

Boiling Springs Gives Oak Ridge Good Fight; 9 To 7

er Capt. Tyson, of the cadet team, ran 45 yards across the field. Boiling Springs scored in the third quarter when Chetty flipped a five pass to Cecil, who then kicked the goal. The scoring pass came on the heels of brilliant dashes made by Boney and Stroud with Eanes and Chetty giving perfect interference.

Line Play Features.
The outstanding feature of the game, however, was the great line play of Boiling Springs. In the second quarter just before Oak Ridge scored the safety the fighting Baptist line held Oak Ridge for downs seven times within the 12-yard line. In the third quarter Boiling Springs threatened to score again, going three times within the cadet five-yard line only to be stopped.

Tyson was the star for the cadets, while the Winston papers declared Stroud and Boney to be the best backs ever seen there outside of the larger colleges. The work of both backs was made possible, however, by fine interference and blocking by Eanes and Chetty, the former playing a stellar game on the defense in backing up the line. Robinson, Coble and Cecil were outstanding performers in the Baptist line.

Coach Rackley started his eleven as follows: Cecil and Kelly, end; Coble and Moore, tackles; Vaughn and Morris, guards; Robinson, center; Chetty, quarter; Boney and Eanes, halfbacks; Stroud, fullback; Petty, Wood, Waters and Jolly were substitutes used.

Reward Is Offered For Slayer Woman

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the State prison held in Raleigh they authorized Supt. Geo. Ross Pou and Farm Supt. P. A. Hodges to sign a contract with the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative association and to market all of the cotton grown on the State prison farms near Raleigh through the association.

In forwarding the contract to U. B. Blalock, general manager, Supt. Pou sent the following message: "The State prison board of directors and myself are glad to join your organization and to give it our support. On the other hand, we do not want anyone in your organization to join our organization. We are already full up."

his friends point to him as congressional timber.
Out of the entire crop of prospective congressional candidates, Major Bulwinkle continues to stand as a menace to any other Democrat who might aspire to represent the ninth district in Washington. If Major Bulwinkle should run, indications are that Mr. Jones will remain definitely out of the running as he has expressed himself as being opposed to a desperate campaign within the party.

township in the county well represented at the next meeting. It is hoped to have around 100 members to start with. Mrs. Irma Wallace the popular home agent, was present and spoke briefly. She was enthusiastic for the county club and could see much good that it might accomplish. She hopes to enlist several of her leading club women from over the county as members, as women are eligible to join.

Only two townships were not represented in the meeting Friday night, Nos. 1 and 3 and several leading citizens of each township sent word that they were detailed on account of being so busy with their farm work, cotton especially, but stated they were strong for the club.

Messrs. J. B. Smith, P. C. Gardner, A. M. Hamrick, Lawton Blanton and J. L. Herndon compose a special membership committee and have acceptance blanks for any who wish to "sign up" between now and the next meeting on November 26. All who are interested should sign one of these blanks and send it to some member of the committee. It is hoped to have Hon. Robt. R. Reynolds, of Asheville, to address the next meeting. He is a director in the national organization and recently formed the Buncombe county club with nearly 100 members.

Mr. O. C. Dixon, well known farmer of near Shelby had the distinction of being the first man to pay his initiation fee into the Cleveland county club.

Doster Nabbed In Store Thief

spook. Local police were watching every suspicious move and it was during the "shadow" scare that Police C. L. Cook, who has since killed himself, heard the large plate glass in front of the Alexander jewelry store crash about 11 o'clock on Thursday night, November 1, 1929. Making a dash to the store he saw Doster scoop out over $500 worth of jewelry from the display window and then dash for Trade alley. After a chase up the alley the officer nabbed the boy. At the time there were many who suspected that the elusive jewelry store bandit was the "shadow" who had been terrorizing Shelby homes, but there being no evidence to connect him with robberies other than the jewelry store he was convicted only on the one charge.

Praises Town.
Just after completing his road term he was arrested, officers say, for being drunk, but had been in no other trouble until his arrest Saturday afternoon late. While being taken to jail the youth told Police Chief McBride Foster that Shelby was "the sorriest town I've ever been in. A fellow can't get by with anything in this joint."

Governor Posts Reward After Grand Jury Falls To Indict Seven Accused Men.

Raleigh.—Governor Gardner, Friday night offered rewards of $100 each for information leading to the conviction of the guilty parties in the Ella May Wiggins case at Gastonia.

The statement issued follows: "At the time of the killing of Ella Wiggins, immediate arrest was made of seven parties charged with the offense. As the accused were under apprehension, I did not, in line with the policy of my office, offer rewards for the arrest and conviction of the guilty. Now that the grand jury has returned the indictment as not a true bill, it becomes my duty to offer a reward in this case, and I do so to the limit of my authority. "I hereby offer a reward of $100 each for the arrest and conviction of each of the parties guilty of this indefensible killing."

Little Change In Cotton Price Likely For Year

Agricultural Economist Says Price This Fall Will Average Near That Of Last Year.

The price of cotton this fall should average about what it did last season with no large increases or decreases in prospect, says Dr. G. W. Forster, agricultural economist at State college. If economic conditions improve in European countries, prices may advance slightly but there is no evidence that conditions in the United States will be such as to warrant any large increase in consumption.

Dr. Forster says that governmental reports show that production this year will be approximately fifteen million bales. The carry-over on July 31, 1929, is estimated to be 4,500,000 making a total supply for the year ending July 31, 1930, of approximately 19,500,000.

The world consumption of American cotton for the year ending July 31, 1929, was 15,076,000 bales and there is no reason why consumption for the season of 1929-30 will be any greater than this. Since consumption will probably equal production this year, there will not be a burdensome surplus of cotton, says Dr. Forster. In fact, the carry-over next July should not exceed 4,600,000 bales.

Economic conditions in Europe and the United States materially affect the price of cotton and industrial conditions in Europe have been such recently that lower takings of cotton has resulted. Renewed activity is looked for in the British mills since the termination of the lockout on August 19. Just what effect this will have during the remainder of the season is still problematical, but it should have a slightly bullish effect on the market says the economist. On the other hand, consumption by Japanese markets has been slightly lower this past summer.
