FEARS OR DESIRES CAUSE OF DREAMS

Tennessee Medical College Attache Studies Mental Phenomena in Connection With Dreams.

Memphis, Tenn.—Dreams are prompted by a desire or a fear, and often come true, according to Dr. C. S. Simkins, of the University of Tennessee Medical College, whose hobby is mental phenomena. "Dreams frequently come true and there certainly is nothing uncanny or of the occult in their fulfillment," Dr. Simkins said, as he stopped to chat on his favorite subject.

"We make our dreams come true," he said. "When we have a dream, that is an expression of a profound wish or fear. If it is a wish we work all the harder to realize it."

"Other dreams are prompted by fears that lurk in our subconscious minds, and they, too, often come true because of the very condition that prompted the dream," he said. "You won't find many dreamers among plegmatic people, who are content to let things rock along as they are, without any change for the better."

"Dreams are more frequent and vivid among highly intelligent and mentally active people."

"An individual's experiences from the cradle to the grave form the basis for dreams. Any impulse that registers in the human field of wakefulness remains, often buried, in the mind indefinitely."

"Dreams are set off by some physical stimulus that occurs in the hypnoidal state between unconscious sleep and full wakefulness."

"The duration of a dream is very brief—no longer than three or four seconds in the normal person."

"The slightest pain may awaken a person and in that brief period before becoming awake, produce a dream that when recalled later may seem to have lasted hours."

"In a test we held a hot globe near the heel of a man. He awakened suddenly and said he had dreamed of running through hell."

"He had seen a picture of Dante's burning hell the day before and in a few brief seconds it came back to him with the heat of his foot and he dramatized it in his sleep by running."

"There are two aspects to a dream," Dr. Simkins said. "The manifest content is the picture indelibly stamped on our mind. The latent content is some experience in life, woven into this picture. In the few seconds of a dream, it is highly dramatized."

Dr. Simkins puts dream books in the same fake category as occultism and clairvoyance, but defies any person to tell him a dream that cannot be scientifically analyzed. It provides an excellent index into what the dreamer is thinking, fearing or planning, he said.

The Other Side.

(From Forbes Magazine.) The story is told of Chief Justice W. H. Taft making a rather unfortunate error in opening remarks to the graduating class of an Eastern college.

He was called upon rather unexpectedly and had not chosen his theme up to the time of entering the assembly hall. As he went through the swinging door into the hall, the plate on the door with the word "push" attracted his attention and gave him the key word for his address.

"Gentlemen," he commenced, "before entering this hall I did not know upon what subject I should talk to you. As I entered, however, one word came to my attention that expresses and embodies all the advice I could give you. It is the only thing by which you can attain success and the one thing which you, as men entering the world of business, must depend upon. You will find the subject of my talk printed on the door through which I entered."

The audience turned and gazed with amusement and surprise at the plate on the inside of the door on which was printed in large letters the word "pull."

America Afloat.

Columbia Record. It does seem that the foolishness of keeping out of the league of nations must be apparent. "Avoiding entangling alliances," yet calling a Washington conference and agreeing to some disarmament several years ago, and now sitting at the London conference and seeking an agreement with four other nations to put an end to the financial absurdity and war provoking system of building men-of-war. This is excellent. Keeping out of the league is absurd.

SALLY will be here next Monday Webb Theatre.

Missing Girl Sought As White Slave Victim

Mary Grimi, 15-year-old daughter of a wealthy Boston contractor, is believed to be held prisoner by white slavers in New York City. Police started a house-to-house search for her when her father, Joseph Grimi, arrived in New York City from Boston with a letter postmarked New York City, which contained a plea for help and that the writer was being held a prisoner by several men.

Using the Highways for Walkways.

Morganton News-Herald.

Valdese has probably saved lives by the laying of sidewalks along the route of Highway 10. In crowded centers, where the regulation of traffic within itself is a problem, it is a dangerous thing for pedestrians to use the highways. The death of the boy at Marion last week, following his being knocked off the highway in East Marion by a "hit and run" driver, was probably due to a lack of sidewalks. The wonder is that there have not been more casualties in crowded sections where pedestrians use the highways for walkways.

Right.

Concord Tribune.

Governor Gardner again tells proponents of a special session of the legislature that he sees no need for it. That means it will not be called, regardless of all the talk about a need for tax reductions. Governor Gardner doesn't see any possibility of helping conditions with a special session and he is exactly right.

POPCORN STAND BURNED;

POPCORN, ALAS IS SAVED

Winston-Salem.—A theory one's grandfathers held about illusions—that a mule will freeze to death if popcorn "snow" down upon him, came near being tested here.

A popcorn stand burned down. The unpopped grain was removed in the nick of time; otherwise the city might have been treated to an unseasonal snowstorm.

SALLY has everything—all color—all singing—all dancing. See it at the Webb theatre next Monday.

We had an extra large crowd at Sunday school and preaching service Sunday and one of the largest congregations for Saturday's service we have had in a long time. ## Blackboard Big Help.

Edenton.—Better than threatening letters, better than honeyed words, better than sorrowful pleadings, better, even, than deputy sheriffs, a local merchant finds his old-fashioned blackboard as a method of collecting bills.

He had only to announce that overdue accounts would be posted thereon, to be almost swamped by the inrush of creditors. The blackboard, he is postscripted, is still unchalked.

Winston-Salem.—Twin City firemen are having a hot February. They'd made 93 calls through 22. The old record for a month was 79.

Don't fail to see SALLY. Webb Theatre.
