

Nobody's Business

GEE McGEE

VITAL STATISTICS
Over 10 per cent of the women who drive automobiles know how, and most of them use their mouths instead of their heads in an emergency.

Less than 99 per cent of our politicians can be bought or influenced by either money or booze, and when one happens to "sell out," he keeps it a secret, but his wife finds it out by searching his pockets or riding in his new Ford.

Only 1 person out of every 9,999 will be helped by the new tariff measure. If you happen to manufacture merchandise, you will get rich by reason of its protectiveness, but if you grow or produce raw materials, you get what the little boy shot at when he thought he heard something say: "W-I-O-N-C-H."

Every third person who is ambulance to the hospital nowadays gets there by reason of speed or booze. Over 80 per cent of our court house cases are due to the same thing, but mostly booze. About 90 per cent of the folks who steal do so in order to get money to buy gasoline with. Only 20 per cent of the polecats ever let us know that they've visited in our community. They use more "scents" than some folks I know, but not all of them? (Meaning the folks).

Less than 85 individuals in the United States control more than 98 per cent of all our wealth. Mr. Hoover is a good president for those few fellows, but the masses seem to get along fairly well anyhow. Nearly 3 per cent of the foreign countries like us fine and we like Brazil and Iraq all right ourselves, so this makes it mutual. The present republican administration seems bent on making all other nations live at home and learn to do without what we produce.

Over 8 per cent of the men we elect to fill important political offices have half enough brains to run a second-hand gopher parcher. Nearly 3 per cent of the folks who talk very loud and overly boisterously about the League of Nations and the World Court can change money and count telegraph posts and spell c-a-t and patch inner tubes and push a wheel-barrow. Only 14 per cent of our school teachers believe that the North Pole is made out of wood; 11 per cent think it is made of iron and the remainder insist that it is composed of solid ice and jackfrost.

A LOG-SITTING CONTEST
flat rock, s. c. aug. the 8, 1930.
dear mr. editor:

speaking of endurance records, my wife's cousin sam started off last week up in a tree like so many other fools is now doing, but it got windy and rainy up there, so he come down and is now going for a "log-sitting" endurance record and it looks like he will win if some bobby keeps on totting my bread and butter out to him.

he started on the log last wednesday just after dinner and is still going strong, and as the vet nerry surgeon examined his hart and counted his puss, both of which seemed normal, there is no reason why sam should not set any pole setter or tree setter that has gone before, and sam likes setting down to begin with.

Sam complained a little enduring the first day about the cushions not being soft enuff, so my wife re-fixed his seat for him. she took my nice marris cheer out of the setting-room and tied it to the log so's it would let same lean back a little bit and then she put 2 spitpoons close to him so's he would not haiftr lean over much to spit.

sam's log is in the back yard and when he smells dinner cooking he commences to holler for his part of same and we always hafter feed him first, he come in last night and slept in the reglar bed provided for company, but started back early the next morning befoar anny bobby come by and ketched him out of the cheer and off the log.

he took in 18c yestiddy from add miring friends and a-good many of them give him some tobaccker also as well as a coupler the roots and he enjoyed himself good on same. he reads the papers and is keeping up with the tree setters all over the united states and has made up his mind to win the world's record at setting.

Mr. editor, if sam hafter give up his log setting anny time soon, i will ride or foam you so's you can come down and take his pitcher and have it put in the paper. sam has a strong will power and also a desire to become famous, therefoar—you can count on him doing some real setting in this log contest.

"Things I Ate Hurt Me"

"I HAD a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheiser, 7 River St., Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me. I almost quit eating."

"I would burn in my chest. I had severe headaches, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, then it would hurt me."

"A friend said to me: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught?'"

"It was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals, and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine. I soon regained my health and strength."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.

