

BOILING SPRINGS NEWS MENTION

Miss Buchanan Married To Mr. Kelly. College Boys and Girls Returning. Personals.

(Special to The Star.) Boiling Springs, June 5.—The many friends of Miss Lucile Buchanan here and elsewhere will be interested to learn of her marriage in Spartanburg on May 2, to Mr. Forrest Kelly of Goldsboro. Miss Buchanan has been a popular teacher in the school here for two years and will be much missed in the community. Mr. Kelly, an outstanding young athlete, attended college here the past season. Miss Velma Greene entertained a number of her friends at a lovely party on Saturday evening last, the occasion of her nineteenth birthday. A number of gifts were received by the attractive hostess. Games were played until a late hour when the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Misses Ollie and Katherine Moore returned home from their respective schools last week. Miss Ollie has been teaching in High Point the past year and Miss Katherine at Thomasville. Mr. and Mrs. Dean White and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Goode spent last week-end at Chesnee and Chimney Rock. Mr. and Mrs. Davis Greene have been living in Cliffside have come to Boiling Springs to make their home.

RADIO EYES FOR AIRPLANES COMING

Gloucester, Mass.—Radio "eyes" for airplanes to permit the conquest of fog, the greatest peril fliers, are a possible development to aid aviation, in the belief of John Hays Hammond, Jr., inventor. The use of television to transmit a picture of the landing field to a screen in the cockpit of a plane flying above is the principle involved, the inventor said. A dot or speck moving across the screen would indicate the aviator's position, he added. Hammond explained that nothing has been actually accomplished yet and that it has to do with certain possible developments. He said his work followed that of Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson of the General Electric company. Last week Dr. Alexanderson demonstrated that television could be sent across at least one mile of space for reproduction on a screen six feet square. Hammond said his method would set up a television station at an airport capable of sending out an exact picture of the airport and surrounding objects. The position of the airplane, he said, could be determined by radio compass stations located about the landing field and equipped with direction finders. An automatic radio transmitter sending from a plane could pick up the stations and the position of the plane given by plotting the intersection of the messages.

SPEECHLESS MAN IS FOUND AFTER YEARS

Brown City, Mich.—The story of a man who wandered from his home in his youth and for thirty-six years lived within forty miles of it, unable to communicate with grief-stricken relatives because he could neither read or write, was revealed here when Thomas Murray returned home, an old man with gray hair. When he was only 25 years old Murray, who could pronounce just three words, "Yes," "No," and "Dave," his uncle's name, because of throat paralysis, wandered into a swamp near his home and never returned. The countryside was diligently searched for the speechless youth and his disappearance was widely advertised but no word was ever heard of him. How long he lived in the swamp is not known but one day he appeared at a farm and made gestures indicating he was hungry. The kind-hearted farmer took pity on him and fed him but was unable to learn his identity because Murray never had learned to write. Eventually he was taken to the country poor farm and there, only a short distance from home and friends, Murray spent most of his life among strangers, the victim of his affliction. Edward Murray, his nephew who was only seven years old when Murray disappeared and who vowed he would some day find his uncle, recently learned from a chance acquaintance that a speechless man was living at the county farm. He visited the place and recognized his long-missing relative, who frantically signalled "Yes," when asked if he was Thomas Murray. Murray, now 61, was taken away to spend the remainder of his days at home with his family. In San Francisco, Little Miss Muffet, a bantam, is the first hen to be drafted into army service. An army plane took her from her humble home on a ranch to Ft. Winfield Scott, where she hatches pheasant eggs for a colonel.

MAN'S MIND BECOMES RUSTY WITH DISUSE
Des Moines.—Man's body may wear out with age but his mind "gets rusty" only with disuse, psychologists were told today by Dr. Herbert Sorenson, of the University of Minnesota. His theory that the capacity to learn does not decrease with age as long as the habit of vigorous study is kept up was presented before the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "Active study is probably the best antidote for diminishing mental capacities," he said. "Age is an influencing factor in students resuming study after a long 'lay off' but not a limitation where study has been kept up." A tin of food, canned 40 years ago, was opened recently at a food warehouse in London, and was found to be wholesome. Tweezers and razors were used by Egyptian men and women around 6,000 years ago, according to a display at Field Museum in Chicago.

Man "Auntie" Falls Into Toils Of Law
Columbia.—"Aunt" Rachael Watson, negro man about 50 years of age, more or less familiar figure to city and county police officers because of the fact that he dresses as a woman and has been considerably in demand as a nurse, is once again in the toils of the law and is now a prisoner at the Richland county jail. "Auntie," as Watson was called in the homes where he served as a nurse, was taken up a few days ago in Arden and, on a charge of disorderly conduct, was brought before George D. Cooper, member of the Arden city council, and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve 30 days in jail. He was later turned over to the county authorities and is now in jail. His arrest was brought about soon after he was recognized by a youth who had known the man in another town. He made no protest, admitted he was a man, and was sentenced to serve his time in jail. Patients who have had "Aunt" Rachael as a nurse are not slow to recommend him as about "the finest nurse" they have had. The negro, it seems, has been wearing dresses since a child. He wears a wig and easily passes as a woman. He was arrested some two or three years ago on a charge of masquerading as a woman and spent some time at the city jail. He is also said to have been in similar difficulties in Batesburg. So far as is known, no charge of misconduct of any sort, other than that of masquerading as a woman, has been brought against him.

COUGH AND RASH ON FIANCEE, MAN WANTS AN EXAMINATION
Berlin.—A young man who refused to marry a girl who had developed a chronic cough and a rash three days before the day set for the wedding unless she submitted to a medical examination was sued by the girl for breach of promise. The German high court ruled that the man's act under the circumstances did not constitute breach of promise, and that he had a perfect right to demand a health certificate from the woman he was to marry.
