GROWING VALUE OF DOLLAR AIDS STATE'S BUDGET

Increase in Purchasing Power Reduces Expense Cutting, Burke Says

Raleigh.—The increase purchasing power of the dollar, enabling the State departments and institutions to purchase practically all their supplies at from 15 to 25 per cent lower prices than they could a year ago, will take care of about half of the 30 per cent cut in the budget ordered by the Budget Bureau, Henry Burke, director of the Budget said.

"No necessary state service is being cut, or hampered because less funds are available," Mr. Burke added. "Every department of the state, except the health department could operate permanently on the present basis without an impairment of efficiency, and the health department will not be hampered to work for a year under the present conditions."

"It must be borne in mind that all the departments had their appropriations cut 10 per cent last year, and that this year they are actually operating under 10 per cent less money than they were organized to operate on. They have never been able to spend the full amounts which were appropriated by the 1929 legislature. If they had we would have a deficit today," the budget director said.

On the basis of preliminary reports, Mr. Burke outlined some of the methods department heads have adopted to reduce the budget. The Health department, faced with an actual cut of 30 per cent, because no cut was made last year, has dismissed 23 employees, all of whom have found other jobs. The work is being carried on because of the willingness of the remaining employees in the department to double up, and do extra work for the duration of the emergency, but this cannot be continued on a permanent basis.

The department of revenue has dismissed seven stenographers, all but one of which has secured another position. No additional during is being on the remaining staff, as there are less taxes for the department to collect this year, than there were at the time these stenographers and clerks were hired.

The department of labor and printing has closed employment offices in Greensboro and Winston-Salem. All other state departments are functioning as they always have, without reductions in staff or reduced salaries. Some of these departments last year saved more than the required 10 per cent, and were already on the basis of a 20 per cent reduction.

The required savings in the educational institutions are being made largely by an increase in the teaching load, the professors preferring to have larger classes, rather than take salary cuts so more professors could be hired to meet

CORN THOUGHT POOR FOODSTUFF

Luscious Roasting Ear Object of Attack By Mexican Medicos

Mexico City.—The luscious roasting ear is being attacked. A group of physicians of the Physiological Section of the Institute of Biology has just announced that corn is not a satisfactory food unless combined with other elements. The verdict is part of a special study now being made of foodstuffs used by the Mexican people.

In the report attention is called to the fact that during the past century and a considerable part of the present, chief value was attached to the chemical composition of foods, that is, proteins, fats and other nutritive elements. As the result of investigations carried forward by Erickman nutrition now is seen to depend on biological factors, or
