NO BOOK CHANGE FOR 2 YEARS NOW

State Education Commissions Decide There Is No Need For Switch In Fall.

Raleigh—North Carolina parents will not have to exchange any of the textbooks in use this year for new ones at any time during the school year beginning next fall, as a result of the action of the state textbook commission, in session here which action was approved and commended by the state board of education.

The commission, which selects the textbooks in elementary grades only, had before it consideration of changes in textbooks used in the studies of arithmetic, drawing and writing, decided to make no change this year, to become effective for the 1930-31 school year.

Reading and spelling textbooks were changed last year for the school year now starting, under the law which permits changes in not more than one major and two minor changes studies in any one year. The major studies are reading, language and grammar, history, geography and arithmetic. All others are classified as minors.

The state committee on high school textbooks, due to the five-year restriction on changes, will make no changes for next year either, leaving both the elementary and high school books as they are through the 1930-31 school year. The action of the textbook commission this week means that there will be no textbook adoption in December of this year.

The commission is composed of A. E. Ackers, Roanoke Rapids, chairman; Miss Ruth Gunter, Sanford, secretary; Miss Ethel McNairy, Statesville; Miss Anne Holdford, Raleigh; Benjamin L. Smith, Shelby; R. G. Fitzgerald, Greenville, and Chester C. Haworth, Burlington.

WEAK SPELLS

"I was so weak," says Mrs. Josephine Cockcroft, of Baldock, S. C., "that I was not able to do anything."

"At certain times, I suffered dreadfully with pains in my back and sides. My head would hurt—felt like it would split open. Spells of weakness would last for weeks."

"I read of Cardui. I sent for a bottle and began taking it. My case was stubborn, and at times I almost lost hope, but I could see a little improvement. At last I began to feel much better. Then I improved rapidly. For the last year I have been in better health than I ever have been before."

"I give the credit to Cardui, for after I had given it a thorough trial, I got well."
