

Gaston Farms Losing Everywhere Is Said

Farmers Should Include Wages For Themselves In Figuring Cost Of Producing Crop.

Gastonia.—Gaston county farmers were rather surprised to learn Wednesday afternoon that they were losing money on practically all their crops, and some of them asked an explanation of the situation of E. E. Millsaps, state department man, who was conducting a meeting of Gaston farmers at the courthouse. He proceeded to explain that most farmers do not allow a fair daily labor wage for themselves and their families in figuring the cost of production.

Mr. Millsaps and County Agent Altman presented charts showing that in Gaston county corn was produced at a loss of $10 an acre, wheat at a loss of $5 an acre, oats $6, and cotton, the principal crop, at a loss of $1.02 an acre. Irish potatoes proved to be the only crop produced at a profit, showing an earning of $15.38 per acre.

The farmers were also started to learn that they did not produce but 37 1-2 per cent of the farm products consumed in the county. Charts showed that only 29 per cent of the milk consumed in the county was actually locally produced; only 57 per cent of the pork; and 27 per cent of the poultry. No farm, however, showed a production equal to consumption.

Other figures brought before the farmers showed that cotton was the only crop produced in Gaston county that could be figured as cash income, last year's cotton having brought farmers $1,300,000, with these figures based on cotton produced over and above the local consumption, estimated at 23 pounds per person.

The farmers were urged to use more legumes, and to cultivate better varieties of seed in all crops to overcome the net loss shown on practically all farm production in the county.

City officials in Glasgow refused to pay Miss Janet Moston for her hat which was eaten by rats while she was in the hospital.

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing to swallow, and, of course, nothing to upset delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the cures of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vicks slogan: "Made famous when Vicks reached 17 Million Tars Used Yearly," later raised to "21 Million," these figures are again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Tars Used Yearly"—in the United States alone.

American Business On A Sound Basis Says J. C. Penney

Head Of Big Mercantile Organization Says There Is Readjustment But No Panic.

"The basic soundness of American industry, the true economic strength of the business life of this country, and the genuineness of its prosperity have been convincingly demonstrated during the past few weeks," says J. C. Penney, chairman of the board of the J. C. Penney company. "A readjustment of market prices on general securities has been going on. Heavy market losses, accompanied in a large number of individual cases by the actual loss of accumulated fortunes, have taken place.

"Quoted prices on securities have tumbled at a rate which in years past would have brought about a panic, stifled industry, and wrought havoc with the credit and earning power of the country. "No panic has occurred, industry has kept steadily on with many new records for output and for sales being made, the credit of the country and the earning power of the country have both shown no impairment, great manufacturing organizations, in place of closing down, are declaring extra dividends out of increasing earnings.

"Retail sales organizations are preparing for good business during the next few weeks and these preparations are based on a sound analysis of what the holiday season will bring forth in the way of purchasing on the part of the general public.

"For the first time in the history of American finance, a condition of panic in the stock market has failed to produce a condition of panic or near panic in industry and in business.

"Actual losses have been confined to those who were indulging in speculative purchasing of stocks which were admittedly over-priced. The actual number of people who have lost money, or who will in any way be directly influenced by such losses, is so small as to be almost negligible, when compared with the total population of the country. "I have recently returned from an extended trip through the middle west and southeastern part of the country where I visited farmers, stock breeders, and many typical average American cities.

"In every locality where I stopped, I found optimism and a general feeling of financial security. "In general, the belief of the country is that sound forces are at work on a program which will bring a more equitable percentage of profits to the producers, without adding to costs paid by the consumer.

"Sound advice has come to the cotton growers and practical assistance is being offered through the farm relief board. The same conditions exist among the grain producers.

"Stockmen are getting the best prices in years with steady demands for all kinds of live stock.

"Many industrial areas are reporting satisfactory activity with good increases in sales volumes. These conditions are reflected in increased local building activities, bank deposits and in a general way, long as its wealth producing power remains unimpaired. The economic value of the individual is measured by his ability to create wealth, not by his ability to harbor money.

"The stock market flurry has not impaired the wealth producing ability of the individual or of industry. It has been taken care of by the banking interests without depriving the industrial interests of any of the essential support which they require.

"Your neighbor and my neighbor are earning as much or more than ever before. We are both employed with no indications that this employment is to be taken away from us.

