The Blessing Of Work

By ROBERT C. MILLER
Shelby, N. C.

Schools and colleges are trying hard to find out the talents for the young men and women under their charge and direct them in the right channels. The trouble with a great many boys and girls when going out into the world is that they become dissatisfied with their chosen occupation and want to change it.

However one thing is certain all lines of work have a certain amount of interest and if one finds himself in the wrong place in the industrial world, he should try to get just as much out of the work he is doing as he possibly can. It will not be lost no matter what kind of work he takes later. He will find that all work is a grind once. When he gets into it and the novelty has worn off he should apply himself to his work and then he will be satisfied with it.

There is enjoyment in any task which is thoroughly mastered. Boys and girls are bound to stick to their positions for which they have prepared themselves. If they are not getting as much in return for their labor as they believe they are entitled to they should set to work to improve themselves by study and training so that they can do better work and thus command more. It's a sure way to get more money and a better job.

If a man quits one thing he is liable to quit another thing, and this want of stability is a fatal defect of character. Of course, failing health or other causes over which a man has no control may force him to change his occupation, but I am not talking about that class.

There are boys and girls who want to work in stores, shops and factories, but their families consider it "beneath" them. Their lives have been spoiled so far by their interference—that's wrong, so far as their happiness is concerned. It is necessary for every boy and girl to work for work is good for them. "If any man will not work neither let him eat", Thessalonians 2-3:10.

Any kind of work is so much better than idleness. Work is conducive to health and happiness. There is no satisfaction in being idle. Idleness breeds disease, discontent and mischief in every walk of life. Doing evil, speaking evil of others or planning trouble for them are among the evils of idleness.

Don't be ashamed of work. Work and happiness go together. Many persons enjoy hard and unpleasant work, but others complain of the "grinding, crushing toll" which is the "curse of their lives." Hard work becomes exhilarating pleasure; labor becomes service; obstacles become opportunities.

No matter how much money one may have, though it be unnecessary for him to earn anything, yet it is necessary for him to work for the sake of the saving of his own life and for his more physical well-being. Many poor working men and women say if they had plenty of money they would not work. They do not know how many wealthy people feel when they do not work. Some of the wealthiest people are among the most discontented and unhappy while many people of small means are among the happiest. Wealthy people who have cares of business and worry, often envy poor people their good health and the happy circumstances under which they are living. They do not get every thing they wish.

Work itself is not a curse but is a blessing. All life testifies to this. Everywhere we find work one of the conditions of good and of happiness. Owing to the inventions and improvements of science, and the business depression, men and women have to stick to their jobs and should develop their philosophy of life.

AUTO FATALITIES SHOW AN INCREASE

40 Met Death in State During February, Seven More Than in Same Month in 1929.

Raleigh.—Forty persons were killed in automobile accidents in North Carolina in February, the motor vehicle bureau of the state department of revenue announced. This was an increase of seven over deaths in February, 1929.

January's toll was 58, and the first two months of 1930 are well ahead of a corresponding period in 1929 in fatalities.

In February the report showed 321 persons were injured, making a total of 361 killed and injured in 223 accidents.

Three persons were the victims of "hit-and-run" drivers and two of the 17 pedestrians killed were intoxicated, the department announced. Three motorists who met death were intoxicated, it was reported, and 20 persons injured had been drinking.

Speeding was listed as the cause of seven deaths and of injuries to 24 persons. Three persons were killed in crashes with railroad trains. More persons lost their lives on Sunday than any other day, 15, and a large majority of the accidents occurred in late afternoon or early evening.

Twelve fatal accidents and 87 non-fatal accidents occurred in cities.

"I am glad to make this public statement and tell what Miller's Herb Extract has done for me and mine. It is indeed a pleasure to recommend this good medicine since it proved to be the only remedy I ever could find to give satisfaction as a laxative, system cleanser and health builder and I think every family would do well to keep a bottle on hand all the time, for I know it is a good remedy for every member of the family," said Mrs. Nellie Goutt, Route 6, Shelby, N. C., in a recent statement to the local representative at the Charlotte Drug Co.

Nine Buildings At Chimney Rock Destroyed By Fire; Heavy Loss

Disastrous Blaze Originated in Oscar Shytle Cafe, Asheville Fire Truck There.

Chimney Rock.—Fire that started at 11:39 o'clock Sunday night swept through nine buildings, with a loss estimated Monday at $75,000 before the lack of further timber brought it under control.

It was the worse conflagration in the history of the town.

Originating in Oscar Shytle's cafe, probably from a defective electric connection or stove flue, the flames spread rapidly. The George W. Logan inn was totally destroyed, with practically all its furnishings. The loss was set at between 15,000 and $20,000. Mr. Logan, his wife and two small daughters had narrow escapes from the flames.

Other buildings destroyed were the Miller Hardware company's structure, W. J. McEntire's garage, the Tar Heel inn, an office building owned by Attorney M. L. Edwards, of Rutherfordton, the Carolina Home, apartment building owned by the Citizens Building and loan association of Rutherfordton, a building owned by a Kings Mountain family and another small building. Woods were also set afire by the flames, but the blaze was quickly extinguished.

An Asheville fire truck, summoned to the scene, arrived just as the building fell in. It might have been of aid had the flames, kept back by a strong east wind, spread across Highway No. 20.

Insurance on the buildings burned is said to be between $5,000 and 10,000. The Logan property, where the damage was greatest was only slightly insured.
