

Webb Brothers To Play Big Match With Gobel On Monday

playing exhibition matches nearly every day and cannot answer all the demands for their services. played two South Carolina golfers here. Today they are in Gaffney to stage an exhibition over the course there at the request of Gaffney golfers. Next week they are asked to visit Lexington and other points, but are keeping Monday open for their big match with Gobel.

One This Friday

Friday afternoon of this week the Webbs play Dugan Aycock, of Eagan, and Charlie Farlowe, of Greensboro, for a club purse prize over the Charlotte Country club course.

Gobel's decision to play the Webb boys after they kicked all the other outstanding golfers of Charlotte came Monday in a message to the local club. After the Webbs defeat of the Charlotte city amateur champion, the Myers park champion and the two assistant professionals there, the Charlotte golfing world began to cull upon Gobel, who has few equals as professionals in this section, to redeem Charlotte's golfing pride from the Shelby boys who play with par on a golf course as if it is nothing. In his letter Gobel says "those Webb boys have done more to advertise golf in this state than anybody in recent years and they have meant hundreds of dollars in advertising value to Shelby—and they're just started now. It will mean a whole lot to me to beat them with the reputation they have now, but if I do not I think it will be what the crowds will expect—for here they're getting to believe all around here that no one can lick them. I'll give them a good match anyway."

The modesty of the Charlotte pro, however, fails to tell that he is one of the longest drivers in modern golf and that he is rated so highly that he seldom goes into exhibition matches other than the best tournaments. His playing, win or lose, will be of a type never seen here. The Webb boys play their golf naturally, just as they picked it up, while Gobel has been trained by the best golfing minds and in recent years he has developed some remarkable golfers. For this reason the Shelby youths will benefit by what they learn in the match, and the people who follow it will likely see par golf drilled at each hole—something rare as yet in the golfing world.

A collection will be taken at the course Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, just before the match, to pay the expenses of Gobel who makes a flat charge for playing the match and giving his feature shot exhibition.

High Praise For Shelby Horse Show

Pleased With High Type Of Men Who Took Part, The Costumes And Mounts.

To Editor of The Star: All those that enjoy a jolly crowd, beautiful women, beautiful horses, good horseback riding and everything that goes with a good time certainly got a mouth full at the Shelby horse show held at the fair grounds recently. The show was a great success.

Last year Cleveland county had one of the best fairs, if not the best, in the state, and the horse show held at Shelby is worthy of statewide popularity too.

The show was the more interesting when such prominent men as Mr. C. C. Blanton and Mr. C. R. Doggett, who may grow old in age yet remain young in physique, rode their handsome mounts like youngsters. Such demonstration is enough to inspire any old man to become young again.

The ladies rode well also. The costumes well fitted the occasion. Everybody seemed to have a jolly good time. Here's hoping Shelby will have another horse show in the near future.

Progress generally satisfactory eastern belt. Houston reports spots more active with basis advancing. Fair business Worth 21, prices firm. Look for steadier to higher market on Texas crop situation. Colored Parson Up Before Judge Again

Rev. L. C. Ivey, negro minister of parts, mostly unknown parts of recent months, ere long will be as well acquainted with the court room as with his pulpit.

He was back in court here today again—how many times it made the officers do not remember. This time the colored parson was facing two of the charges he usually faces, bad checks. In one case he was ordered to pay the check, 5, and the costs, and was taxed with the costs in the second.

Ramblin' Bill Is Hankering For N. C.

W. B. Williamson, former Cleveland county boy who has rambled over the west and has written numerous episodes for The Star under the nom de plume of "Ramblin' Bill," apparently is getting ready to return to his native state. Any way, the following editorial in a recent issue of the Charlotte Observer indicates such:

"A disabled veteran, W. B. Williamson, writes an entertaining letter to The Observer from his present home at Douglas, Arizona. He wants this paper to help him 'get justice' from the United States Veterans' Bureau in his claim for compensation for wounds received overseas in the World war. 'I am a native of North Carolina,' he writes, 'having been born at Lawndale, July 20, 1890, and I would rather be a sick man in North Carolina, than to be governor of the state of Arizona.' Veteran Williamson's complaint covers several pages of legal cap and we judge that he makes out a good case. As a more direct way in which he may get results, The Observer is turning over his documents to Capt. F. A. Hutchinson, in charge of the Veterans' Bureau, at Charlotte, whose mission is to look after cases of the kind and who has record of generally securing the relief sought."

Kraut Juice Is Now Big Beverage

Beone.—Fruit of the vine, which has made famous the sunny lands of Southern France and of Italy, is destined to have a rival, produced in the western Carolina mountains, says H. Neal Blair, superintendent of the North State Canning company, which has just begun its fall production of juice from the kraut, in the Boone factory.

Governor Gardner gets his breakfast juice from Watauga, as does an increasing number of connoisseurs outside of the mountains, for kraut juice is fast becoming the popular breakfast appetizer of America.

But juice is merely the specialty of this fall's canning season and kraut remains the main product. Mr. Blair assures his customers: Five new fermenting vats have been added with a capacity of fifty tons each, exactly doubling the capacity of the Boone plant, and the fall production minimum of sauer kraut is set at one thousand tons. This amount will be the equivalent of fifty carloads, or about 40,000 cases, besides the large quantities of juice which will be put up here this fall.