"We are not apprehensive of the ability of our bank to take care of our savings; we are not fearful of the ability of our store keepers to continue to serve our demands. And we are all quite certain that our own town has been singularly unaffected by the situation in the speculative stock market. In the final analysis this means but one thing; the estimate of prosperity which has been set upon this country by its most interested appraisers has been fully justified."

"Falling In Love" Bad For Tuberculars

Chicago.—Falling in love is worse than having indigestion for a tubercular person, Dr. W. F. Peterson of the University of Illinois college of medicine said in a radio talk over station WLS. "Worry is one real cause of fatigue," Dr. Peterson said. "Half the battle in tuberculosis centers about the nervous apparatus. Give it a chance. Don't fret, don't be peevish don't be too sensitive and whatever you do, don't fall in love. That is worse than indigestion. Emotions upset the body more completely than most other things."

Banknotes for $1,000 were found in the dress of Miss Emily Colton of Chicago, who committed suicide.

STYLE GETS WOMEN GOWNED IN COTTON AGAIN, NOT PRICE

Gastonia Gazette.

It was through its appeal to style rather than economy that the cotton experts won the women back to wearing of cotton dresses, says The New York Times.

Volume of markets will follow the Cotton Textile Institute efforts to popularize cotton if it continues to emphasize style, the New York paper says.

Under the heading "Purple and Fine Cotton," The Times says:

"When the ladies paid handsome prices for silks 18 inches wide and had their best dresses turned and made over many times, cotton was the standby for ordinary daily wear. It was sturdy and inexpensive. As silks grew wider and cheaper, their vogue spread. Every shop girl had at least one silk frock. Cotton, still cheap and strong, was out of fashion. The commercial production of synthetic silks completed the sorrows of the cotton manufacturers. Imitation silk stockings and underwear are to the liking of young persons, even though their purses are better suited to purchasing cotton.

"Several years ago the cotton people got together in an attempt to win back their old popularity. The economy watchword was dropped. Realizing at last that style is more important to their prospective purchasers than cheapness, durability or even essential beauty, the various manufacturers put themselves into the hands of a central organization, the Cotton Textile Institute, which has made their campaign a success.

"One does not need to study its survey of the present season to know that cotton is more prominent in the making of women's garments than it has been for many years. Pique dresses and suits are fashionable everywhere. At least one sees them on the streets, in the country, on the tennis courts, and golf links. Knitted jumpers of cotton are suddenly adopted by an army of young girls who last year wore silks and wools. Quilted calico coats and jackets are seen on women of all ages. Slipers made of cotton, embroidered or printed in bright colors, are worn with the gayly colored thin cotton dresses. Silks, real or synthetic, have not lost their place, for they have been too securely established to do that; but the least obtrusive stroller or advertisement reader must have seen the sudden interest of women in the new cotton fashions.

"It is undoubtedly through emphasis on the stylishness of the new cottons that the Cotton Textile Institute has brought about the change. For women who can afford anything, the novelty and crisp beauty of the new material made an appeal when their dressmakers and favorite shops designs and at prices comparable with those they would have paid for other cloth. Women of taste found the new suggestion agreeable, for washable cotton are well suited to warm weather needs. As the leading shops and their patrons have adopted the new mode, the thousands who follow them as closely as possible are rapidly making it universal. All that remains for the Institute to maintain the present interest is what it calls "the high styled fit."

Looking Into The Future.
Best Man: "Wasn't it annoying the way that baby cried all during the ceremony?"
Maid of Honor: "It was dreadful, when I marry I shall have engraved on the invitations, 'No babies expected.'"

Cleveland Farmers Show Much Interest

Gastonia Gazette.

District Agent E. S. Millsaps stated to a Gazette reporter that the farmers of Cleveland county sat for six hours, Tuesday while he expounded the new state farm program to them. "You know," said he, "if you can keep a crowd of farmers interested for six hours on a stretch, you must have something interesting." He says that the Gardner farm program is the real thing.

Still Frightened.

A man came up to a minister and shaking his hand exclaimed, "How are you, sir? You remember me, I'm sure?"
"Well, I can't say I do," said the minister doubtfully.
"Oh, but you must. You married me 10 years ago. Don't you remember the man who forgot the time of the ceremony?"
"Ah," said the minister. "I remember you now. You got an awful fright that night."
"I did that, an' I've got her yet."
