W. J. Cash And His Mercury Article

Rocky Mount Telegram.

In an open forum communication appearing in one of the leading state dailies W. J. Cash is taken to task for an article which he recently wrote in Menckin's American Mercury under the caption of "Jehovah of the Tarheels."

Jehovah, in the event one has not guessed or read the article in question, was none other than North Carolina's beloved, harmony-stressing and political ring master, the Honorable Fumfild McLenden Simmons.

Mr. Cash admittedly minced no words in his article. His style was clever, his denunciation of the senator bitter and his thoughts, expressed after a fashion that necessarily penetrated the skin of the senator and his henchmen.

But as for condemning Mr. Cash for the language he used and the thoughts which he expressed, the Telegram hardly sees where the procedure is warranted. The young North Carolinian, who comes from Governor Gardner's county of Cleveland and is a graduate of the good Baptist institution of Wake Forest, merely had the nerve to say what innumerable North Carolinians have been thinking.

Political leaders, who want to do the thinking for the voters of the state and who are striving to hand-shake and pat harmony into the democratic party "of the state through submerging the battle of last fall and hushing up every outbreak against Senator Simmons while he in turn can lambast the regulars all he desires, will probably look with scorn upon Mr. Cash and his article. If a number of them however, would express what is in their heart and not allow political fear to stifle their sincerity, many would delight in echoing a fervent "Amen" to the Mercury article.

The only trouble is that young Mr. Cash has been too outspoken, too disrespectful of harmony and too raucous in his refusal to bow before the Simmons throne. He has a right to express his views and he is but echoing the very views that lie in the minds of a large host of North Carolinians.

Mr. Cash was not nearly so hard on the senator as the senator himself and some of his allies, including biased publications who joined him and Mr. Heflin in last fall's campaign, in their attacks upon Governor Smith and other duly named leaders of the democratic party.

Political leaders need not worry about Mr. Cash's article reopening the breach of last fall and reminding citizens of the state of factional differences which should be forgotten. The breach has steadfastly existed and voters of the state do not so easily forget, especially when the senator keeps firing his broadsides against national party leaders.

Harmony is desired, it is true, but harmony that will come by compromise and understanding on both sides and not with the absolute withdrawal of the regulars and the dictation of peace terms by the senator who make a single sacrifice in the cause of harmony about

FOR YOUR OLD REFRIGERATOR

USUALLY your old refrigerator is worth only the few dollars you could bargain from the junk man.

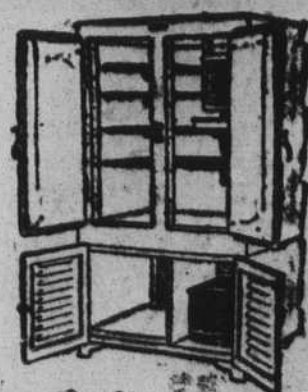

Our offer, good for the next few weeks only, shatters all precedent. To demonstrate that the refrigerator in the average home—as repeatedly stated by medical, U. S. Government and city health authorities—is inefficient, unsafe and unfit, a breeder of bacteria—we will allow you $25 for your old refrigerator as the full down payment on a new Holmes Electric Refrigerator, Model H-45, and make a giant bonfire of the old refrigerators turned in to us!

Without paying one cent down, you can have the most talked of, most advanced electric refrigerator offered for sale.

The Holmes is a radically different, advanced electric refrigerator. Its operating unit—the heart of an electric refrigerator—is the last word in compactness, simplicity and efficiency. It operates on one of the most efficient principles known.

In six short months, the Holmes has swept to such popularity that the makers have been scarcely able to keep pace with the demand. Once you have decided after trial, it will be your choice.

Act now. Come in and see the Holmes or telephone for a representative. Your old refrigerator will apply as a $25 credit toward the initial payment on any Holmes Model.
