

Prohibition Topic Quiets Down As Next Election Year Nears

Officials Get Bored With Controversy As Voting Period Approaches.

Washington.—Possibly you've noticed the increasingly tolerant attitude reflected recently by those persons officially and unofficially connected with the enforcement of prohibition.

The fact that this is an election year may have something to do with it. The belligerency of the wets in recent months, too. Probably the leaders of the dry side feel that some small concessions ought to be made as a matter of strategy.

The various government officials are rather bored with the idea of trying to enforce a law that millions of persons insist on breaking is fairly obvious. Equally obvious is the fact that they won't dare recommend any change until wet voters show enough strength to enable them to do so with comparative safety, which is likely to be a long time. It is hard to tell whether the wet voters are going to make any particular impression in the fall elections, but meanwhile they have the satisfaction of believing that a few little things are being done to appease them.

Defend Personal Rights. Take, for instance, the recent declaration of leaders of various dry organizations for the sanctity of the home. Representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, the W. C. T. U. and the Committee of One Thousand issued a manifesto which drew a distinct line between the business of drinking in ones own kitchen and actually trafficking in hooch. The drys have so often spurned the "personal liberty" argument of the wets that, although they are still very far from accepting that argument, it is no less than surprising to hear them say:

"We specifically repudiate all enforcement policies that do not regard and safeguard every personal right. Personal habits and the conduct of the home are in the field of private morals. These should not be touched by the hand of the law unless they cross their boundaries and then only by due process of law. The primary attack is on the traffic of intoxicating liquors."

At the same time develops what appears to be a tendency on the part of the administration to loosen the ties which have bound it these many years to the Anti-Saloon league. Not that the administration is planning to kick the dry leaders in the pants or even to give them a polite shove. But it has become painfully plain that the Republican party isn't as dry as it thought it was, what with New Jersey, New York and Washington among other states, so the administration is virtually forced to play its own game instead of the league's. At present this game seems to be a balancing act with no immediate hope that the performer will be allowed to take a rest.

Hoover Bored. President Hoover's boredom with prohibition has been indicated by his desire to keep it off the front pages of the newspapers through avoidance of the spectacular. His desires will be carried out by the department of justice. The new policy provides for fewer killings, fewer night club raids, less attention to the small bootlegger with his pints and quarts and elimination of court congestion now caused by many petty prohibition cases. The object will be to "reduce the supply of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes" by going after the wholesale manufacturers and distributors. This program has the ring of familiarity, but it always sounds sensible and serves to appease the wrath of the wets

Lee served a delicious salad course.

South Rebels Against 1932 Hoover Boom

Open revolt by Southern Republicans against the renomination of President Hoover broke out on the eve of Claudius H. Huston's retirement through the announcement of Colonel Horace Mann (above) that his followers had banded together to send an "uninstructed" delegation to the 1932 convention, when, presumably, Hoover will be a candidate. Mrs. Rippy Grows Grapes In Triplets

Following the twin squash furnished The Star office last week by Mr. H. A. Thrift of Shelby, Route 7, Mrs. W. M. Rippy, South DeKalb street has gone him one better and exhibits a triple bunch of grapes. Two full size bunches are connected together by a smaller bunch being grown to the twin bunches. The grapes are of the old fashioned wine variety.

Governor Gardner First To Work On Mornings; At 7:45

Raleigh.—Seven hours sleep, that is all I need at this time of year," observed Gov. O. Max Gardner. "I get down to the office at 7:45 every morning, and am always the first man in sight. Rosch (the negro janitor, who has served under the last five governors), says that Governor Bickett and I are the only ones who ever got here before him. "But Rosch has moved up his schedule now, and by the time the office opens at 8:30 I have my mail pretty well read and usually have most of it answered by the time clerks begin to arrive, between 9 and 10. After that it is impossible to work without interruption, and I don't do any work at night that I don't have to do."

Better Times Seen Just Ahead For Us

Shelby Man Thinks Everything Will Pick Up Soon. Talks Drought, Crops. (By J. A. Wilson.)

Some millions of dollars are being paid every day now to the tobacco farmers of Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia and other states, and hundreds of expert hands are going into Canada to harvest and cure the crop there, with good wages and all expenses paid. In Georgia, the cotton crop is coming in and South Carolina ready to start picking, and only a few weeks now our crop, the largest we have ever made, will be ready to gather and it will require all the help in the county to take care of it on time. Just a few weeks now our crop, the largest we have ever made, will be ready to gather and it will require all the help in the county to take care of it on time. Just a few weeks now our crop, the largest we have ever made, will be ready to gather and it will require all the help in the county to take care of it on time.

Remember the time you had last year in the cold with several thousand bales unpicked at Christmas. So get your help early this time and save on grade and weight. In every town and city where banks have closed in the last year they are now paying back to depositors large sums. Five hundred thousand in Gaffney, S. C. this week and many others are doing likewise. There is a billion dollars more on deposits now in the savings banks of this country than ever before. Remember everything is in our favor now, and much will depend on how we talk and conduct our own affairs.

The extra heat and drought have killed most of the germs, boll weevils included. And if you have not gotten your share of the sunshine lately, you may wish you had along about next January. Following this extreme summer weather we should have some tropical storms to follow with an early fall and an extremely cold winter, so get your coal early, keep your water and milk supply pure and you need fear no germs for Old Sol, the best germ killer, has put in full time this summer. And we should all feel better and be thankful it is no worse.

Seaboard Farm Agent To Speak At Ellenboro Saturday

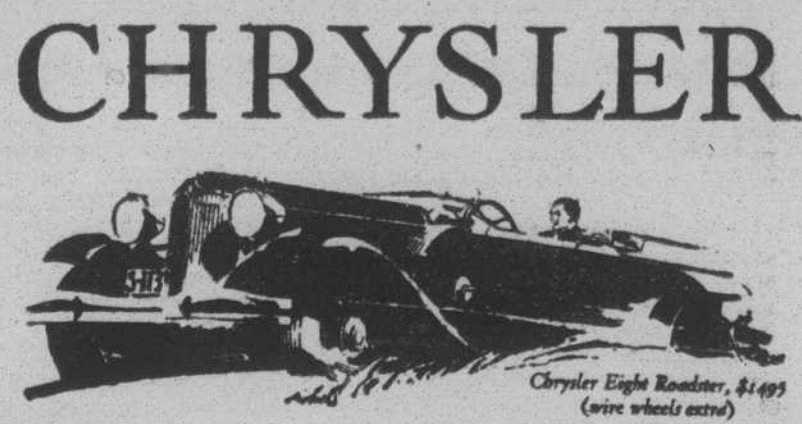

Sweet Potato Crop In That Section Increases 30 to 50 Per Cent This Season.

Mr. N. S. Lachicotte, Seaboard agricultural agent, from Hamlet, has been secured by A. B. Bushong, Ellenboro agricultural teacher, to speak to Ellenboro sweet potato growers, Saturday, August 16, at 2:30 p. m. when the growers are asked to meet in the Ellenboro school to consider storage and their problems for this year. Each grower whether stockholder or not who expects to store sweet potatoes at Ellenboro this fall is urged to be present and supply himself with storage space.

Mr. Lachicotte is interested in the sweet potato development within the Ellenboro community, and you can expect a vital message from him.

The sweet potato acreage within the Ellenboro community this year has increased from 30 to 50 percent over last year and in view of the fact that favorable growing weather has prevailed for the past few weeks it is expected that the largest crop in the history of sweet potato growing within the Ellenboro community will be harvested this season.
