Kings Mountain Sequel.

Yorkville Enquirer. Every organization in York county, civic as well as fraternal, should join in with the Daughters of the American Revolution, Kings Mountain chapter of Yorkville, and work to bring about a successful celebration of the 150th anniversary of the famous battle of Kings Mountain on October 7, 1930.

Such an occasion could not but rebound to the credit of the whole of York county. In no section of the county, nor in the counties adjoining, both in South Carolina and in North Carolina but what there are many people who can trace their ancestry back to the heroes of Kings Mountain.

True, the battlefield is in York county and we are proud of that fact; but that need not keep any of our neighbors to the east or west, the north or the south, from joining in to make the celebration all that it should be.

REPORT VIOLATION OF PURE SEED LAW

Farmers Have Difficulty Securing Pure Seed; Graham To Tour State.

Complaints on the part of farmers that spurious seed labeled Fulghum oats, Abruzzi rye, or beardless barley, are being sold them by out-of-state dealers, and are often fraudulently labeled with the state seed tag, has resulted in Commissioner of Agriculture William A. Graham's decision to tour the state in company with seed authorities from the federal government in the interest of making this practice impossible.

Commissioner Graham has found it difficult, he stated, to handle these interstate shipments, partly on account of the laws regulating interstate commerce, and partly on account of the difficulty of ascertaining the true variety of these seed until the following year when the crop has matured.

The trip will be made with a view to acquainting farmers and seed dealers not only with the appearance and identifying of these particular seeds, but with the names and addresses of dealers outside the state who have appeared to be unscrupulous in dealing with North Carolina firms and farmers.

Farmers are having considerable difficulty, they report to the department, in securing pure seed of these three cereals. Seed bearing the state tag and labeled Abruzzi rye, Fulghum oats, or beardless barley turn out to be something quite different when planted.

At certain points of the state, to be announced later, the commissioner will ask the seed dealers to meet him and certain of the leading farmers at those points for a frank discussion of the problems involved. The commissioner is planning to give out samples of pure seed in order that both the dealers and the farmers may have an opportunity of comparing the genuine varieties of these crops with the common stuff that is reported to be palmed off on them by out-of-state dealers.
