At The Theatres

Lina Basquette, her of the beautiful form and nimble feet, who has absented her charming self from Shelby too long, is at the Webb today, starring in a Carl Laemmle special "Come Across." This star is one of the most engaging on the screen, and it may be said that any play she appears in is worth the money. "Come Across" is the story of a woman, seeker after thrills. In the piece she finds them aplenty. You will thoroughly enjoy it.

The Carolina Tar Heels, Victor and Columbia recording artists, top the bill at the Lyric today and tomorrow. These players are famous over the south, and give a program that will give you real enjoyment. Of the group of players is Doc. Walsh, known as the banjo king of the Carolinas. Thomas C. Ashley and Garley Foster are also in the company. This is string music of the hills, and it will thrill you and pep you up.

The Ku Klux Klan has occupied much space in the public prints of recent months. You've heard of how fast Klansmen work, but Mysterious Smith, in his remarkable illusion "The Klansmen," which he will offer during his six day engagement at the Princess starting Monday next, shows you how they work. This illusion not only provides some happy moments of humor, but carries a punch at the finish that will leave you gasping.

You will also be highly entertained by the amazing mental tests of Madame Olga, one of the many clever persons who assist Mr. Smith in making his show the sensational success that it has proven everywhere.

Catching Dairy Fever.

Cumberland county farmers are catching the dairy fever. Recently eight pure-bred Guernsey bulls were sold in the county for an average price of $81.

Avery Turkey Growers.

Avery turkey growers co-operated to ship a car containing 200 live birds to the Baltimore market last week and made a fair profit on the venture.