Happy Moments in Life of Edison Winner

A little light Summer reading in the field of "practical chemistry" is here engaging the attention of young Arthur G. Williams, Jr., winner of this year's Edison scholarship contest, in which boys from every State and the District of Columbia participated. Arthur is seated on the veranda of his parents' Summer home at Touisset, Mass. (International Newsreel)

Fairbanks Fame Scares Off Boys

Big Movie Actor's Home Robbed. He Talks Them Away Quick

Los Angeles—Douglas Fairbanks' prominence as an actor so awed three robbers who entered his beach home they overlooked jewelry valued at $100,000 belonging to Mary Pickford, the actor's wife, he revealed later to reporters.

Fairbanks did not report the robbery to police in an effort to keep it secret.

The robbers thrust a gun in his side, the actor said, when he started to the door which he had forgotten to lock. Fairbanks said he turned on the light, was immediately recognized by the three young bandits who became embarrassed.

The bandits said they were sorry. Fairbanks told reporters, but said they had to have money.

"I gave them $20 or $30 and they left hurriedly. They may have been sorry but they took the money anyway. I guess we got off easy at that."

Iowan Sung On Vein By Bee

Dies of Poison in 20 Minutes

Sioux City, Iowa.—Stung on the wrist by a bee as he assisted carpenters with some work about his home, M. J. Dagle, 49 years old, died within twenty minutes and before a physician could be called.

Examination by physicians showed that the sting was directly over a vein and that poison penetrated the vein and was carried directly to the heart.

Dagle some years ago fell down an elevator shaft where he was employed and his back was broken. He was still in a plaster cast at the time of his death.

Family Skeletons Revealed By Shaw

Tells Entire World That His Father Was Drunkard. Frank Talk

London—George Bernard Shaw, with his customary frankness, in the preface to a new edition of his works tells the world that his father was a drinker and that in the days of his early youth his family suffered social ostracism because of his father's habits.

"Fortunately or unfortunately, (it all depends upon how you look at it)" Shaw says, all of the doors of society were closed to his family. The elder Shaw, it seems, was not a convivial drinker but one wracked with shame and remorse when in his cups and after a mild fit he became a teetotaler—like his famous son always has been—but too late to save the family status.

"If you cannot get rid of the family skeleton you may still make it dance," says Shaw in revealing passages which seek to explain his shyness in breaking into the limelight when he first arrived in London many years ago.

Bobby Doesn't Care Much For Swimming

Brunswick, Ga.—Robert Tyre Jones has yet for golf championship, but as a swimmer once in ten years is about the best he can do.

Bobby, atop of the who's who at golf, here at Sea Island beach for a vacation, while reminiscing with friends revealed that his donning of a bathing suit and enjoyment of a dip in the surf was the first time in a decade he had been swimming.

When Bobby made his appearance in a solid black bathing suit he was besieged by photographers, who realized that getting Bobby in a bathing suit once in ten years was sompin'.

Questioned regarding the approaching national amateur at Merion, Philadelphia, the only major championship he does not hold at this time, Bobby said there were many reasons why he was looking to the event with interest.

It was at Merion five years ago, he said, that he won his first amateur championship.

Here's One For You, Frog Turns Into Bug

Kinston—Biologically bizarre as it may sound, a frog has become a bug. A radio bug.

An attendant in the Caswell Training School, the story goes, has a radio set which his children kept tuned in from the supper hour to bedtime.

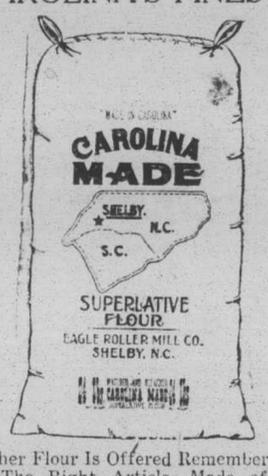

At the first note from the loud speaker, the frog hops upon the porch, takes a position in front of the screen door and there remains until the radio is turned off. Then it hops away, to reappear the next night.

According to Sam T. Pate, manufacturer, to whom and by whom the story was told, the frog has not missed a night for several weeks.

New "We" Plane

New York—An airplane built for three has been purchased by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh as a gift for his wife. Although no plans have been announced, it was considered probable the first trip would be to the summer home of her parents at North Haven, Maine, with Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., as a passenger.
