of the Blue Ridge. Many other diamonds have been reported as having been found in this state but have proven to be other less valuable minerals.

Rubies and sapphires have been found in the following counties: Buncombe, Haywood, Jackson, Clay and Macon, all west of the Blue Ridge. Alexander and Mitchell counties have produced the best of the few emeralds found in this state.

In addition to the precious gems, the following semi-precious stones have been found in North Carolina: Quartz, rock crystals, amethysts of various shades, rose quartz, agates, green chrysoptase, red jasper, white and pink opal.

In the State Museum collection, most of these North Carolina found stones are included, said Mr. Davis.

THINK! Detroit, Michigan, is the automobile center of the world—it has held this distinction, steadily, for many years. A large percentage of Detroit's population are skilled workers who know the real worth of an automobile. They are first to recognize built-in value, and to distinguish the real fundamentals of QUALITY which make a car worth the price it sells for.

In May, 1925, a new high record was made when 6,518 Model "T" Ford cars and trucks were sold in Wayne County, (Detroit) Michigan. This record was then considered "THE WONDER OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD." Over 6,000 Ford cars sold in one county in one month!

That was exactly four years ago. Today, Detroit's workers are more highly skilled than ever before, due to the searching light of modern progress. They are even quicker ever to recognize THE ONE OUTSTANDING VALUE in today's automobile.

Now there is a new record—a Model "A" record in every sense of the word.

In May, 1929, in Wayne County, (Detroit) Michigan, there were sold, at retail in this one month—just passed—

9,303 New Ford Cars and Trucks As Detroit goes, SO GOES THE AUTOMOTIVE WORLD.

You owe it to yourself to investigate the merits of the NEW FORD before purchasing your next car.
