Aged Parrot Talks Of Old Love Crime

Lisbon.—A Parrot whose age is stated to be more than 180 years and which twice crossed the Atlantic ocean with his master, King Joao VI, when Brazil was a Portuguese dominion, is the only living witness of a love crime, which to this day has remained something of a mystery.

Fleeing before the Napoleonic invasion of his country King Joao, his wife, Queen Joaquina Carlotta and the court moved to Brazil, taking the bird on their enforced exile.

Dr. Silveira Cardoso, author of a new history, describes the murder of an Italian prima donna of rare beauty. He says she occupied a warm corner in the Portuguese monarch's heart and was stabbed to death by a British officer of the king's household, at the queen's instigation.

The only word uttered by the dying beauty was "Morro," meaning "I am dying," which the parrot ceaselessly repeats.

The parrot remained in royal possession until 1910, when the Republican troops dispersed the retainers of King Manuel. It has since been cared for by an old footman who lives in a small town with the pet which has survived seven kings.
